100 YEARS IN THE MAKING

U.S. Soccer's Centennial Celebration in 2013 Chronicles Federation's Rich History and Bright Future

For the past century, soccer in the United States has progressed to new heights with each passing decade. There have been a number of defining moments along the way that have demonstrated the impressive growth of the sport in the United States.

Among the early portion of the history books was Archie Stark, whose goal scoring exploits of the 1920s hold acclaim to this day.

Joe Gaetjens and the U.S. Men shocked the world with a 1-0 victory against heavily favored England at the 1950 FIFA World Cup in Brazil – a win that in some circles was assumed a misprint.

In 1989, Paul Caligiuri's goal from 35 yards out against Trinidad & Tobago clinched the USA's first appearance in the World Cup since 1950.

The U.S. hosted its first FIFA World Cup in 1994 across nine different cities. The 3.5 million that attended the 52 matches is unprecedented in World Cup history and catapulted the game to a new level in the USA.

The U.S. Women's National Team, which was born in the mid-1980s, has showcased its world dominance over nearly three decades with FIFA Women's World Cup crowns in 1991 and 1999, the latter drawing more than 90,000 fans for the championship victory against China PR on July 10. The U.S. WNT has also won an unparalleled four gold medals in Olympic competition, most recently the 2012 London Olympics.

These events barely scratch the surface of U.S. Soccer's history as the Federation moves into its Centennial in 2013. Together with its membership, U.S. Soccer is embarking on a yearlong celebration to honor its history, paying tribute to the progress made and demonstrate a future with unlimited potential.

The yearlong celebration includes the creation of a commemorative book featuring articles, interviews and photos from U.S. Soccer's archives, historic content on ussoccer.com with rare photos, unique videos and engaging interviews, and several unique grassroots activities in conjunction with its membership to help honor the milestone.

Among some of the content on ussoccer.com includes the regular "100 Moments" feature – a handpicked selection of historic feats and events over the past century consisting of articles, audio and video segments. The "Hidden Caps" feature chronicles players who earned only a few appearances during their career, providing the back story of these unknown but interesting stories. Former National Team players will also catch up with U.S. Soccer to chat about their post-playing days in "Where Are They Now."

Fans can look forward to specific Centennial events in 2013, including a celebration of the Federation's 100th anniversary on April 5, 2013, and a weekend during the summer that features a U.S. Men's National Team match, U.S. Soccer's Annual General Meeting and a number of activities for supporters.

"There is an incredibly rich and varied history of soccer in the United States in the last 100 years, and the Centennial offers a wonderful opportunity to honor the achievements of so many, and to look forward as we continue to grow the game," U.S. Soccer President Sunil Gulati said. "The passion, commitment and vision of our membership has been the bedrock of all that has been accomplished here, and we are excited about bringing into focus the stories and people that have contributed so much to our success."

U.S. SOCCER FEDERATION - HISTORY

Throughout the 100-year history of U.S. Soccer, the organization has been known by three different names:

- U.S. Foot Ball Association – 1913-1944
- U.S. Soccer Football Association – 1945-1973
- U.S. Soccer Federation – 1974-Current

NEW YEAR, NEW COACH, NEW GOALS

After an emotional, exciting, historic and highly successful 2012, the U.S. Women's National Team will now refocus and reshape under new head coach Tom Sermanni. With Women's World Cup qualifying likely not commencing until the end of 2014, and with the new National Women's Soccer League (NWSL) set to begin play in the spring, one of Sermanni's main goals will be expanding the player pool. Early in his tenure he has shown the willingness to give young players a chance to perform, and he will continue to invest in veterans who he believes can have an impact as the world's top-ranked women's soccer team looks toward qualification for the 2015 FIFA Women's World Cup in Canada.

The majority of the team that won the 2012 Olympic gold medal in London, England, in front of 80,203 fans at Wembley Stadium will make a run at the next Women's World Cup roster, but there should also be plenty of new faces. With many months, games and training camps to evaluate, as well as the next generation of professional players fortunate to get a chance to improve in NWSL's day-to-day club environment, Sermanni will have plenty of time to identify the core of the team he hopes to bring to Canada.

Although the schedule of international matches after the traditional two-year World Cup/Olympic cycle has generally been scaled back, Sermanni will still have plenty of high-level matches in which to evaluate players as well as the luxury to bring some young players along slowly. He will also be able to watch a complete schedule of NWSL matches to identify any in-form new and/or younger players and continue to watch the progress of his regulars on the club level.

The U.S. team will play a handful of domestic friendlies in 2013, two in February and then several spread out over the summer and fall. Of course, the USA will play in the annual Algarve Cup in Portugal and has several high-level away exhibitions scheduled, in Germany, the Netherlands and Canada.

The USA has won the last three Olympic gold medals and four overall, after taking home silver in 2000 and winning the inaugural gold medal for women's soccer in 1996, but the World Cup Trophy has eluded the team since 1999. After third-place finishes in 2003 and 2007, and a second in 2011, players and staff will be fully committed to doing whatever it takes to reach the top of the podium in 2015.

The U.S. Women began and ended 2012 in the top spot in the FIFA Women's World Rankings. Through the end of 2012 the team had lost just nine matches in regulation time since the end of the 2003 FIFA Women's World Cup – just six under former head coach Pia Sundhage – and will look to keep building the tradition that has made the USA one of the most successful women's soccer nations in history.

SERMANNI LOOKS TO CREATE COMPETITION FOR ROSTER SPOTS

Sermanni comes to the USA after coaching Australia in two Women's World Cup tournaments (2007 and 2011). He knows what it takes to compete on the world's stage, and he likes what he sees in the USA's current player pool. The challenge of finding the perfect mix of young talent and vastly experienced veterans is one that many coaches face, but with so many talented options, it will surely be an exciting one to undertake.

The USA will be relying extensively on the pool of talent that took them to and through the Olympic Games in the United Kingdom, but there will be an infusion of young players over the next few years.

In goal, the USA has depth that most countries would envy. Long-time starter Hope Solo will use a good portion of 2013 to recover from wrist surgery but should be fit and healthy in plenty of time to lay a claim to the No. 1 spot. Veteran Nicole Barnhart, who is approaching 50 caps, has always performed extremely well when called upon, and the duo has been the USA's first-choice 'keepers since 2008. Pushing Solo and Barnhart will be Jill Loyden, who will be recovering for a second time from a broken bone in her hand, as well as Ashlyn Harris, the USA's starter at the 2002 and 2004 FIFA U-19 Women's World Cup who now has several valuable seasons of professional soccer on her resume. Young goalkeepers Jane Campbell, who was the USA's starter at the 2012 FIFA U-17 Women's World Cup, and U.S. U-23 'keeper Adrianna Franch, who will be playing her first pro season in the NWSL, will also be pushing for training camp call-ups.

U.S. captain Christie Rampone, the most capped active player in the world and still a defensive force, put off retirement for another potential run to the Women's World Cup and adds tremendous experience and stability to the U.S. back line. She is joined by several players with extensive experience and the versatility to play various positions across the back four. The USA has four other players who have shown they can play in the center or at outside back. Rachel Buehler has consistently been Rampone's partner in the middle but has also shown an ability to play both outside back positions. Becky Sauerbrunn played some crucial minutes at center-back as a substitute for Buehler in the semifinal and final at the 2012 Olympics and has shown to be an extremely reliable option on defense. After several years of trying to break into the program, Whitney Engen has shown signs of being a solid option at center back as well. Julie Johnston, the 2012 U.S. Soccer Young Female Athlete of the Year and the captain of the U.S. team that won the 2012 FIFA U-20 Women's World Cup, is just starting to break into the U.S. team as one of the youngest players in the pool.

The USA is increasing its depth at outside back as well. While Amy LePeilbet, who started all six games in the Women's World Cup at left back and five games at the 2012 Olympics, will have to recover from ACL surgery to regain her spot on the U.S. back line, Ali Krieger is fully recovered from her own ACL surgery and shows signs of locking down the right back spot in which she performed so well at the 2011 Women's World Cup.

Kelley O'Hara, a forward or flank midfielder during her entire college, youth national team and full national team career, switched full-time to outside back in 2012, played every minute of the Olympics and has turned into a highly productive player at left back. Meghan Klingenberg, a starter on the USA's U-20 world champions in 2008, has shown promise during the very beginning of her full international career, playing well at both right back and right midfield, and after recovering from shoulder surgery is ready to make a run at a regular spot.

Crystal Dunn, a member of the USA's 2012 U-20 Women's World Cup champions and the 2012 MAC Hermann Trophy winner, played both center back and outside back at the youth level, but it seems her future with the senior side lies on the flank.

The USA boasts an excellent combination of center midfielders in veterans Carli Lloyd and Shannon Boxx, who have complemented each other well since the 2008 Olympics and who played key roles in winning the 2012 Olympic gold medal game. Lloyd famously scored both goals in the 2-1 victory against Japan while Boxx recovered from injury early in the tournament to play the entire game. The duo will look to keep that chemistry going, but the U.S. has other options in the center as well. Both Lauren Cheney and Tobin Heath have shown the ability to play attacking midfielder, although Heath is a more natural flank player and Cheney played on the outside during the Women's World Cup in Germany. Cheney is a long-time striker who has proven her worth at that position on the international level, but she has also shown some tremendous qualities in the midfield with her ability to hold the ball high, allowing her team to get up the field while collapsing the defense and opening up the flanks as she is a talented final passer. Heath is perhaps the most technically gifted player on the U.S. team, and her composure and ability to break down defenses on the dribble give the USA some tempting options in the center of the park.

Yael Averbuch, who possesses one of the best shots and most accurate long balls on the team, has been a part of the national teams program for quite a while, but bolstered by a stretch playing in Europe, she has shown the potential to make an impact at defensive midfield on the international level as well.

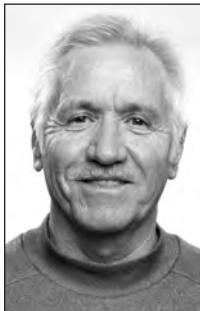

The USA is remarkably stocked at flank midfield, going four-deep at the position, something rarely seen on the U.S. team in past years. Veteran Heather O'Reilly has been a consistent positive presence at right midfield over the years and holds the U.S. record for consecutive games played. The crafty Megan Rapinoe, who was a breakout star at the 2011 Women's World Cup and continued her great run at the Olympics, has shown she can play on the right or the left. Of course, the remarkably skillful Heath, a deceptive dribbler, is always an option at either flank midfield position, and her increased strength and experience have earned her increased playing time over the past few years. Kristie Mewis, a true left-footed player and the 2008 U.S. Soccer Young Female Athlete of the Year, has shown signs of being an impact player and exhibits tremendous promise for the future.

The USA is spoiled with a bevy of talented goal scorers led by the 2012 FIFA Women's World Player of the Year Abby Wambach. Fast approaching Mia Hamm's all-time international scoring record, Wambach will once again be relied on for goals and emotional leadership. Of course, the emergence of Alex Morgan – perhaps the fastest and most powerful runner at goal in the world – has given the USA a whole new dimension. Her timely and dynamic goal scoring has made her a tremendous fan favorite in the USA and around the world.

While Cheney is an option up top as well, young Sydney Leroux – the USA's all-time leading scorer in FIFA U-20 Women's World Cup competition – burst onto the full international stage in 2012, setting a U.S. record for goals as a substitute and scoring a memorable goal in the Olympics. Christen Press, who brings a different skill set to the front line, has also shown tenaciousness, speed and goal-scoring ability.

Two long-time veterans will be coming back from pregnancy in 2013; if forward Amy Rodriguez and defender Stephanie Cox can regain their fitness and form during their club seasons, their presence would add even more depth to the U.S. team.

It is clear the USA has the foundation and talent to make a run at the 2015 FIFA Women's World Cup title, but as is the case every year, the competition is constantly improving, and the target is always on the Americans' back. Fortunately, those are challenges that the U.S. players relish as they look to continue their current upward trend in popularity while enhancing the profile of the women's game at home and abroad.

TOM SERMANNI

Head Coach: U.S. Women's National Team

Born: July 1, 1954, in Glasgow, Scotland

Hometown: Glasgow, Scotland

Tom Sermanni was named head coach of the U.S. Women's National Team on Oct. 30, 2012, becoming the seventh head coach in the team's history. He officially started in the position on Jan. 1, 2013.

Sermanni comes to U.S. Soccer after eight years as head coach of the Australia Women's National Team, which he coached in both the 2007 and 2011 FIFA Women's World Cup tournaments, reaching the quarterfinal stage at both events. That eight-year period was Sermanni's second stint as head coach of Australia, as he also coached the Matildas from 1994 through 1997, during which time he led the team to the 1995 FIFA Women's World Cup in Sweden.

Sermanni, who was the 2007 Asian Football Confederation Coach of the Year, led Australia to a runner-up finish at the 2006 AFC Women's Cup, where the team fell to China in penalty kicks, and to the championship of that tournament in 2010, when the youthful Matildas downed Korea DPR in penalties. During his time in charge of Australia, Sermanni helped bring the team into the top 10 in the FIFA Women's World Rankings.

Sermanni coached all three seasons of the Women's United Soccer Association (WUSA), serving as an assistant for the San Jose CyberRays during the inaugural season, in which he helped the club to the league championship. He was also an assistant for the CyberRays in 2002 before taking the head coaching job of the New York Power in 2003, where he coached U.S. Women's National Team legends Christie Rampone, Shannon Boxx and Tiffeny Milbrett.

Sermanni's coaching career in both men's and women's professional soccer has taken him all over the world, including stints in Japan, the USA and Malaysia. Sermanni began his coaching career in men's soccer in the late 1980s, when he was transitioned from player-coach to head coach of the Canberra Croatia/Metros in the New South Wales State League from 1988-1991. He also coached the Australia Schoolboys side from 1989-1991 and coached the men's program at the Australian Institute of Sport from 1991-1993. He coached Sydney Olympic FC in the Australian top flight – the National Soccer League – in 1993-1994 before taking his first women's job with the Australian National Team in 1994.

After stepping away from the Matildas in 1997, Sermanni transitioned back to men's soccer, traveling to Japan to coach J-League side Sanfrecce Hiroshima from 1997-1999. He then had a stint with the Canberra Cosmos in the NSL from 1999-2001 before moving to the USA to coach in the WUSA.

After the WUSA ceased operations, Sermanni had a short stint in Malaysia with club side Sarawak before taking over the Australian women for the second time in 2005 when Australia moved from the Oceania Confederation to the Asian Confederation, allowing the Matildas to compete regularly against rising Asian powers who are now some of the best women's national teams in the world.

Sermanni, a native of Glasgow, Scotland, had a long playing career as a midfielder from 1971 through 1989, when he retired after playing two years with Canberra Croatia and became a player-coach and then head coach. Prior to that, he played from 1984-1987 with Canberra City and in 1983 with Marconi. From 1971 through 1983, he played in England and Scotland, representing Dunfermline Athletic in 1983, Torquay United (England) from 1979-1982 and Blackpool (England) from 1978-1979. He turned professional in 1973 and played six seasons for Albion Rovers from 1973-1978 in Scotland after playing amateur soccer for Cumbernauld United from 1971-1973. Overall, Sermanni played more than 300 professional matches and scored more than 50 goals.

Sermanni, who has lived in Australia since 1983, is married to Alison.

PAUL ROGERS

Goalkeeper Coach: U.S. Women's National Team
Born: May 9, 1978, in Brighton, England
Hometown: Brighton, England

Paul Rogers will serve his first year on Tom Sermanni's coaching staff in 2013 while in his fourth year with the U.S. Women's National Team. Rogers joined the U.S. Women's National Team coaching staff as goalkeeper coach in March of 2009 and helped the USA to second place the 2011 FIFA Women's World Cup and the gold medal at the 2012 Olympics. Rogers also assists Sermanni in numerous other areas including video analysis. Rogers came to U.S. Soccer with extensive experience in the international game as well as professional and college soccer.

He worked in Women's Professional Soccer (WPS) as the goalkeeper coach for St. Louis Athletica in 2009 and 2010. Prior to joining Sundhage's staff, Rogers served as the goalkeeper coach for the Canadian Women's National Team, helping the squad to a second place finish in CONCACAF Olympic Qualifying and a berth in the 2008 Olympics, where the Maple Leafs advanced to the quarterfinals.

From 2007–2009, Rogers served as an assistant and goalkeeper coach for Mark Krikorian at Florida State University, helping the Seminoles to the NCAA College Cup Final in his first year. Rogers joined FSU after spending two years as an assistant with the women's soccer program at the University of Louisville. Before arriving in the Blue Grass state, Rogers spent a year as an assistant at Tulane University.

A native of Brighton, England, Rogers' coaching background also includes stints as a youth coach with Brighton and Hove Albion, a Region II goalkeeping coach, and an Indiana and Kentucky ODP coach. He has earned a USSF A License, UEFA B License, UEFA Goalkeeper License, an English Football Association Certificate and NSCAA Goalkeeper's Licenses.

Rogers also is an instructor for the U.S. Soccer coaching education course, joining the instructional staff in 2006 where he teaches the goalkeeping license, the goalkeeping section of the USSF A, B, and C Licenses.

As a player, Rogers had spells in the nets at numerous professional and semi-professional clubs in England, spending time with Queens Park Rangers, Plymouth Argyle, and Brighton and Hove Albion in the professional ranks and Crawley Town, Fisher Athletic, Lewes FC, and Bognor Regis Town in the Nationwide Conference. He also represented Great Britain in the World University Games in Daegu, South Korea, in 2003 and played professionally in the United States for the A-League Indiana Blast.

Rogers earned a bachelor's degree in sport administration in 2004 at the University of Indianapolis and is married to the former Lisa Harrison. Harrison played basketball at the University of Tennessee where she helped the Lady Volunteers to the 1991 NCAA Championship. Harrison also played six years in the WNBA with the Phoenix Mercury. Paul and Lisa, who reside in Louisville, have a daughter, Bella. Rogers has a website www.performancegoalkeeping.com and you can follow him on Twitter @PerformanceGK

DAWN SCOTT

Fitness Coach: U.S. Women's National Team

Born: June 19, 1972, in Newcastle, England

Hometown: Newcastle, England

Dawn Scott will serve her first year on Tom Sermanni's coaching staff in 2013, but first worked with the U.S. Women's National Team in January of 2010 and joined Pia Sundhage's staff full-time the following February, working with the USA in both the 2011 FIFA Women's World Cup and the 2012 Olympics.

Scott came to U.S. Soccer from the England Football Association, where she worked since 2001 as an Exercise Scientist, primarily working with the England Women's National Soccer Teams. Her responsibilities with the U.S. Women includes the delivery, coordination and monitoring of the team's strength and conditioning as well as the nutritional and exercise science strategies for the team. Scott will also be working to coordinate with the NWSL clubs to monitor the fitness of the national team players, as well as working with the USA's youth girls' and women's national teams.

Scott has been a key lecturer on a variety of FA courses including The FA Fitness Trainers Award, UEFA A Licence, International Licence, Youth Coaches, Pro Licence, Diploma courses, as well as having run courses on behalf of CONCACAF in Trinidad and Tobago. She has also delivered some of the physical elements of the USSF coaching licenses, as well as a workshop for the ECNL.

Scott worked with the Great Britain women's soccer team at the World University Games in Bangkok in 2007 then joined the England senior women for their FIFA 2007 World Cup Finals campaign, where they reached the quarterfinals. Scott was also in New Zealand in 2008 with the England team competing in the inaugural FIFA U-17 Women's World Cup, where they reached the semi-finals. She has worked with England women's teams in two Under-19 European Championship tournaments and one U-19 Women's World Cup (2002 in Canada) as well as two European Women's Championships with the senior side.

Scott also provided Exercise Science support to the GB women's soccer team during the 2009 World University games in Belgrade where the team won a bronze medal and also was on the staff of the England Women's National Team that advanced to the final of the 2009 European Women's Championships held in Finland.

Scott has worked several major events with men's soccer teams, providing support for the World Futsal Championships in Malaysia and the Men's British University Games in Scotland, both in 2008.

In 1996, Scott earned her Bachelor's of Science in Sport and Exercise Science from Manchester Metropolitan University. She went on to earn a Master's in Sports Nutrition from the University of Aberdeen in Scotland in 1997. From 1997-2001, Scott served as a part-time lecturer of sports science at Worcester University.

She has published numerous research papers, as well as a co-authoring a book chapter, on sports science as it relates to elite female athletes, especially soccer players. She is currently finalising her PhD (post doctorate) proposal to further her research of the physical demands of soccer match play and training for elite female soccer players.

2013 U.S. Women's National Team

Following is the current player pool for the U.S. Women's National Team. U.S. head coach Tom Sermanni will, for the most part, use this pool of players for matches and training camps in 2013. The pool is constantly evolving, with new players being added and called up. In addition, members of the Under-23 National Team Pool or other youth national teams may be called-up to the full national team. An asterisk (*) indicates that she is also eligible to play with the Under-23 Women's National Team.

U.S. National Team – Her rise to the National Team is a unique story in that she made the 2003 FIFA Women's World Cup Team without ever previously earning a cap (the only player in history to do so) ... Uncapped heading into the final two pre-2003 WWC matches, she was one of the revelations of the 2003 FIFA Women's World Cup ... Developed into one of the world's best defensive midfielders and had started every game but one that she played since debuting in 2003 before hip and knee surgeries sidelined her in 2006 ... She finished third in the voting for the 2005 FIFA Women's World Player of the Year ... She had started 169 of her 180 career matches heading into 2013 ... Has scored in five of the six matches she has played at The Home Depot Center in Carson, Calif., just minutes from her hometown of Redondo Beach ... 2012: Played in 27 games, starting 22, while scoring three goals with three assists ... Suffered an injury early in the opening game of the 2012 Olympics and missed the next four games, but recovered in time to start and play the entire championship match at Wembley Stadium in London, playing a key role in the USA winning its third consecutive Olympic gold medal ... Played in four matches during Olympic qualifying, starting three ... Scored the winning goal against Australia in a 2-1 victory at The Home Depot Center ... 2011: Once again had a stellar year in the center of the midfield for the USA, starting all 17 games she played while scoring one goal (against Finland at the Algarve Cup) with two assists ... Played 1,344 minutes and became one of just 16 players to surpass 150 caps for the USA ... Started five matches at the 2011 FIFA Women's World Cup, playing every minute, and was named to the FIFA Women's World Cup All-Star Team ... Made the first penalty kick in the dramatic shootout triumph against Brazil in the quarterfinal ... 2010: Started all 18 matches the USA played, one of just two players to do so, and her 1,399 minutes were third on the team ... Scored one goal, the 21st of her career, in a win against Mexico ... Had five assists on the year ... Started all five matches at the CONCACAF Women's World Cup Qualifying Tournament, registering two assists, and played all 180 minutes in the two-leg WWC playoff against Italy ... 2009: Continued her consistent run in the center of the U.S. midfield by starting seven of the eight matches the USA played and playing in them all, scoring two goals ... Scored the tying goal in regulation with just seconds left in the championship game of the Algarve Cup and opened the scoring with an early goal during a 4-0 win against Canada in Toronto ... Led the USA in minutes played with 614 ... 2008: Displayed the form that has made her one of the world's best at her position, starting all 33 games she played ... Finished second on the team in minutes played with 2,807 ... Scored just one goal, but it was a crucial game-winner in a 1-0 victory against China in January to give the USA the Four Nations Tournament title ... Played every minute of all six matches at the 2008 Olympics and was one of the USA's most important players ... Assisted on the game-winning goal in the Olympic quarterfinal win against Canada ... Was on the 10-player short list for FIFA Women's World Player of the Year ... 2007: Returned to the U.S. team at the Algarve Cup after recovering from major knee surgery, starting against Finland in the second group match and playing 90 minutes before coming off the bench in the final two games ... Tallied her first goal of the year, and first since her injury, against Japan with a header in a 4-1 win on July 28 at Spartan Stadium ... Started 14 of the 18 games she played, scoring four goals with three assists ... Scored against England in the 2007 FIFA Women's World Cup quarterfinal ... She started four of the five games in the Women's World Cup but was given a controversial red card in the semifinal against Brazil and was suspended for the third-place match ... 2006:

Started all three games at the Four Nations Tournament in China, helping the USA to the title, while scoring on a header against Norway ... Started all four games at the Algarve Cup and was named Tournament MVP for the second time (also won the award in 2004) ... After recovering from surgery to repair a torn labrum in her hip, she tore the MCL and ACL in her right knee during practice in mid-July at Residency Training Camp and was out for eight months ... 2005: Started all four games at the Algarve Cup, playing all but 23 minutes of the tournament ... Started all nine games the USA played, was third in minutes played, and scored one goal (against Iceland) with one assist ... 2004: Started 31 of the 32 matches she played and was second on the team in minutes played with 2,714 ... Scored eight goals with five assists, including a goal in Mia Hamm and Julie Foudy's last game on Dec. 8 ... U.S. Women's National Team Women's World Cup History

USA IN THE FIFA WOMEN'S WORLD CUP

With two championships in six FIFA Women's World Cup competitions, one second place finish and three third-place finishes, the U.S. Women's National Team is widely hailed as the most successful women's soccer team in the world. In its six Women's World Cup competitions, the U.S. is 27-4-5 in 36 total games and is the only nation to finish in the top three in each Women's World Cup (as well as all four Olympics).

The USA hit some bumps in the road on the way to the 2011 FIFA Women's World Cup, falling in the semifinal of the CONCACAF Women's World Cup Qualifying Tournament at the end of 2010 before defeating Italy in a two-game playoff to earn the final berth to Germany. The Americans also lost two games during its World Cup preparation, but still headed into the tournament as one of the favorites. What transpired in Germany will forever be remembered as a breakthrough event for women's soccer as the U.S. team's dramatic run to the World Cup Final inspired a nation.

The USA opened the tournament with a hard-fought 2-0 win against Korea DPR in Dresden on second-half goals from Lauren Cheney and improbably, defender Rachel Buehler. That set the stage for a 3-0 demolition of Colombia that featured the entire team saluting the crowd after the opening goal by Heather O'Reilly in recognition of the large group of U.S. military and their families that helped sell-out the stadium in Sinsheim. The USA fell 2-1 to Sweden in its final group match in Wolfsburg, which sent them into a quarterfinal against Brazil back in Dresden. The drama and controversy-filled game featured the latest goal in Women's World Cup history on the now-legendary Abby Wambach header and then the U.S. prevailed in the penalty kick shootout to send the team to the semifinal.

In the semifinal in Mönchengladbach, the USA ran into an extremely talented France team that dominated the match in stretches, but as the Americans often do at the highest levels, they found a way to win on a first-half goal from Cheney, another Abby Wambach header and a late clincher from Alex Morgan. The USA was by far the stronger team in the World Cup Final in Frankfurt, but let two leads slip away and fell in the penalty kick shootout to Japan.

Abby Wambach scored in the final four games – the first U.S. player to do that in a World Cup tournament – and took over the U.S. career lead in Women's World Cup goals from Michelle Akers with her 13th in the championship game. Wambach and Morgan became the first U.S. players to score in the semifinal and final of a World Cup.

In 2007, the USA was riding a long unbeaten streak and held the world's top ranking heading into the FIFA Women's World Cup in China where they won perhaps the most difficult first-round group in the history of the tournament. In Group B, the USA drew with Korea DPR 2-2 in the opening match, then got two goals from Abby Wambach in a must-win 2-0 victory over Sweden. With advancement to the quarterfinals still up in the air, the USA won the group with a hard-fought 1-0 victory over a vastly improved Nigerian team. The American women then met up-and-coming England in the quarterfinal, and after an evenly played first 20 minutes, put together their best performance of the tournament, winning 3-0 and earning a place in the semifinals against Brazil. The semifinal marked a low point in U.S. history as the team suffered some heart-wrenching misfortune while scoring an own goal and seeing Shannon Boxx harshly sent off at the end of the first half. The combination of factors led to a 4-0 loss, the worst in U.S. history, and a place in the third-place match. The USA rebounded wonderfully to win the bronze medal, rolling over Norway by a 4-1 score to end the tournament on a high note.

Considered the top team in the world heading into FIFA Women's World Cup USA 2003, the defending champion U.S. was assured the title of tournament favorite after the competition was moved from China to the U.S. due to the outbreak of SARS. After rolling through group play with a 3-0 record and 11-1 advantage in goal differential, the U.S. squeezed past rival Norway by a 1-0 margin in the quarterfinals. Then in Portland, Ore. – the only city in history to host a World Cup match in consecutive competitions – the U.S. was shocked by Germany, who scored two injury time goals in a 3-0 victory en route to winning it all and being crowned world champion. The U.S. was relegated to the third place game. There the red, white and blue made quick work of northern neighbor Canada 3-1, the same team that forced the U.S. to sudden death overtime in the CONCACAF Women's Gold Cup final less than one year earlier.

The United States Women's National Team added to its prestige by becoming the first squad to host and win a Women's World Cup, when it downed China PR 5-4 in penalty kicks after battling to a 0-0 draw through regulation and overtime in the 1999 final. The match was played in front of a women's athletics record crowd of 90,185 on June 10, 1999 at the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif. The winning penalty kick goal for the U.S. has become a pop culture moment in American history, with Brandi Chastain connecting on the shot and then celebrating the goal with a nation. The championship marked the USA's third major championship of the decade, going along nicely with the 1991 Women's World Cup crown and the 1996 Olympic victory.

The biggest disappointment for the U.S. Women in the 1990s came at the 1995 Women's World Cup in Sweden, when the team fell to arch-rival Norway in the tournament semifinals, 1-0. The defeat was the first-ever for the USA in WWC play and helped Norway into the final where they downed Germany to take the crown.

In 1991, the U.S. won the inaugural FIFA Women's World Cup in China. The championship was the first for the USA in a FIFA competition and established the dominance that the U.S. women have continued to display at the international level. The United States were led by Michelle Akers, Carin Jennings and April Heinrichs, dubbed "the triple-edged sword." The trio combined to score 20 of the team's 25 goals in China, including all five (Jennings 3, Heinrichs 2) in a 5-2 semifinal victory over Germany and both goals (Akers) in a 2-0 win over Norway to win the title.

WOMEN'S WORLD CUP NOTES: U.S. defender Joy Fawcett and midfielder Shannon Boxx were named to the First 11 of the FIFA Women's World Cup 2003 All-Star Team. Forward Mia Hamm was named as one of the five reserves.

By beating Canada 3-1 in front of 25,253 fans at The Home Depot Center, the USA became the only country in history to finish in the top three in all four FIFA Women's World Cups.

The U.S. WNT has four players who played in the first four Women's World Cups: Joy Fawcett, Julie Foudy, Mia Hamm and Kristine Lilly. Of those four, Foudy and Hamm scored goals in each WWC tournament (with Foudy scoring exactly one goal and Hamm scoring exactly two goals in each tournament).

WOMEN'S WORLD CUP NOTES: Team captain and forward Kristine Lilly was the lone U.S. player named to the FIFA Women's World Cup All-Star Team.

With a draw and two wins in first-round play, the USA won what was widely considered one of the most difficult opening round groups in Women's World Cup history.

By defeating Norway 4-1 in the third-place match, the USA finished in the top three in all five Women's World Cup tournaments that have been contested, the only country to do so.

Abby Wambach scored six goals in the tournament, winning the Silver Shoe as the second-best scorer in the tournament. Her six goals gave her nine WWC goals for her career, second on the all-time U.S. list behind only Michelle Akers (12).

Of the 21 players on the U.S. roster, 10 saw action in their first Women's World Cup.

Heather O'Reilly became the 11th U.S. player to score multiple goals in her first Women's World Cup. Four of those players did so in 1991, when it was every player's first WWC.

Rachel Buehler sent off in the 64th minute vs. Brazil on July 10.

WOMEN'S WORLD CUP NOTES: Abby Wambach, Hope Solo, Lauren Cheney and Shannon Boxx were named to the FIFA Women's World Cup All-Star Team.

Abby Wambach won the Silver Ball as the second best player in the tournament and the Bronze Boot as the third leading scorer. Hope Solo won the Golden Glove as the best goalkeeper and the Bronze Ball as the third best player.

By advancing to the championship game the USA kept intact its record of finishing in the top-three of all six Women's World Cup tournaments that have been contested.

Of the 21 players on the roster, 18 saw action. For 11 of those players, it was their first minutes in Women's World Cup play.

The USA's loss to Sweden was its first-ever in Women's World Cup group play.

The USA was the highest scoring team in the tournament with 13 total goals.

Abby Wambach scored four goals, all with her head, one each in the last four games, becoming the first U.S. player to accomplish that feat.

Her four goals upped her World Cup total to 13, moving her past the great Michelle Akers on the all-time U.S. World Cup scoring list.

Wambach and Alex Morgan became the first U.S. players to score in both a Women's World Cup semifinal and final.

FIFA WOMEN'S WORLD CUP USA 1999 REVIEW

The final Women's World Cup of the century launched the beginning a new era of success for women's soccer. For the first time, the tournament was expanded to 16 teams and was staged in huge stadiums across the host country, raising expectations for attendance, media coverage and television audiences; expectations which were reached, surpassed and then crushed.

The U.S. captured its second Women's World Cup Championship while thrilling a nation and becoming the story of the year. The team played in front of packed houses across the country, beginning with a crowd of 78,000-plus at Giants Stadium cheering the team to a 3-0 tournament opening victory over Denmark. The victory set a tone for the entire tournament. After fighting their way into the final with five victories, which included a come-from-behind 3-2 victory over Germany in the quarterfinals and a nail-biting 2-0 victory over Brazil in the semifinals, the U.S. battled China PR for a grueling 120 minutes before pulling out a breathtaking 5-4 penalty kick victory in front of a sell-out crowd of 90,125 fans at the Rose Bowl in Pasadena on July 10.

After a scoreless 90 minutes of regulation, China PR appeared to get the winner in the first 15-minutes of sudden-death overtime, but midfielder Kristine Lilly jumped high to head a shot clear of the goal. That save would lead to goalkeeper Briana Scurry and defender Brandi Chastain becoming heroes during the penalty kick tiebreaker. Scurry leaped off her line to save China PR's third shot, allowing Chastain to slam home the game-winning penalty kick goal. With the championship, the U.S. became the first nation to win the Women's World Cup on its home soil.

1999 WWC TV Audience

Total Audience for U.S. games: 19.3 million households (HH)

ABC (2 matches televised): 12 million HH

(40 million viewers for U.S.-China PR final)

ESPN & ESPN2 (30 matches televised): 7.3 million HH

Total Audience for 30 matches televised by ESPN & ESPN2: 16,607,301 HH

The worldwide television audience for the tournament was estimated at 889.5 million people. The confirmed cumulative television viewing audience was 137.3 million, while unconfirmed audience totaled 752.2.

Specific U.S. Game Ratings:

U.S. v. Denmark (ABC) = 1.7 rating (1 million HH), 6 share

U.S. v. Nigeria (ESPN) = 1.85 rating (1.4 million HH)

U.S. v. Korea (ESPN2) = 1.96 rating (1.3 million HH)

U.S. v. Germany (ESPN) = 2.19 rating (1.7 million HH)

U.S. v. Brazil (ESPN) = 3.78 rating (2.9 million HH)

U.S. v. China PR (ABC) = 11.4 rating (11 million HH, 40 million viewers), 31 share

Key Notes: ABC's pregame estimate of the USA-China PR final was 16 million viewers. The final total was 40 million viewers, 3 1/2 times larger than the previous high for a women's soccer audience ... The overnight rating for the final was 13.3, 93% larger than the 6.9 overnight for the 1998 men's World Cup final (Brazil-France). It was also 28% higher than the 10.4 for the 1994 men's World Cup final (Brazil-Italy) ... The women's victory over Brazil received a rating of 3.8 and was viewed in 2.9 million households (the largest number of households to watch a soccer telecast at that time on ESPN).

FIFA WOMEN'S WORLD CUP USA 2003 REVIEW

Originally scheduled for China from Sept. 23 to Oct. 11, the FIFA Women's World Cup 2003 was moved out of the country by FIFA on May 3 because of the threat of Severe Acute Respiratory Syndrome. In awarding the games to the United States on May 26, FIFA chose the United States over Sweden, the only other country besides the USA to make a formal bid to host the tournament.

While women's soccer has no doubt become more and more competitive, the group stage of USA 2003 went almost exactly according to script. Seven of the eight quarter-finalists from four years ago again advanced. Only Nigeria, who were the only side not to score a goal in the finals, did not make it through, stepping aside for Canada's advancement. Of the seeded teams, only Norway failed to win their group, bowing to the strong early play of Brazil. The U.S. Women's National Team lived up to its high expectations in opening the tournament with three authoritative wins in the tournament's most difficult group (downing Sweden, Nigeria and upset Korea DPR). Sweden lost their first match but recovered to eventually fight their way into the finals.

In the knockout stage, Canada provided the tournament's biggest surprise with a well-earned 1-0 victory against China PR, sending the '99 finalist home early. The U.S., Germany and Sweden, who knocked off first-round darlings Brazil 2-1, also advanced to the final four. In the semifinals, the Swedes finally ended Canada's dreams with a dramatic come-from-behind 2-1 victory. In the other semifinal, Germany stunned the hosts, knocking the U.S. into the third-place match with two injury time goals en route to a 3-0 victory at PGE Park in Portland.

The U.S.-German match was widely hailed as one of the greatest in women's soccer history, surpassed in 2003 only by Germany's thrilling 2-1 sudden death victory over Sweden. That triumph saw Nia Kuenzer head home in the eighth minute of extra time to send The Home Depot Center into a frenzy of German joy and Swedish tears.

The U.S. closed out an ultimately disappointing tournament with an emphatic 3-1 victory over border-rival Canada in the third-place game. The match was never in doubt, with the U.S. seeing goals from Kristine Lilly, Shannon Boxx and Tiffeny Milbrett keep their perfect top three record in Women's World Cup play intact.

U.S. Women's National Team Programs

WOMEN'S PLAYER DEVELOPMENT AND IDENTIFICATION

At the start of 2011, U.S. Soccer appointed April Heinrichs as the Technical Director and Jill Ellis as the Development Director for the U.S. Women's National Teams, marking the first time U.S. Soccer has appointed full-time positions to oversee the women's youth national team program and the programs' overall development.

In the first quarter of 2013, U.S. Soccer added three more full-time hires, bringing on Michelle French as the U.S. Under-20 Women's National Team head coach and B.J. Snow as the U.S. Under-17 Women's National Team head coach. This marked the first time the head coaches of these age groups were full-time hires.

In addition, U.S. Soccer hired April Kater as the Women's Head Development coach. Kater is working closely with Ellis and will be responsible for developing and maintaining a national database, tracking elite youth players to serve all of U.S. Soccer's girls' Youth National Teams. She will also coach and assist in U.S. Soccer's National Training Center initiatives, serve as the head coach for the U.S. U-14 Girls' National Team program and also work with the U.S. U-15 Women's National Team. Kater will also be heavily involved in educating and developing coaches across the nation to work with younger age groups.

These hires along with other recent initiatives including U.S. Soccer Training Centers and the Technical Advisors will both improve the effectiveness of existing programming for the U.S. women's youth national teams and improve the process of identifying the top young female players in the United States.

Heinrichs provides technical direction for women's soccer in the United States as it relates to the U.S. Women's National Teams with a focus on the Under-20s and younger, while overseeing the U.S. Under-20 and U.S. U-18 Women's National Teams.

Ellis takes the lead on interacting directly with key coaches within the youth club environment while also guiding and directing the U.S. U-17s, U-15s and U-14s.

The full-time coaches will all work together to integrate all of the youth women's and girls' national teams, helping players and systems connect from one team to the next. They will also play major roles in leading the discussion on connecting the philosophies of the WNT head coach through all the youth national teams and especially to the massive amount of girls' youth clubs in the United States. Ellis especially will focus on the grassroots within the youth club environment to convey the goals and philosophies of player development in order to help produce quality players for the national team level.

APRIL HEINRICHSG

Technical Director: U.S. Women's National Teams
Born: Feb. 27, 1964, in Denver, Colo.
Hometown: Littleton, Colo.

April Heinrichs was appointed Technical Director for the U.S. Women's National Teams in January of 2011. The hiring, along with Jill Ellis as the Development Director, marks the first time U.S. Soccer has appointed full-time positions to oversee the women's youth national team program and the programs' overall development.

Heinrichs provides technical direction for women's soccer in the United States as it relates to the U.S. Women's National Teams with a focus on the Under-20s on down, while overseeing the U.S. Under-20 and U.S. U-18 Women's National Teams. In her second year on the job, Heinrichs helped oversee a coaching staff that led the USA to the championship at the 2012 FIFA U-20 Women's World Cup in Japan.

Heinrichs is one of the pioneers of the U.S. Women's National Team and returns to U.S. Soccer from a post with the U.S. Olympic Committee's Sport Performance Division where she worked as a high performance director from 2007-2010. In her role with the USOC, Heinrichs worked with 24 different men's and women's Olympic and Paralympic sports in developing their performance preparations.

Heinrichs served as the head coach for the U.S. Women's National Team for five years from 2000-2004, coaching the team in two Olympic Games, winning a silver medal in 2000 and a gold medal in 2004. She also coached the USA in the 2003 FIFA Women's World Cup, where the Americans finished third. She was the fourth coach, and first female head coach, in history of the program. In her time at the helm of the U.S. team, Heinrichs compiled an 87-17-20 record.

Heinrichs became a full-time assistant coach for the U.S. Women's National Team in January 1995 under Tony DiCicco and was on the staff at the 1995 FIFA Women's World Cup in Sweden and for the 1996 Olympics, helping the USA to the first-ever gold medal for women's soccer. She resigned her position as assistant coach for the national team following the Olympics, and in 1996, took over as the head coach of the U.S. Under-16 National Team. She coached the U.S. U-16s for four years prior to taking the job as Head Coach and Technical Director for the U.S. Women's National Team programs.

Heinrichs captained the USA to the first-ever Women's World Cup title in 1991, and along with Michelle Akers and Carin Gabarra, was part of the U.S. trio of strikers dubbed "the triple-edged sword" during the world championship run in China.

She finished her international career at the 1991 Women's World Cup with the 2-1 win over Norway in the final as her last game. She scored 35 goals in 46 games for the USA.

Heinrichs won the U.S. Soccer Female Athlete of the Year award twice, in 1986 and in 1989, and she was voted female player of the 1980s by Soccer America magazine. In 1998, she became the first female player inducted into the U.S. Soccer Hall of Fame in Oneonta, N.Y.

She played four years at the University of North Carolina and was named First-Team All-American three times. UNC captured three NCAA championships during that time and finished as runner-up once. Heinrichs completed her career at UNC as the all-time NCAA leader in points scored with 225 (87 goals, 51 assists), a record that has since been eclipsed by eight different players. North Carolina registered an 85-3-2 record during Heinrichs' playing career. Heinrichs became the first women's soccer player in school history to have her jersey retired when UNC took her No. 2 off the roster.

Following her graduation from North Carolina with a bachelor's degree in radio, television and motion pictures, Heinrichs played professionally in Europe with the Italian club teams Juventus and Prato.

Heinrichs also has extensive coaching experience in the college game, having been head coach at the University of Virginia, the University of Maryland, Princeton University and UC Irvine. She has a 119-86-16 overall collegiate record.

Heinrichs was named the women's head coach at the University of Virginia before the 1996 season and led the Cavaliers to four NCAA playoff berths while compiling a record of 52-27-7. Prior to becoming head coach at UVA, Heinrichs served as head women's soccer coach at the University of Maryland, coaching her first season with the Terrapins in 1991 and earning ACC Coach of the Year honors in 1995. Prior to that she was the head coach at Princeton University for one season. Heinrichs also served one season as an assistant coach at the College of William & Mary. Heinrichs coached one season at UC Irvine in 2006.

In 2000, she was named as the inaugural recipient of the NSCAA Women's Committee Award of Excellence for her outstanding long-term service and contribution toward improvement and advancement of women's soccer in the United States. Heinrichs has held a USSF "A" coaching license since 1990.

JILL ELLIS

Development Director: U.S. Women's National Teams

Born: Sept. 6, 1966, in Folkestone, England

Hometown: Los Angeles, Calif.

Jill Ellis was appointed as the Development Director for the U.S. Women's National Teams in January of 2011. The hiring, along with April Heinrichs as Technical Director, marks the first time U.S. Soccer has appointed full-time positions to oversee the women's youth national team program and the programs' overall development. Ellis will also assist Pia Sundhage with the U.S. Women's National Team when available during 2012.

Ellis will be taking the lead on interacting directly with key coaches within the youth club environment while also guiding and directing the U.S. U-17s, U-15s and U-14s.

Ellis has extensive experience in the U.S. Women's National Team programs having served as an assistant coach for the U.S. Women's National Team under Pia Sundhage, helping the team to a gold medal at the 2008 Olympics. Ellis has served two stints as head coach of the U.S. Under-20 Women's National Team, guiding the squad to the CONCACAF title in 2010 and to the FIFA U-20 Women's World Cup in Germany.

She joined the full Women's National Team staff in January of 2008 after leaving her post with the U.S. U-20s, which she had led since the start of 2007.

Ellis has also had two stints as the head coach of the U.S. Under-21 Women's National Team, the second starting in the middle of 2005, after which she guided the team to the Nordic Cup in Sweden. She also coached the U-21s to the Nordic Cup title in Germany in 2000.

Ellis was also a scout for the USA at the 2000 Olympics in Sydney, Australia, and has served as an assistant coach with the U.S. U-21s and U.S. U-16 Girls' National Teams.

Ellis joins U.S. Soccer full-time after a highly successful 12-year run as the head women's soccer coach for the UCLA Bruins. Ellis led UCLA to eight NCAA Final Fours, including seven in a row from 2003-2009, and won six straight conference titles from 2003-2008. She finishes her time in Westwood with a record of 229-45-14. Ellis, who was also head coach at the University of Illinois, has an all-time collegiate coaching record of 248-63-14.

She was the 2000 NSCAA National Coach of the Year after leading the Bruins to the NCAA Final in just her second season as head coach.

Ellis arrived in Westwood after heading the University of Illinois women's soccer program for two years. In 1998, she brought the Fighting Illini to a 12-8 record and a first-ever Big-Ten Tournament berth. Prior to coaching at Illinois, Ellis served as an assistant coach at the University of Virginia for one year (1996-97), at Maryland for three years (1994-96) and at North Carolina State for another three years (1988-90). As an assistant coach at North Carolina State, Ellis helped the Wolfpack secure the 1988 ACC title and an NCAA Final Four appearance.

A forward during her playing days at the College of William & Mary from 1984-87, Ellis was a Third-Team All-American in 1987. In 1984, Ellis helped Braddock Road in Virginia to the Under-19 club national championship.

Ellis grew up in Portsmouth, England and came to the United States in 1981 at the age of 15. She also lived in Singapore for two years while her father helped to develop a national soccer program in that country. She earned her B.A. in English Literature and Composition from the College of William & Mary in 1988 and currently resides in Los Angeles. She has a USSF "A" coaching license.

APRIL KATER

Head Development Coach: U.S. Youth Women's National Teams
Born: March 31, 1969
Hometown: Colorado Springs, Colo.

April Kater was named the Head Development Coach for the U.S. Youth Women's National Teams on Jan. 25, 2013.

In the newly created position, Kater will work closely with Women's Development Director Jill Ellis and be responsible for developing and maintaining a national database, tracking elite youth players to serve all of U.S. Soccer's girls' Youth National Teams. She will also coach and assist in U.S. Soccer's National Training Center initiatives, serve as the head coach for the U.S. U-14 Girls' National Team program and also work with the U.S. U-15 Girls' National Team. Kater will also be heavily involved in educating and developing coaches across the nation to work with younger age groups.

Kater comes to U.S. Soccer after seven seasons as the assistant coach at Colorado College in Colorado Springs, Colo. She joined the staff as an assistant coach in March 2006 and the following fall proceeded to help guide CC to its best showing in 15 years. Overall, the Tigers were 82-44-20 in Kater's seven seasons with the program.

Kater is a 1991 graduate of the University of Massachusetts, where she earned an extensive collection of prestigious national awards during her college career including the 1990 Hermann Trophy and Missouri Athletic Club Player of the Year awards as the best player in college soccer. Kater was the third recipient of the Hermann and MAC Awards after Michelle Akers (1988) and Shannon Higgins (1989).

She was a three-time First-Team All-American, a two-time First-Team Academic All-American and was named Freshman of the Year by Soccer America in 1987.

Kater went on to serve as head coach of the women's program at Syracuse University for eight seasons (1996-2003). During her tenure, Syracuse enjoyed seven winning campaigns, qualified for the Big East conference tournament three times and reached the second round of the NCAA playoffs on two occasions.

Kater has served on the U.S. Soccer staff with various Youth National Teams since 2004, and worked with the Region I Olympic Development Program from 1998 through 2010. She was an assistant coach at her alma mater for two seasons (1993 and 1994), helping UMass reach the NCAA tournament both years, including a national semifinal appearance in 1993.

Co-author of a book on techniques, tactics and teamwork in women's soccer, published in the spring of 2001, Kater also has worked as a volunteer with Soccer Without Borders since spring of 2008. She and several Colorado College players were directly involved with projects in Granada and Nicaragua, as well as collecting equipment and funds to support the organization, which focuses on using soccer as a vehicle for youth development around the world.

Kater currently holds a USSF A License and an NSCAA Premiere Certification.

U.S. SOCCER TRAINING CENTERS

U.S. Soccer Training Centers are single, invitational training sessions run by U.S. Soccer staff for elite players in key soccer markets. Training Centers are open to the top players from any team, club or organization at no cost to the player. The purpose of the Training Center program is to identify the best players for the U.S. Soccer Youth National Team program.

Building the Player Pool

Training Centers are designed to build the player pools for all youth national teams. Boys and girls ages 12 to 18 have the opportunity to be involved with the program. There are usually 20-30 players at each Training Center session. Each session focuses on a different age group.

The purpose of the program is to identify elite players with national team potential from any club within reasonable distance to key soccer markets. Players can be recommended for the program by U.S. Soccer technical advisors, national team scouts, state associations, local clubs or college coaches. Players can be recommended at any time by contacting scouting@ussoccer.org. The final roster for the Training Centers is selected by U.S. Soccer staff.

The Training Center Session

Local youth or professional clubs, leagues or state associations provide the facility, but U.S. Soccer staff runs the training session with the assistance of local coaches. Each Training Center session lasts approximately two hours and features drills, small-sided games and finishes with 11-vs.-11 play.

U.S. Soccer Training Center Schedule

More than 250 Training Center sessions will be held in 2013 in more than 30 soccer markets around the country. The frequency of the Training Centers varies from one per month in larger areas to two per year in smaller soccer markets.

STEPPING STONE TO THE FULL TEAM

The USA's oldest women's youth national team moved to Under-23 in 2008. The change was in response to FIFA moving its oldest youth world championship for women from Under-19s to Under-20s, as well as a change in the Nordic Cup – long the main event for this age group – which became a U-23 event. The Nordic Cup, long a staple of summer programming for this age group, took a hiatus in 2009 after being staged for the 19 years. Without the competition, which had been organized annually by one of the Nordic countries, the U.S. U-23s have pursued other international competition, mostly in Spain and Scandinavia.

The role of the U-23s in the overall development of U.S. WNT players underwent some changes in 2009 with the start of Women's Professional Soccer (WPS) and will again be positively impacted with the start of the National Women's Soccer League (NWSL) in the spring of 2013. Many of the players who were being kept active and in the mix for the full team by competing with the U-23s will now be playing in the new league. Therefore, U.S. head coach Randy Waldrum will call up some professionals when they are released by their clubs, and will especially focus on pros in the early part of the year before the beginning of NWSL pre-season camps. During the NWSL season, more college players will like get call-ups for the remainder of the spring and into the summer, as that time period falls during the heart of the club season. For the December training camp, he will once again be able to call in NWSL players, as well as top college players who will be going into the NWSL the following year.

The U.S. team has been active at this age group since 1989 (in its previous incarnation it was run as a U-20 program until 1998 and then morphed into a U-21 program until 2007) and has been consistently effective in helping prepare players for the step up to the Women's National Team. The vast majority of current Women's National Team pool players have competed for the U-21s or U-23s. The U-21s used to feature "overage" players in training camps and for the Nordic Cup tournament, but now all players who are age-eligible for the U-23s in 2012 must have been born on or after Jan. 1, 1990. This team serves a valuable role in helping bridge the large gap between college soccer and the national team, and now has a valuable partner in that area in NWSL.

2013 U.S. UNDER-23 WNT PLAYER POOL

Following is the current player pool for the U.S. Under-23 Women's National Team. Head coach Randy Waldrum will, for the most part, use this pool of players for matches in 2013. The pool is constantly evolving, with new players being added and called-up. Numerous players eligible for the U-23 team are listed in the full National Team pool. Players born on or after Jan. 1, 1990, are age-eligible for this year's U-23 WNT.

RANDY WALDRUM

Head Coach: U.S. U-23 Women's National Team

Born: Sept. 25, 1956, in Irving, Texas

Hometown: Irving, Texas

Randy Waldrum took over as the head coach of the U.S. Under-23 Women's National Team in January of 2012, replacing Bill Irwin, who had guided the team for the previous five years.

Waldrum, who is currently the head women's soccer coach at the University of Notre Dame, is one of the most successful college coaches in history. In 14 seasons at Notre Dame, Waldrum has guided the Fighting Irish to a 279-50-16 overall record while making it to eight NCAA College Cups and five national championship matches. He advanced to the NCAA College Cup in 2000, 2007 and 2009, had runner-up finishes in 1999, 2006 and 2008, and won NCAA titles in 2004 and 2010. His teams have won 11 Big East regular season titles and seven Big East tournament titles.

Waldrum has coached for 31 seasons in college soccer including stints as the women's and men's coach at Tulsa and the women's coach at Baylor, a program he started from scratch in 1995.

Waldrum's career winning percentage is third all-time among women's soccer coaches with 10-plus seasons on the Division I level and second among active coaches. He has coached players who have received 27 All-America honors, including numerous players who have appeared for the USA's Youth National Teams, in the professional ranks and several who have earned full national team caps.

Waldrum came to Notre Dame after three seasons at Baylor, where he guided the Bears to a 46-14-3 record after he spent 1995-96 starting up the program. Prior to his tenure at Baylor, Waldrum spent six seasons (1989-94) as head coach of the men's and women's teams at the University of Tulsa, compiling a 66-33-6 record with the men and a 61-36-9 mark with the women (he remains the winningest all-time coach of both programs).

Waldrum started a first-year men's program at Texas Wesleyan in 1988 and earlier had his first collegiate head coaching position at Austin College in 1982. He served as director of coaching for the Texas Longhorns Soccer Club from 1987-89. Waldrum's first coaching job was at MacArthur High School in Irving, Texas.

As a player, Waldrum earned all-district honors all four years of his playing career at Midwestern State University in Wichita Falls, Texas, graduating in 1981 as a physical education major and political science minor. He then played professionally for the Los Angeles Skyhawks and the Indianapolis Daredevils of the American Soccer League.

Waldrum served as an assistant coach with the U.S. Under-18 and U-20 National Teams in the late 1990s.

Waldrum and his wife, Dianna, have one son, Ben, who played professionally with the A-League's El Paso Patriots and the MISL's Dallas Sidekicks and also served as an assistant on his father's staff at Notre Dame from 2003-07. Waldrum was formerly president of the 28,000-member National Soccer Coaches Association of America (NSCAA).

THE NORDIC CUP

Premier Under-23 Women's Competition

In the past 16 years, the U.S. Under-23 Women's National Team (previously competing as U-21s) has amassed a 166-38-34 record. Without a FIFA competition for this age group, for years the U-23s set their sights on northern Europe every summer for Nordic Cup, which had established itself as the premier international competition for European U-23 women's teams with the USA being invited every year. Due to the current economic climate, the Nordic Cup has not been staged for past five years, but U.S. U-23s have still traveled to Europe in search of top competition every year.

The U.S. had astounding success in the Nordic Cup, which serves as a history of the program and the many great players that represented the USA at this level. The Americans advanced to the championship game of the Nordic Cup 12 years in a row from 1997-2008 while winning 10 titles. The USA won an amazing seven Nordic Cups in a row from 1999-2005. That streak ended in 2006 with a 2-0 loss to Germany in the tournament finals, but featured an inspiring 4-0 group victory against Norway in Norway in a game the U.S. had to win by four goals to advance to the final. The team rebounded in 2007 to dominate a six-team tournament played for the first time as a U-23 event, defeating Germany in the championship game by a 4-0 score, and then won the 2008 Nordic Cup with a 3-0 win against Germany in the final while not allowing a goal for the second consecutive tournament.

- The USA's run to the title had a twist as the U-21s lost its first Nordic Cup contest since 1998, falling 1-0 to Denmark.
- The USA got some tremendous hospitality from the hosts as on the third match day, the USA needed a four-goal win over Greece (and earned a 4-0 triumph) and a victory by Finland over Denmark (which compiling with a 2-1 result).

2003

- Not as much drama as in 2002, with the USA qualifying for the Final after just two group games
- Key win was 1-0 in first game over host country Denmark
- Lindsay Tarpley scored twice in the tournament

2004

- In first game, future full WNT players Joanna Lohman, Natasha Kai and Carli Lloyd all score
- USA does not allow a goal for first time in Nordic Cup
- USA gets second victory in a row over Sweden in Nordic Cup Final

2005

- One of best-ever Nordic Cup teams scores four goals in three games and three goals in the other
- Lauren Cheney is youngest player on roster, but has assists in all four games
- Heather O'Reilly scores four goals, Carli Lloyd has three and Lindsay Tarpley scores two

2006

- A disappointing 1-1 draw with Iceland meant the USA needed a 4-0 win over Norway to advance to the Final, and they got it
- USA falls for first time in eight years in Nordic Cup Final to tough German team
- U.S. Soccer Young Female Player of the Year Danesha Adams gets a hat trick against Norway

- For the first time in years, Nordic Cup features just six teams
- For the first time, Nordic Cup is a U-23 competition
- For the second time, the USA does not allow a goal
- For the ninth time, the USA wins the Nordic Cup

2008

- USA shuts out all four opponents
- Ella Masar scores three goals in tournament, including two in final
- 13 players from Nordic Cup roster would play in WPS the following year
- USA wins its 10th Nordic Cup

U.S. U-20S LOOKING TOWARD 2014 WOMEN'S WORLD CUP

The verdict is in: the FIFA Under-20 Women's World Cup is an invaluable development opportunity and legitimate proving ground for future stars. The USA's participation in the first six events – of which the Americans have won three – gave an early glimpse of young talent, many of whom have gone on to make major impacts at the full international level. The first two tournaments were held as Under-19 events before FIFA moved it to a U-20 competition in 2006.

In 2011, U.S. Soccer Women's Technical Director April Heinrichs and head coach Steve Swanson began to oversee the program with focus of qualifying for the 2012 FIFA U-20 Women's World Cup, which was to be held in Uzbekistan. The tournament was later moved to Japan, and the USA made a magical run through the competition, losing to Germany in the final match of group play before rebounding to beat three group winners in the knockout stages, downing Korea DPR 2-1 in the quarterfinal, Nigeria 2-0 in the semifinal and then flipping the result on the Germans, winning 1-0 in the World Cup Final in Tokyo on a goal from Kealia Ohai.

Under new head coach Michelle French, a former U.S. Women's National Team player and 2000 Olympian, the USA now sets its sights on qualifying for the 2014 FIFA U-20 Women's World Cup in Canada, site of the first tournament for this age group back in 2002. That tournament was won by the USA in dramatic fashion on a "golden goal" from Lindsay Tarpley in sudden death overtime to defeat the hosts 1-0.

Players eligible for the next U-20 WWC must be born on or after Jan. 1, 1994.

French and her staff will have the benefit of an excellent preparation schedule that features numerous domestic training camps and some highly competitive matches abroad, as well as several players who are still age-eligible from the last cycle of U-20s plus some very strong talent coming up through the ranks from the U.S. U-17 and U-18 Women's National Teams.

IN THE BEGINNING: The History of the U-20 WNT

Originally created in 1998 as an Under-18 program, the team moved up an age level to the U-19 level in 2001 in preparation for the first FIFA-sanctioned world championship for youth women, before becoming a U-20 program in 2005 for the first FIFA U-20 Women's World Cup in 2006.

2012 was one of the best years ever for the U.S. program as the team went 16-2-1 in international matches (17-2-2 overall) and won perhaps the most competitive U-20 Women's World Cup in history. The USA rolled through CONCACAF World Cup qualifying to earn a berth to Japan by winning all five games by a combined score of 18-1 and pulled off a dramatic late-game comeback to defeat Canada by a 2-1 score in the championship game on a game-winner from Chioma Ubogagu. U.S. head coach Steve Swanson fashioned a team that had speed and skill all over the field, which when combined with tremendous heart, gave the Americans a unique squad that overcome adversity to reach the top of the podium in Tokyo, Japan. The U.S. team featured several players who could have bright full National Team futures, and the victory further cemented the USA's youth programs among the best in the world. U.S. captain Julie Johnston, who would be named the U.S. Soccer Young Female Athlete of the Year for 2012, won the Bronze Ball as the third-best player in the tournament, a rare honor for a defender.

2011 was a transition year for the U-20s as Swanson took over the program and played only a handful of international matches, going 6-2-1 overall and 2-1-1 against other countries. Still, the year was highly productive as Swanson refined his player pool and started to develop a team that would go on to win the World Cup. He saw several veterans of the U-20 level continue to mature while numerous young players showed their ability to play and prosper at the international level. The schedule included two matches with the Japanese U-20 squad, which the USA split with the visitors during a camp in Chula Vista, Calif.

In 2010, Jill Ellis led the team to a 16-3-5 overall record and 13-2-3 in international play, winning the title at the CONCACAF Women's World Cup Qualifying Tournament in Guatemala. The U.S. team went undefeated against international competition until its final two friendlies before the U-20 Women's World Cup, then fell to Germany and Japan on a pre-World Cup trip to Germany. At the Women's World Cup, the USA was surprised by Ghana in the opener, a 1-1 tie, before rebounding to defeat Switzerland 5-0 and South Korea 1-0 to win the group and earn a berth in the quarterfinal. The USA played a hard-fought match against Nigeria with regulation time ending at 1-1. A scoreless overtime led to a shootout, where the U.S. goalkeeper Bianca Henninger twice saved penalties that were ordered retaken, and the USA fell in the shootout for the earliest elimination in history for a U.S. team at a Women's World Cup. With five goals in the 2010 tournament and 10 in her U-20 career, Sydney Leroux became the USA's all-time leading scorer in U-20 Women's World Cup tournaments.

In 2009, Ellis led the team to a 9-2-3 overall record and 4-1-2 in international play as she narrowed down the player pool in preparation for CONCACAF qualifying in early 2010. The schedule included wins against the Norway, England and Canada U-20s teams as well as draws with the always-talented France and Germany. Kelly Cobb, Maya Hayes and 2008 U-20 Women's World Cup star Sydney Leroux led the USA in scoring with six goals apiece in all matches.

In 2008, despite taking over as head coach from Ellis fairly late in the cycle, Tony DiCicco molded a team that would win the USA's seventh women's world title. DiCicco's side experienced some growing pains during the year, but it all came together in brilliant fashion during the Women's World Cup as the USA scored 12 goals and allowed just three, controlling every match (aside from a meaningless 2-0 loss to China in group play), on the way to a convincing 2-1 defeat of Korea DPR in the title game. The USA won three matches by 3-0 scores, including the quarterfinal against England, and then outplayed a talented German side to win the semifinal by a 1-0 score. Leroux became just the second U.S. player to win the Golden Ball at a FIFA event and also won the Golden Shoe as the tournament's top scorer with five goals. Alex Morgan also had a great tournament, scoring four times and winning the Silver Ball and the Bronze Shoe. Goalkeeper Alyssa Naeher was world class, allowing just one goal, that in the waning moments of the final match, a performance that earned her the Golden Glove as the tournament's top 'keeper. The U-20s finished 2008 with an overall record of 20-7-0 while going 14-4-0 in international games.

In 2007, Ellis took the team through some excellent preparation during the identification stage for this pool of players, eventually winning the silver medal at the Pan American Games in Rio de Janeiro, an achievement that included defeating the full Women's National Team of Canada in the semifinal, 2-1. In the gold medal game, the USA ran into a Brazilian buzzsaw in front of a packed house at the famed Maracana Stadium, but that experience will no doubt benefit the players as they moved forward in their national team careers. The U-20s finished 10-5-1 on the year, but four of those losses were to full Women's National Teams.

In 2006, the U.S. U-20s played an amazing 50 matches before the 2006 FIFA U-20 Women's World Championship in Russia, eventually compiling an overall record of 39-10-7 for the year. The USA's 16-2-3 international record was stellar, although the year ended on a down note with the fourth place finish at the world championship. The USA got some big-time goal production from several forwards during the year, including Jessica Rostedt (24 goals, 7 in international play), Lauren Cheney (21/9), Kelley O'Hara (20/10) and U.S. Soccer Young Female Athlete of the Year Danesha Adams (18/7). The USA qualified for the world championship with an undefeated run at the CONCACAF U-20 Women's Final Qualifying Tournament held in Mexico in January of 2006, downing the hosts 3-0 for a berth to Russia and beating Canada 3-2 in the championship game.

In 2005, the team had a quiet year of activity due to the transition of head coaches.

In 2004, under head coach Mark Krikorian, the USA went 17-7-2 and 11-5-2 in international matches, but lost its first ever match to a team in its age group, falling to Japan, 1-0. The USA finished second in CONCACAF qualifying, falling 2-1 to Canada in the championship, but they had already secured a berth to Thailand by virtue of a clinical 6-0 win against Mexico in the semifinal. The USA put together four excellent matches to open the U-19 Women's World Cup, starting with a rousing 3-0 win against Korea Republic followed by a 4-1 domination of Russia. The USA finished group play with a hard fought 1-0 win against Spain. In the quarterfinal match against a plucky Australia, Angie Woznuk came off the bench to help set up the USA's two goals, both of which were assisted by Stephanie Lopez, sending the USA to the semifinal. In the semifinal, the young Americans ran into a German wall. Tied at 1-1 at halftime, the USA took control of the match's pace only to see the Germans score on a lightning counter attack. With the USA pressing forward, Germany scored another to secure the final 3-1 margin. The USA earned third-place honors with a 3-0 win against Brazil.

In 2003, the U-19s went 7-4-1 overall and 6-2-0 in international competition, getting wins against Mexico, Japan, Germany and Holland during the year.

In 2002, the U-19s went 22-2-2 overall and 17-1-0 in international matches, including six wins at the FIFA U-19 Women's World Cup in Canada. The victory in the title game of the first-ever U-19 WWC was another in a long line of "firsts" for the U.S. Women's National Team program, which includes the first Women's World Cup championship and the first Olympic gold medal. Team captain Lindsay Tarpley scored a 109th minute "golden goal" against host Canada to win 1-0 on Sept. 1, 2002, in front of 47,784 fans at Edmonton's Commonwealth Stadium.

In 2001, the USA went 10-4-4 overall and 4-0-1 in international matches as the nucleus of the 2002 world championship team started to form.

Under Steve Swanson in 2000, the U-18s went 10-2-3, including 3-0-2 in international competition, all against senior women's national teams.

The first season of U-18 competition in 1999 was a banner year, as the team went 14-0-3 overall and 8-0-2 internationally, winning a gold medal in the Pan American games to clinch an unprecedented "treble" for the U.S. Women's National Team, which also won gold at the 1999 Women's World Cup and U-21 Nordic Cup.

Shannon Cirovski, a veteran of the USA's 1991 Women's World Cup championship team, was the first coach of the U-18s but stepped down to take the head coach position at the University of Maryland. She coached the U-18s halfway through 1999 before U.S. Women's National Team assistant coach Jay Hoffman took the reins and guided the team to gold at the Pan Am Games in Winnipeg.

In its 13 years of competition as a U-18, U-19 and now a U-20 team, the program has lost only 22 international matches and just 11 to teams in its age group, compiling a 105-22-16 all-time international record.

MICHELLE FRENCH

Head Coach: U.S. U-20 Women's National Team

Born: Jan. 27, 1977, in Kent, Wash.

Hometown: Bellevue, Wash.

Michelle French was hired as head coach of the U.S. Under-20 Women's National Team on Feb. 20, 2013. A former U.S. international at the senior and youth levels, and a former professional player in the WUSA, French joins U.S. Soccer as the first full-time head coach for the U-20 age group.

French, 36, comes to U.S. Soccer after having coached at all levels of girls' youth soccer. She served as a scout for U.S. Club Soccer since 2009, was a coach in the Washington Girls' Olympic Development Program and served as an assistant coach for various U.S. Youth National Teams at the U-14, U-15, U-17 and U-18 levels since 2005.

She also has experience in the college game, serving as an assistant at UCLA in 2002 and as a volunteer assistant at the University of Washington in 2005.

She has worked with the Eastside Football Club since 2005, coaching up to three girls' teams at a time. She also coached FC Portland Academy from 1998-2004.

In the summer of 2012, she was the head coach of the Seattle Sounders Women in the W-League, a team that included U.S. WNT players, Alex Morgan, Sydney Leroux, Megan Rapinoe and Hope Solo.

As a player, French played for the U.S. Women's National Team from 1997-2001, earning 14 caps with 11 starts. She won a silver medal at the 2000 Olympics. She was also called in to attend a portion of the Residency Training Camp for the 2004 Olympics.

She was first called into the full National Team for the two matches against England on the 1997 Victory Tour presented by Nike, and she earned her first cap against England in her home stadium at the University of Portland on May 11, 1997. She had two assists in her career and played her last game for the USA on July 3, 2001, during a 1-0 win over Canada in Blaine, Minn.

French was also a member of the Residency Training for the 1999 FIFA Women's World Cup and is one of the most-capped players in U.S. history at the U-21 level. She played for the USA U-21s from 1994-1999, the latter few as an overage player, and captained the U-21s from 1997-1999.

She captained the 1997, 1998 and 1999 Nordic Cup teams, helping the U.S. to a championship in 1997 in Denmark, while scoring two goals; to second place in 1998 in Holland; and to another title in 1999 in Iceland. She was a starter on the U-20 team at the Nordic Cup in Sweden in the summer of 1996.

French started her professional career with the Washington Freedom of the WUSA in 2001, where she was co-captain, and played two years for the San Jose CyberRays.

She continued her career at the semi-professional level, playing for the Seattle Sounders Women in the W-League in 2004 and from 2006-2009. In 2004, she led the W-League in assists and was named First-Team All-League and First-Team All-Conference in each season she played.

French was a highly decorated collegiate player at the University of Portland from 1995-1998 where she was a four-year starter and started every game she played. As a senior, she was a First-Team NSCAA All-American, an All-Far West Region selection and a MAC Hermann Award Finalist. She was also All-WCC First-Team and a WWC All-Academic Team selection. She was also the WCC Freshman of the Year in 1995 and a Soccer America All-Freshman Team selection. As a junior, her 14 assists were the second-best season total at the time to Shannon MacMillan.

During her time with the Pilots, she helped lead the team to three NCAA Final Fours under legendary head coach Clive Charles, whom she lists as one of her greatest inspirations, and graduated with a Bachelor's degree in sociology.

At John F. Kennedy High School, she was a two-time Parade All-American, an NSCAA All-American and a USA Today Top-25 recruit and helped her school win state titles as a freshman and a senior. She was the team's leading scorer and MVP all four years and finished her prep career with 69 goals with 75 assists. She also lettered in track and field, softball and basketball in high school.

French also coached high school soccer at Mercer Island High School in 2006 and Sunset High School in Portland from 2003-2004. In October of 2008, French was diagnosed with Non-Hodgkin's lymphoma and made a full recovery.

French has a USSF National "A" License.

2013 U.S. UNDER-20 WNT PLAYER POOL

Following is the current player pool for the U.S. Under-20 Women's National Team. This is the primary pool of players that will be used by the head coach for training camps and matches in 2013 as the team prepares for qualifying for the 2014 FIFA U-20 Women's World Cup to be held in Canada. Players born on or after January 1, 1994, are eligible for the next U-20 Women's World Cup. The pool is constantly evolving, with new players being added and called-up. In addition, members of U-20 pool may be called up to the U-23 Pool or the full National Team and members of the U-17 and U-18 National Team Pools may be called up to the U-20s. In addition, members of the U-20 pool may attend U-18 training camps.

FIFA U-20 WOMEN'S WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP REVIEW

The U.S. Under-19/U-20 Women's National Team has participated in all six FIFA World Cups for this age group, winning the title in 2002 in Canada, finishing third in 2004 in Thailand, taking fourth in 2006 in Russia, reclaiming the crown in 2008 in Chile, suffering its worst finish ever in 2010 with a quarterfinal loss in Germany and then rebounding to win its third title in 2012 in Japan. In 2006, the competition moved to the Under-20 level, bringing it in line with the men's FIFA U-20 World Cup.

TOP OF THE PODIUM IN TOKYO (2012)

The 2012 FIFA U-20 Women's World Cup in Japan was a triumph of American spirit as well as Japanese character. The hosts organized a fantastic tournament on short notice after it was moved from Uzbekistan and then captured the attention of the nation with some tremendously attractive soccer played with unabashed joy. The Japanese fell to the powerful Germans in the semifinal (after giving up three goals inside of 20 minutes) while the USA defeated a talented Nigeria team to make the World Cup Final and then triumphed 1-0 on a goal from speedy attacker Kealia Ohai.

What made the USA's march to the tournament title even more special was the adversity the team faced in group play. After a convincing 4-0 opening game victory against Ghana, featuring a hat trick from Maya Hayes, the USA tied China PR 1-1 in group play and then got smashed by Germany, 3-0.

Those results gave the Americans a remarkably tough road to the championship as they would have to defeat three group winners along the way. First up was a Korea DPR side that featured 10 players from their 2012 London Olympic Team. Seven North Koreans who played against the full U.S. Women's National Team at the Olympics during the USA's 1-0 group play victory at Old Trafford in Manchester, England, played against the U.S. U-20s in the quarterfinal, and the Koreans came into the game with a tournament-high 15 goals. The USA got a wonder-strike from distance from Vanessa DiBernardo and an overtime header from Chioma Ubogagu to earn the hard-fought 2-1 win and a berth to the semifinal against Nigeria, the country that had knocked the USA out of the U-20 World Cup two years earlier in the quarterfinal stage.

The Americans played a tremendous match against Nigeria in the 2-0 victory, getting a header goal from Morgan Brian and a strike off a beautiful run from Ohai. That victory earned the USA another shot at Germany, which made the championship game without allowing a goal in its previous five games of the tournament.

The USA ruined Germany's perfect record just before halftime as Crystal Dunn's dynamic run with the ball down the right flank in the 44th minute set up Ohai for what would be the game winner.

The USA played stout defense in the second half, led by center backs Cari Roccaro and Julie Johnston – who would win the Bronze Ball as the third best player in the tournament – and got several clutch saves from goalkeeper Bryane Heaberlin to earn the historic victory.

THE PAIN OF PENALTIES IN GERMANY (2010)

If the 2010 FIFA U-20 Women's World Cup proved anything – besides Germany's dominance at home – is that the African teams are getting stronger. The USA drew 1-1 with both African sides it faced, and was knocked out of the tournament at the quarterfinal stage.

The USA started the tournament with a tie against a tough Ghana side, although the Americans had plenty of chances to win the game, firing 25 total shots with only Sydney Leroux finding the back of the net with 20 minutes left. The young Americans rebounded to defeat Switzerland, 5-0, in its second match as Leroux notched a hat trick, the first for an American woman in a Women's World Cup since 1991 and just the third-ever for a U.S. player.

The USA then faced the Korea Republic with the group title on the line and edged the talented Koreans, 1-0, as Leroux once again found the net. That set up a quarterfinal match with Nigeria, a physical side which somehow racked up 26 fouls (with four yellow cards) to the USA's five. The Americans scored early through Amber Brooks, but gave up a bomb from distance just 11 minutes from the end of the game. The USA once again had plenty of chances to win the game, including a few in overtime, but Nigeria managed to fire a remarkable 31 shots with U.S. goalkeeper Bianca Henninger making 14 saves.

The match went to penalty kicks and U.S. U-20 veterans Christine Nairn and Leroux missed the USA's first and fourth kicks, respectively, while Nigeria made all four, but not without controversy. Henninger twice saved the shot of Nigeria's third kicker, only to have both wiped away and ordered retaken by the referee. Nigeria finally tallied on its third chance.

Leroux's five goals, which won her the Bronze Shoe as the third leading scorer in the tournament, combined with the five she scored in 2008 in Chile, gave her the most for a U.S. player in U-20 Women's World Cup history. Henninger, who gave up just two goals in the tournament, won the Golden Glove as the best goalkeeper in the competition.

GLORY REGAINED IN CHILE (2008)

The 2008 U.S. Under-20 Women's World Cup Team put together one of the most complete performances ever for a U.S. team at a world championship event, scoring 12 goals while allowing just three on the way to a glorious 2-1 title game victory over defending U-20 world champions Korea DPR. The fans in Chile adopted the U.S. team during the tournament as the players had once-in-a-lifetime experiences during the first-ever FIFA Women's World Cup in South America.

Forwards Sydney Leroux and Alex Morgan had fantastic tournaments, accounting for nine of the USA's 12 goals. The USA took home an unprecedented amount of hardware as Leroux won the Golden Ball as the best player in the tournament and the Golden Shoe as the top scorer with five goals. Morgan, who scored four times, won the Silver Ball and the Bronze Shoe while goalkeeper Alyssa Naeher, who allowed just one goal over the five brilliant matches in which she played, took home the Golden Glove. The USA also won the FIFA Fair Play Award.

The U.S. started off with two convincing 3-0 wins over France and Argentina. With the top spot in the group locked up after just two matches, DiCicco played numerous reserves in the third group game against China PR, a 2-0 loss.

The Americans rolled to a 3-0 win against England in the quarterfinal as captain Keelin Winters scored on a fantastic header to get things started. The Americans then out-battled the Germans, getting an own goal on a cross from Nikki Washington as well as a hustling slide from Leroux.

The win set up a championship game meeting with Korea DPR. Leroux scored a fantastic goal from distance in the 23rd minute and Morgan added another brilliant long range strike just before halftime that goes down as one of the greatest ever goals for a U.S. player in a world championship final. The dangerous Koreans attacked with fervor, but the U.S. defense stayed strong, led by center backs Nikki Marshall and Lauren Fowlkes. The Asian champions did pull a goal back in the second minute of second half stoppage time, but the Americans would lift the trophy in front of an appreciative crowd in Santiago.

UNFORTUNATE FOURTH IN RUSSIA (2006)

The USA's 2006 U-20 team disappointed in its results at the world championship in Russia, taking fourth and becoming the only U.S. women's team ever to finish out of the top three at a FIFA world championship. The U.S. team had played 50 matches against national teams, colleges and women's clubs in 2006 leading into the world championship and had never failed to score at least one goal, but somehow could not muster one in the semifinal or third place match, which both went to penalty kicks. The U.S. team had kicks to win both games only to miss, and then miss the next as well.

In group play, the USA struggled a bit early as U.S. head coach Tim Schulz utilized his entire roster. The U.S. U-20s opened the tournament with a 2-1 win over minnow DR Congo. The young Americans then defeated Argentina 4-1 in a match that could easily have seen more U.S. goals, but put together a quality performance in the final first round match to defeat France 1-0 on a goal from Jessica Rostedt.

In the quarterfinal round, the USA looked to be the favorite after trouncing defending champion Germany 4-1 as Danesha Adams scored twice, but then came the scoreless semifinal and third-place match against China PR and Brazil, respectively, and the painful penalty kick shootouts.

Standouts on the U.S. team included Adams, a midfielder/forward, who won the Bronze Ball as the third best player in the tournament, as well as goalkeeper Val Henderson and midfielder Amanda Poach, who along with Adams made the All-Tournament Team. Flank defender Tobin Heath and flank midfielder Kelley O'Hara (two goals) also had fine tournaments for the USA.

This U.S. team featured several players with bright futures on the full National Team, including forwards Amy Rodriguez (who scored twice in her second youth world championship), Lauren Cheney, Heath and Stephanie Lopez.

TAKING THIRD IN THAILAND (2004)

The 2004 U.S. U-19 Women's National Team was going to be hard-pressed to live up to the standards set by the 2002 squad, which won the first-ever world youth championship for women while rolling over the competition in Canada, but amazingly, they almost did. Featuring four players from the 2002 squad, the 2004 team in Thailand put on one of the finest displays of soccer ever seen by a U.S. team in a world championship to win a difficult Group C that featured Asian champion Korea Republic, European champion Spain and Russia.

The USA opened the tournament with a 3-0 victory over Korea Republic, scored in just the second minute in a 4-1 victory over Russia and finished group play with a highly professional 1-0 win over Spain as Jessica Rostedt provided the lone goal. The USA dominated Australia 2-0 in the quarterfinals as Angie Woznuk came off the bench to help create both goals, but ran into a wall in the always tough and talented Germans in the semifinal and fell 3-1 to end their dreams of a second world youth title. The young U.S. team rebounded remarkably well in the Third Place match, taking out Brazil 3-0, despite the South Americans featuring the virtuoso attacking duo of Marta and Cristiane from their silver-medal winning team at the 2004 Olympics.

It was a breakout tournament for Woznuk, the USA's dynamic attacking midfielder, who won the Silver Ball as the second Most Valuable Player and the Bronze Boot as the third leading scorer in the competition despite battling a foot injury throughout. A new wave of talented American strikers also emerged as 17-year-old Amy Rodriguez scored two goals while 18-year-old Rostedt and 19-year-old Megan Rapinoe scored three goals each.

Like she did for the 2002 U-19 squad, goalkeeper Ashlyn Harris played every minute and was once again stellar, sealing her status as one of the top young goalkeepers in the world. Harris earned All-Tournament recognition along with Woznuk and center-back Becky Sauerbrunn, who teamed with Rachel Buehler to form a bruising partnership in the middle of the U.S. back line. Left back Stephanie Lopez also showed signs of future U.S. stardom while the USA was awarded the FIFA Fair Play Award, getting just two yellow cards in the tournament.

HISTORIC WIN IN CANADA (2002)

In the first FIFA tournament for U-19s, under the most adverse conditions and on the biggest of stages, the U.S. Under-19 Women's National Team achieved one of the most historic victories in U.S. Soccer history, defeating host Canada 1-0 on Sept. 1, 2002, in front of 47,784 fans at Commonwealth Stadium in Edmonton, Alberta, to win the 2002 FIFA Under-19 Women's World Championship.

This unique group of teenagers represented the first young women in U.S. history with the opportunity to play in a sanctioned FIFA world championship. They embraced that challenge, played the semifinal and championship game in front of massive crowds and a world-wide TV audience, and came out champions, showing with unbridled emotion that all young girls in the United States can now look forward to the chance to be a world champion as a youth player.

On the field, the young U.S. players had to maintain their composure in the championship game, played in front of a massive Canadian crowd, awash with red-and-white flags. Substitute Megan Kakadelas created the winning goal by curving a cross on the ground into the penalty area late in overtime. The ball was kept alive by a darting Heather O'Reilly, who crashed into a defender on a hard near post run. The ball squirted across the goalmouth to U.S. captain Lindsay Tarpley who pounded a shot into the net from close range to end the game.

With the win, the U-19s added another first to the glorious history of the U.S. Women's National Team program, which claimed the first Women's World Cup and the first Olympic gold medal for women's soccer. The USA rolled through Group play, defeating England 5-1, Australia 4-0 and Chinese Taipei 6-0, before blasting Denmark 6-0 in the quarterfinal match. The USA fell behind 1-0 to Germany in the semifinal, before storming back to win 4-1 on two goals from Wilson, one from Tarpley and one from defender Jill Oakes.

Tarpley was awarded with the Bronze Boot as the third leading scorer in the tournament with six goals while Kelly Wilson earned the Silver Boot as the tournament's second leading scorer with nine goals in just five games. Wilson also picked up the Bronze Ball as the third most valuable player in the tournament.

The victory was the end of a glorious two-year run to the tournament in which the first crop of U-19s went 21-1-1 in international competition and formed a family bond that carried them past an excellent and tough Canadian team, and their massive fan support, to the first-ever world championship for youth women.

"The journey not only made us better players, but it showed us that great things can be accomplished through hard work, love and belief," said Tarpley, who two years later would score for the USA in the Olympic gold medal match. "Over the last two years, we've had some amazing times on the soccer field, but it's the friendships we'll carry forever. I know we will look back at this 20 years from now with the same feelings for each other that we have now. We'll remember the day we became world champions together."

U.S. UNDER-18 WOMEN'S NATIONAL TEAM

In 2008, the U.S. Under-18 Women's National Team was reinstated (after having existed from 1998-2001) to give international competition to players who have just finished a cycle with the U.S. U-17s, but are a year away from the next U-20 cycle.

With the addition of the U-18s, the U.S. Women's National Team program now fielded teams at the U-14, U-15, U-17, U-18, U-20, U-23 and full Women's National Team levels. The structure now mirrors the men's side (which sends its U-23 team to the Olympics) and with the inception of the U-17 FIFA Women's World Cup, now competes every two years for FIFA U-17 and U-20 Women's World Cup titles.

The U-18 WNT provides a transition for a number of those players that could possibly make up the core of the team that would attempt to qualify for the following U-20 Women's World Cup, or even contribute to the current cycle of U-20s. The U-18s also provide a proving ground for players in the U-20 pool who may be just below the core group training for the U-20 Women's World Cup, giving them an environment to show that they are worthy of being pulled back into the top tier of U-20s.

Current Director of Coaching Education Dave Chesler coached the U-18s in 2009 and 2010, but in 2011, U.S. Soccer Women's Technical Director April Heinrichs took over the program in 2012, when the squad had three training camps and compiled a record of 2-1-1, which included two matches against top Chinese women's club Shanghai FC.

In 2011, the squad went 3-1-1 that included a victory over the German U-18s and a loss to the Japanese U-20s. In 2010, the squad went 4-2-2 and in 2009, Chesler led the team to a 4-0-3 record, which included a 5-1 victory against the Canadian U-20 WNT.

This year's group of players, primarily born in 1996, will have several domestic training camps. Several of the U-18s may be called into U-20 events as that group of players begins more intense preparations for the 2014 FIFA Under-20 Women's World Cup.

Dean Duerst, who coached the U.S. U-17s in 2007, led the 2008 U-18s to a highly successful year, defeating three college teams and winning six games against European U-19s sides in Europe.

The U.S. U-18s had a nice run of success during the late 1990s, winning the 1999 Pan-American Games in Canada and going 14-0-3 during the year. Shannon Cirovski, a veteran of the USA's 1991 FIFA Women's World Cup championship team, was the first coach of the U-18s in 1998 before then U.S. Women's National Team assistant coach Jay Hoffman grabbed the reins and guided the team to Pan-Am gold.

U.S. UNDER-17 WOMEN'S NATIONAL TEAM

The U.S. Under-17 Women's National Team will play its 11th full season of competition this year as U.S. Soccer Women's Director of Development Jill Ellis and B.J. Snow, who is the first person to fill the newly created full-time position as head coach of the U.S. U-17 WNT, oversee the program with the goal of qualifying for the 2014 FIFA U-17 Women's World Cup in Costa Rica. Players eligible for the upcoming Women's World Cup must be born on or after Jan. 1, 1997.

Snow and his staff will run the squad through a vigorous preparation schedule that will include a mixture of domestic camps and foreign trips this year which includes a tournament in Costa Rica as the staff and coaches get the chance to get acclimated to the conditions they hope to face during the next U-17 Women's World Cup.

As this is the first year of the new cycle, the players are technically Under-16s and in the second year – the World Cup year – the players will be U-16s and U-17s, with perhaps some of the top U-15s thrown into the mix as well. The busy schedule is designed to prepare these 15, 16 and 17-year olds for the biggest competition of their young careers.

U.S. Soccer first added the U-17 Women's National Team to its programming at the end of 2002. The U-17 program was initiated as U.S. Soccer felt it was vitally important to get more talented players training with national team coaches and with the best players in their age group. The philosophy for the U-17s is to accelerate the development of the USA's best young players and better prepare them for the game's highest levels through training with top players and international matches.

Starting in 2008, the age group got its own world championship, an exciting prospect for the young Americans who will get the chance to compete for their country in a CONCACAF qualifying competition and then hopefully the FIFA U-17 Women's World Cup.

The U-17s had a successful year in 2012, going 19-1-4 overall and 13-0-4 in international matches, but learned how cruel the game can be, especially in a World Cup, when the squad became the first U.S. women's team to fail to advance out of group play in a World Cup tournament. Despite not losing a match, the USA's

6-0 win against Gambia and draws with eventual finalists France (0-0) and Korea DPR (1-1) made the USA the first team ever to exit a FIFA women's tournament after the group stage while earning five points.

Still, 2012 saw the USA register wins over the U-17 teams from Germany and China, the U-19 teams from France and the Netherlands and a win over the full Slovenian Women's National Team. The USA also drew 0-0 with China's U-20s. The USA rolled through CONCACAF qualifying while earning five shutouts, out-scoring their opponents 26-0 including a hard-fought 1-0 victory against Canada to win the regional title in Guatemala. Summer Green led the USA in scoring with 16 goals, including 12 at qualifying, the most ever for an American player during a CONCACAF qualifying event.

In 2011, Albertin Montoya took over the program and started building but also refining the player pool as he developed a team that played an attractive ball-possession attacking style. The young U.S. team went 1-1-2 in international matches, facing Germany and Japan twice each.

The U.S. U-17s had an odd year in 2010 as head coach Kazbek Tambi put together an incredibly talented group that outscored its opponents 38-0 at CONCACAF Qualifying in Costa Rica, but fell in the all-important semifinal in penalty kicks to Canada to end its World Cup dreams.

The U-17s had a tremendous build-up schedule in place which included games against the Germany, Brazil and Japan U-17s, but one missed penalty kick rendered the preparation moot. The team nevertheless went 16-2-3 during 2010 including a 13-2-3 record in international play with its only losses coming to Japan three months after the disappointment at qualifying.

In 2009, the U-17s put together an overall record of 7-2-2 including 4-2-1 in international games and ended the year with an impressive four-game sweep of the U-17 and/or U-20 sides from Chile, Argentina and Uruguay in Buenos Aires. The U.S. played three close matches with a German team one year older to start the year, but tied once and lost twice at the event in Florida.

After coaching the U.S. U-16s in 2007, Tambi moved with the age group to U-17s in 2008 to prepare for qualifying for the historic 2008 FIFA U-17 Women's World Cup, the first of its kind for this age group. In 2008, the U-17s compiled a record of 19-3-2 and 11-2-1 in international matches while winning the CONCACAF qualifying tournament in Trinidad & Tobago and came within minutes of winning the inaugural FIFA U-17 Women's World Cup, eventually falling 2-1 in overtime to Korea DPR.

In 2007, as this age group began its run to the 2008 FIFA U-17 Women's World Cup, the team went 9-1-0, defeating two college teams as well youth sides from Germany (U-17), Denmark (U-19), England (U-19), Argentina (U-20) and Uruguay (U-17). The only setback was a loss to the Argentina U-17s.

In 2006, the U-17s defeated and tied the German U-17s twice early in the year and then lost to two women's clubs before reeling off six straight wins including a 4-1 triumph against the Argentina U-20s. The only setback in international matches was a 2-1 loss to the full Argentina Women's National Team. In 2005, the U-17s defeated Germany's U-17s twice, and defeated Japan's U-18s, but struggled on a trip to Mexico where they lost to Mexico and Canada's U-20s and Mexico's U-18s.

In 2004, the U-17s defeated Canada's U-17s with a resounding 5-2 win and downed Germany's U-17s, 2-1. In 2003, the U.S. went undefeated in international matches, defeating Canada and Germany (twice). The U-17s also went undefeated against much older competition at the U.S. Soccer Festival in Houston, Texas. In fact, the only loss of the year came in a 4-3 shootout to the U.S. U-16 Girls in the first match of the year.

The U-17s played their first three matches in late November of 2002, two against older regional teams, and then won its first international 3-0 against Scotland in Boca Raton, Fla. on Nov. 30, 2002.

B.J. SNOW

Head Coach: U.S. U-17 Women's National Team

Born: Jan. 30, 1977, in Kalamazoo, Mich.

Hometown: Kalamazoo, Mich.

B.J. Snow was named head coach of the U.S. Under-17 Women's National Team on Jan. 25, 2013. He became the first full-time head coach for the U.S. U-17 WNT.

Snow is responsible for all aspects of the U.S. U-17 Women's National Team program and will guide the team to CONCACAF Qualifying for the 2014 FIFA U-17 Women's World Cup to be held in Costa Rica. Snow previously served as an assistant with the U.S. Under-20 Women's National Team for the 2010 FIFA Under-20 World Cup in Germany. He has also worked with U.S. Soccer as a clinician at a number of coaching seminars.

Snow comes to U.S. Soccer from UCLA, where he was the head women's soccer coach for two seasons in 2011 and 2012. Snow became the fourth head coach in UCLA history in 2011 when he took over for longtime head coach Jill Ellis, who left UCLA to accept the job with U.S. Soccer as the Women's Development Director.

Snow led UCLA to a 16-1-4 overall record in his first season as head coach in 2011, helping the Bruins reach the second round of the NCAA Tournament. UCLA also compiled an 8-1-2 record in league play for a second-place finish in the extremely competitive Pac-12 Conference.

Snow arrived at UCLA as a volunteer assistant coach in 2006 and quickly rose through the coaching ranks, going from volunteer assistant to full-time coach in the span of just one year. He was promoted to assistant head coach in 2009. During his time at UCLA, the Bruins compiled a record of 131-22-13, reaching the NCAA College Cup from 2006-09. UCLA also won three consecutive Pac-10 titles from 2006-08.

An excellent recruiter, Snow helped UCLA sign top-5 classes in each of his seven seasons on staff. Snow's 2011 class, which featured 10 players with Youth National Team experience, is widely regarded as one of the best recruiting classes in college women's soccer history.

Snow arrived at UCLA after spending four years as the head men's coach at his former high school, Portage Central in Kalamazoo, Mich. During his tenure at PCHS, he led the Mustangs to three Southern Michigan Athletic Conference (SMAC) titles, including three district championships. In addition, Portage Central set the school record for wins in both 2004 (19) and 2005 (20). He also coached NSCAA National High School Player of the Year Eric Alexander, who went to Indiana. Snow was also an assistant with the girls' team at PCHS.

Snow was an excellent college player who was a four-year starter on defense for Indiana from 1996-99. Snow helped the Hoosiers capture four-straight Big Ten titles, including back-to-back national championships in 1998 and 1999. Indiana's record during his time in Bloomington was 81-8-3.

Snow is married to former U.S. Women's National player and two-time Olympic gold medalist Lindsay Tarpley. The two welcomed their first child, a son, in July of 2012.

2013 U.S. UNDER-17 WNT PLAYER POOL

Following is the current player pool for the U.S. Under-17 Women's National Team. U.S. U-17 head coach B.J. Snow will, for the most part, use this pool of players for training camps and matches in 2013 as the team prepares for CONCACAF qualifying with the goal of earning a berth to the 2014 FIFA U-17 Women's World Cup in Costa Rica. Players born on or after Jan. 1, 1997 are age-eligible for the next FIFA U-17 Women's World Cup. The pool is constantly evolving, with new players being added and called-up. Players from the U-15 Girl's National Team pool ('98s) and even players two years younger ('99s) than the cutoff date may also be called to the U-17s.

 FIFA U-17 Women's World Cup

OH SO CLOSE IN NEW ZEALAND (2008)

The 2008 FIFA U-17 Women's World Cup in New Zealand was held with 16 nations playing in four venues and four stadiums – Auckland, Hamilton, Wellington, and Christchurch – and the tournament organizers can be proud of putting on a fantastic first world championship event for this age group.

The high level of play displayed over the 18 days from such young players was a sight to behold, giving cause for excitement about the U-17 and U-20 Women's World Cups to come. The organization from the Kiwis, as well as the support from the people of New Zealand, made the tournament memorable and added to the excitement for these players getting their first taste of soccer at the world stage.

The U.S. team actually started slow, losing its first match to a talented Japan team by a 3-2 score. The young Americans also needed to come from a goal down against a spunky Paraguay side in its second group match to win 3-1, setting up a clash with France for a spot in the quarterfinals. The USA gutted out a 1-1 tie against the French, but that was good enough to earn a quarterfinal meeting with Korea Republic.

The USA's World Cup run then picked up steam as the U-17s put together its best match to date, trouncing the Koreans, 4-2. A powerful German squad awaited in the semifinal, but the USA put forth a tremendous performance, coming back from a goal down to win, 2-1, as forwards Vicki DiMartino and Courtney Verloo each scored. Verloo (four goals) and DiMartino (five goals) combined for nine of the USA's 13 goals with Kristie Mewis adding two more.

The first ever FIFA U-17 Women's World Cup Final opened with a startling goal for the USA in just the second minute off a throw-in, but then Korea DPR methodically took control of the match and ended up doubling the USA in shots. Still, the USA clung to a 1-0 lead until the North Koreans tied the game with just 13 minutes left in regulation time. The match remained knotted at 1-1 and looked headed for penalty kicks, but Korea DPR scored the game-winner just three minutes from the end of overtime.

Despite the loss, which ended the USA's record of winning every "first" FIFA women's world championship (the 1991 FIFA Women's World Cup, the 1996 Olympics and the 2002 FIFA U-19 Women's World Cup), the U.S. U-17s had a emotional run to the title game backed by some excellent individual performances. Kristie Mewis won the Bronze Ball as the third best player in the tournament and would be named the U.S. Soccer Young Female Athlete of the Year a few months later. DiMartino won the Silver Shoe as the second leading scorer in the tournament and Taylor Vancil won the Golden Glove as the top 'keeper.

Other top players for the USA included defensive midfielder Amber Brooks, defenders Cloee Colohan, Rachel Quon and Crystal Dunn and midfielders Olivia Klei and Samantha Mewis. The Mewis sisters became the first siblings to represent the USA in a FIFA Women's World Cup.

FIVE POINTS NOT ENOUGH IN AZERBAIJAN (2012)

The 2012 FIFA U-17 Women's World Cup in Azerbaijan turned into a painful learning experience for the young Americans who became the first team ever in a FIFA women's competition to earn five points in group play and yet fail to advance to the quarterfinals. The USA learned the importance of a goal or two in advancing during a World Cup, losing out to eventual champion France on goal difference to finish third in the group. It was the first time a U.S. women's team had not advanced out of group play during a FIFA event.

The USA was drawn into what turned out to be by far the most difficult group, which produced the eventual finalists and champion France. The Americans drew with the French 0-0 and tied eventual runners-up Korea DPR 1-1, but as it turned out, a 6-0 victory over Gambia in the middle game of Group B proved to be the USA's undoing. The North Koreans beat Gambia 11-0 and France beat the Africans, debutantes in a FIFA Women's World Cup, by a 10-2 score, getting six goals in the last 20 minutes to move ahead of the Americans on goal difference.

Still, there were many positives to be taken from the USA's Women's World Cup experience. The U.S. team allowed just one goal in the tournament and battled extremely talented French and Korean teams to the final whistle. Against North Korea, the USA took the lead on a goal from Darian Jenkins in just the second minute, only to concede a few minutes later to eventual Golden Ball winner Ri Un Sim in the fourth. The USA had several chances to steal the match at the end, but it was not to be and the Koreans deservedly won the group.

The USA did get a glimpse of some future talent, especially in goal where Jane Campbell showed signs that she could be one of the most talented young 'keepers to emerge in a while. In the beginning of 2013, she would get her first call-up to the full Women's National Team. Summer Green, the USA's leading scorer during the year, scored her first two World Cup goals, and talented attackers Amber Munerlyn and Jenkins also showed some speed that could make them key players in the next cycle of the U.S. Under-20s. Defenders Maddie Bauer and Mandy Freeman also showed promise in the center of the defense.

Kudos should also go to Azerbaijan, the first predominantly Muslim country to stage a Women's World Cup at any level, as it put on a world class event. The tournament featured many activities around the matches and some of the best crowds of the three FIFA U-17 Women's World Cup tournaments held so far. France would eventually triumph in a penalty kick shootout that went eight players deep as France goalkeeper Romane Bruneau saved RI Un Yong attempt to end the game and Les Blues lifted the trophy.

U.S. UNDER-15 GIRLS' NATIONAL TEAM SETS BASE FOR THE FUTURE

The U.S. Under-15 Girls' National Team was instituted in 2004 to help bridge the gap between the annual summer Under-14 Girls' National Identification Camp (which is no longer held as it has been replaced by several U-14 GNT training camps during the year) and the U.S. Under-17 Women's National Team. As the U-17s now have a Women's World Cup, the importance of the U-15s grows greater, as this age group will have a tangible goal when they enter their first major programming experience with the U.S. Women's National Teams.

The pool of 35-40 players for the U-15s will be brought to several training camps over the course of the year in order to expose more players of this age to the national team camp environment and experience. The player pool is identified on a year-round basis, through U.S. Soccer Training Centers, club soccer, ODP interregional events and the U.S. U-14 Girls' National Team camps.

At this time, four training camps/events under the guidance of U-15 GNT head coach Damon Nahas are scheduled for 2013, which will be the 10th year of activity for this age group.

The goal of the U-15s is to bring together talented players and let them play in game situations in order that their skills, reading and runs are expressed through attractive, ball-possession soccer with an emphasis on fun, free-flowing attacking and creative play.

Camps are often scheduled to run concurrent with older YNT camps to give the players an opportunity to watch and play against older players and learn through those experiences.

Players in this year's group of U-15s are born on or after Jan. 1, 1998, and are age-eligible to compete for spots on the team that will attempt to qualify for the 2014 FIFA Under-17 Women's World Cup in Costa Rica, which has an age cutoff of players born on or after Jan. 1, 1997.

DAMON NAHAS

Head Coach: U.S. Under-15 Girls' National Team

Born: June 13, 1974, in Brooklyn, N.Y.

Hometown: Morrisville, N.C.

Damon Nahas became head coach of the U.S. Under-15 Girls' National Team in May of 2011.

Nahas is currently in his second year as the technical director for the Capital Area Soccer League (CASL) in Raleigh, N.C., after holding numerous positions in the club since 2000. His job responsibilities for one of the top youth clubs in the south including developing and executing a technical curriculum and evaluating coaching staff and assisting them with implementation of technical curriculum specific to boys and girls ranging in age from Under-9 through U-14.

He is also responsible for technical/tactical training and development of players and coaches while also coaching multiple teams across all age groups and genders. His U-17 girls' team won the ECNL national championship in 2011 and the club has produced numerous players who have been called into the USA's Girls and Women's National Teams.

In addition, Nahas runs the Next Level Academy (NLA) in Morrisville and Raleigh, N.C., a program he started in 2000 to provide individual technical training for boys and girls ages U-7 through U-13.

Nahas was the owner, technical director and head coach of the PDL Cary Clarets in Cary, N.C. from 2005-2009 and was technical director and owner of the Lady Clarets in the W-League in 2009.

He also served as an assistant coach for the Carolina RailHawks the USL Division 1 from 2007 through 2009. From 1999-2002 he was the head boys' coach at Cardinal Gibbons High School in Raleigh, N.C., leading the team to a state title in 2011 and three Final Four appearances. He was twice voted the regional coach of the year.

Nahas, who resides in Morrisville, N.C., has a U.S. Soccer "A" License.

2013 U.S. UNDER-15 GNT PLAYER POOL

Following is the current player pool for the U.S. Under-15 Girl's National Team. The U-15 head coach Damon Nahas will, for the most part, use this pool of players for training camps and matches in 2013. The pool is constantly evolving, with new players being added and called-up. Players from the U-15 Girl's National Team pool may also be called up to the U.S. U-17s.

U.S. UNDER-14 GIRLS' NATIONAL DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

In recent years, the United States' play at the Youth National Team level has confirmed its status as the top nation for women's and girls' youth soccer in CONCACAF, as well as one of the best in the world. The U.S. Under-14 Girls' National Development Program has been in existence since 1999 and this programming is a major reason for the increasing quantity and quality of young players vying for spots on the numerous U.S. Youth National Teams.

In 2013, for the second year in a row, U.S. Soccer is planning to stage three U-14 Girls' National Team camps. This year, the camps will be held under the direction of new U.S. Soccer Head Development Coach April Kater and U.S. Soccer's Development Director Jill Ellis, who also oversees the U-17 Women's National Team and U-15 Girls' National Team. The camps have been streamlined to take place in May, August and September, thereby starting the identification process with this age group a bit earlier, while giving the best young players in the country a more complete slate of National Team programming.

The camps will likely feature 48 players in May, 36 players in August and 26 players in September and will encompass the top players born in 1999. Players are identified through scores of U.S. Soccer Training Centers being staged across the country all year long, and through other youth soccer development programs, ODP, id2, ECNL, etc. The players are identified and selected by U.S. Soccer's National Staff coaches and a select group of scouts from throughout the United States.

U.S. Soccer started the U.S. Under-14 National Development Program knowing that in order to continue to compete with the elite countries on the international level the U.S. would have to build a base of players from the youth level up. The Under-14 program introduces the USA's top young players to a level of soccer they would not otherwise experience at this point in their careers, as well as giving them international games that are invaluable in their development.

In the summer of 2011, before moving to the new training camp format, the last of 13 consecutive Under-14 Girls' Identification Camps was held. The 2011 U-14 Girls' Identification Camp, under the direction of Ellis, took place for the second time in Portland, Ore., as 80 girls were put through the training sessions and games.

As with the previous format during the U.S. Under-14 Girls' Identification Camp, the three U-14 GNT training camps in 2013 will feature players training in the mornings with select National Staff coaches. In the afternoon, they will play matches against one another. The evening consists of programming designed to introduce the athletes to the National Team environment and how to prepare themselves for potential call-ups to national teams in the future. The environment assists U.S. Soccer in its continued focus and commitment to identify the top players and develop them to help assist in their movement up the National Teams' ladder.

Former and current Women's National Team players are invited to the camps to speak about their experiences and to work with the players.

The camps have been an important part of the girls' first experience of representing their country in a competitive training situation. They players also get the opportunity to improve their playing abilities by competing against the best players and being instructed by USSF-licensed coaches.

After the Girls' Under-14 Identification Camp in 2007, for the first time a pool of 36 players, divided into two teams, was selected to compete in the 2008 Girls' Nike Friendlies, and were coached by Mike Dickey. These matches gave the U.S. Soccer staff coaches a chance to evaluate the players in game situations before they began to play with the U-15 Girls' National Team at the beginning of 2008. That same format of holding one event for U-14s in the fall after the ID camp was applied in 2009, 2010 and 2011, but instead 36 players were brought into a training camp environment. In 2012, the training camp format was expanded in lieu of the summer ID camp and that will continue in 2013 as all of the important educational elements of the ID Camp are being maintained across the three U-14 Girls' National Team camps that will see as many as 100 players exposed to the National Team for the first time.

The U-14 girls' program has helped to produce numerous players who have made an impact on the older levels of the Women's National Team. Heather O'Reilly and Lindsay Tarpley, both 2002 U-19 Women's World Cup Champions, members of the Women's National Team and 2004 and 2008 Olympic gold medalists, attended U-14 National team camp at the beginning of their careers. Other well-known names in the WNT program that began their international careers as U-14s include Lori Chalupny, Leslie Osborne and Tobin Heath, as well as 2008 FIFA U-17 Women's World Cup Team members Amber Brooks, Vicki DiMartino, Kristie Mewis and Samantha Mewis and 2012 U-20 Women's World Cup champions Julie Johnston, Crystal Dunn, Cari Roccaro, Abby Smith, Maya Hayes, Sarah Killion, Bryane Heaberlin, Morgan Brian, Mollie Pathman, Samantha Mewis and Vanessa DiBernardo.

FIFA WORLD CHAMPIONSHIPS

The Federation Internationale de Football Association (FIFA) currently conducts eight major outdoor soccer world championships played at the international level. Those tournaments are the FIFA World Cup, the FIFA Women's World Cup, the Men's Olympic Football Tournament, the Women's Olympic Football Tournament, the FIFA Under-20 World Cup, the FIFA Under-17 World Cup, the FIFA Under-20 Women's World Cup and the FIFA Under-17 Women's World Cup. Additionally, FIFA also conducts the Futsal World Cup every four years, and the Beach Soccer World Cup annually. A quick synopsis of these tournaments is listed below. More detail can be found on USA performances at each of these tournaments throughout the U.S. Men's National Team Media Guide and the U.S. Women's National Team Media Guide.

FIFA WORLD CUP

The FIFA World Cup has been played 18 times since the first competition in 1930 in Uruguay. The tournament has grown in stature over the years and has become not only the biggest sporting event in the world, but also simply the biggest event in the world every four years. Outside of the USA's third-place finish in the inaugural tournament, the team's quarterfinal run in 2002 is the team's best ever World Cup finish.

FIFA WOMEN'S WORLD CUP

The FIFA Women's World Cup has been contested on six occasions with the USA earning two championships (China '91 and USA '99), Germany two (USA '03 and China '07) and Norway (Sweden '95) and Japan (Germany '11) one each. The 2007 Women's World Cup featured 16 teams for the third time, after seeing 12 compete in both 1991 and 1995. China hosted the most recent Women's World Cup in 2007, four years after the event was moved to the USA following an outbreak of Severe Acute Respiratory Syndrome. The U.S. came agonizingly close to winning its third title in 2011, losing to Japan in penalty kicks. More detailed information on the Women's World Cup can be found in the U.S. Women's National Team media guide.

OLYMPIC FOOTBALL TOURNAMENTS

After competing as an exhibition sport at the 1900 and 1904 Olympic Games, soccer became the first team sport included in the Olympics with the first official tournament dating back to the 1908 London Games when the United Kingdom defeated Denmark to claim the gold medal. Since that time soccer has been part of every Olympic Games program except the 1932 event in the United States.

On the women's side, the sport wasn't introduced into the Olympics until the 1996 competition in the United States. The U.S. claimed the inaugural gold medal in women's Olympic football by defeating China 2-1 on Aug. 1, 1996, in front of a capacity crowd of 76,481 fans in Athens, Ga.

The growth of professional football after World War II meant that some of the best players were not eligible to compete in the Olympics. Nevertheless, the Olympic Tournament retained its vitality as the forum for the amateur game. In 1952, Hungary's great generation with players such as Grosics, Czibor, Puskas and Kocsis won the tournament in Helsinki. After that and until Los Angeles in 1984 all the Olympic titles went to Eastern Europe, a span of eight straight tournaments.

When the Olympics moved into their modern open era, FIFA was obliged to reconsider its position for the Barcelona 1992 tournament, where for the first time the tournament was restricted to Under-23 national teams. In 1996, FIFA altered the U-23 designation slightly, allowing teams to add three overage players into the mix, a rule that was still in effect for the 2004 Olympiad.

Through the 1928 Olympics in Holland, Olympic caps were counted as full international appearances, but that designation changed with the advent of the World Cup in 1930. Although the Olympic Games football tournament actually falls under the realm of the International Olympic Committee, FIFA presides over the event on behalf of the IOC.

FIFA UNDER-20 WORLD CUP

Contested every two years, the FIFA Under-20 World Cup is restricted to players under 20 years of age. The tournament was renamed from the FIFA World Youth Championship in 2006. The U.S. has qualified for the tournament on 11 occasions, finishing fourth in 1989 (Saudi Arabia). At the most recent qualifying tournament in 2011 in Guatemala, the U.S. won its group and kept clean sheets against Suriname and Panama but lost in the quarterfinals to Guatemala and were eliminated. That performance came eight years after forward Eddie Johnson became the first U.S. player to win a Golden Boot at a FIFA World Championship. The U.S. has won its group in four of the last five tournaments. In 2011, Brazil won its fifth title.

FIFA UNDER-20 WOMEN'S WORLD CUP

Renamed as the FIFA Under-20 Women's World Cup in 2006, the tournament was staged as a U-20 event for the first time in 2006, after two initial tournaments were played as an Under-19 tournament. The inaugural FIFA U-19 Women's World Championship was held in Canada from Aug. 17-Sept. 1, 2002, with 12 teams from around the world competing in the event. The inaugural tournament was an incredible success, with the USA capturing the first championship via a Lindsay Tarpley golden goal in a 1-0 victory in front of 47,784 fans in Edmonton, Canada. The U.S. was unable to defend their crown in 2004, losing to Germany in the semifinals in Thailand, and in 2006 finished out of the top three for the first time in their history. In 2008, however, Golden Ball winner Sydney Leroux and Silver Ball winner Alex Morgan returned the U.S. to glory. A 1-0 victory against Germany in the final lead the USA back to first place in 2012 with defender and captain Julie Johnston earning the Bronze Ball as the tournament's third most valuable player.

FIFA UNDER-17 WORLD CUP

The Under-17 World Championship is contested every two years for players under 17 years of age. The U.S. is the only country in the world to qualify for every U-17 World Championship, dating back to the tournament's inception in 1985. The first three tournaments were actually played as U-16 World Championship Tournaments, but FIFA changed the event to its present U-17 status in 1989. The CONCACAF region hosted the tournament for a second time in 2001, when Trinidad & Tobago served as the first-ever Caribbean host for a FIFA World Championship. Through 2009, the U.S. has finished among the top five in the tournament in three of the last six events. Mexico became the first CONCACAF team to win an outdoor men's world championship in 2005 with an impressive triumph in Peru. In 2011, the U.S. advanced to the knockout round for the seventh time but was eliminated after falling to Germany in the first Round of 16 game.

FIFA FUTSAL WORLD CUP

The FIFA Futsal World Cup has been contested six times with Brazil winning the first three tournaments, and Spain winning two championships in 2000 and 2004 before Brazil returned to glory as hosts in 2008. Spain ended Brazil's run in Guatemala in 2000 and then added to their trophy case with a victory in Chinese Taipei in 2004. The Futsal World Cup is the only indoor tournament hosted by FIFA. The 1992 second-place finish was the best-ever showing in a FIFA event by a U.S. men's team, and came on the heels of a third-place finish in 1989.

FIFA BEACH SOCCER WORLD CUP

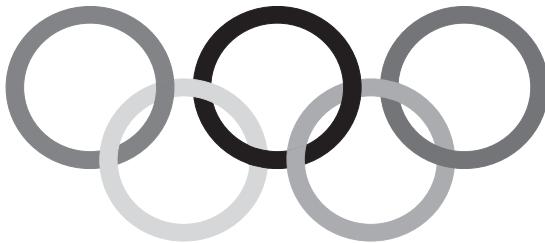

Beach soccer became a part of the FIFA family in 2005 when the first-ever FIFA Beach Soccer World Cup was staged on Copacabana Beach in Rio de Janeiro. To everyone's surprise, France defeated Portugal in the final, while Brazil fell in the semis. A new location in 2008 and 2009 couldn't keep Brazil from the four-peat. 2011 marked the first time the competition was played biennially, and Russia upended Brazil in the final to win the Championship for the first time.

FIFA CONFEDERATIONS CUP

The FIFA Confederations Cup was contested under FIFA's auspices for the first time in 1997 and replaced the Intercontinental Championship, which was staged in 1992 and 1995. Each of these three tournaments was held in Saudi Arabia. In 1999 the Confederations Cup was held in Mexico and it returned to Asia in 2001, where it was staged as a precursor to the 2002 FIFA World Cup in Korea Republic and Japan. Defending World Cup and European champion France added to their trophy case by winning the 2001 tournament, and would repeat as champions hosting the event in 2003.

OLYMPIC HISTORY

HISTORY OF SOCCER PARTICIPATION

The first official men's Olympic soccer tournament dates back to the 1908 London Games, where Great Britain defeated Denmark to claim the first soccer gold medal. Since that time soccer has been part of every Olympic Games Program, with the exception of the 1932 Los Angeles Games. The 1940 and 1944 Olympic Games were canceled completely due to the political tensions surrounding World War II.

The United States has competed in the men's Olympic finals 13 times, including five straight tournaments from 1984 to 2000. In addition, the U.S. qualified for – but did not compete in – the 1980 Moscow Games following a boycott by the U.S. Olympic Committee. The U.S. missed out on qualifying for the 2004 Athens Olympics, but returned in 2008 after finishing second at the CONCACAF qualifying event, which was held in the U.S.

In 2012, the U.S. Women's National Team earned its third straight gold medal and fourth overall when it topped 2011 FIFA Women's World Cup champion Japan on Aug. 9 in front of more than 80,000 spectators at Wembley Stadium in London. The U.S. Men were eliminated in CONCACAF qualifying in March, dropping to third place in their group following a late El Salvador goal in the closing seconds of a 3-3 draw on March 26.

Up until and including the 1988 Seoul Games, the Olympic soccer tournament was an unrestricted event, and thus the U.S. Olympic Soccer Team was essentially the U.S. National Team. However the tournament structure has changed since that time, and the restrictions on age and experience of players involved in Olympic competition has been under review by FIFA, which makes all tournament recommendations to the International Olympic Committee (IOC).

The 1992 Barcelona Games proved to be the turning point in the Olympic soccer tournament, when the tournament was competed as an under-23 event for the first time. Host Spain captured the title at Barcelona's famed Nou Camp Stadium in front of 95,000 jubilant fans. Spain's progress in the tournament aided struggling attendances in 1992, which were far lower than expected. There is little doubt that the poor attendance in Spain played a role in the changes made for the 1996 Atlanta Games.

Not only did Atlanta '96 signify the first time women's soccer was included in the Olympic Program, but the men's tournament was adapted from its under-23 format in 1992 to include three "overage" players. "Overage" players were those players who were either over 23 years of age or had previously played in an Olympic Games soccer tournament. Claudio Reyna (who was age eligible in 1996, but had competed for the U.S. in 1992), Kasey Keller and Alexi Lalas were the USA's overage players in 1996.

In 2000, veteran defenders Jeff Agoos and Frankie Hejduk, as well as goalkeeper Brad Friedel, were selected as the USA's overage players, helping the team on an unprecedented tournament run, which saw the U.S. advance to the medal round before falling in the semifinals to a strong Spanish team.

For the 2008 Olympics in China, Brian McBride agreed to come out of international retirement and captained a team that included Under-23 stars Sacha Kljestan and Freddy Adu, who had paced the U.S. through qualifying. After a 1-0 victory against Japan in the first game, the U.S. was minutes away from upsetting the Netherlands, reigning European champions, but had to settle for a 2-2 tie after giving up a late free kick goal. In the third group game, eventual runner-up Nigeria took advantage of a third-minute red card by Michael Orozco Fiscal and held on for a 2-1 win to send the U.S. home despite earning four points.

The U.S. Women's National Team claimed the inaugural gold medal at the Atlanta Games with a 2-1 victory over China before 76,481 fans on Aug. 1, 1996, in Athens, Ga. The attendance mark, which at the time was the largest crowd to ever watch a women's athletic event, set the stage for the incredibly successful Women's World Cup staged in the U.S. in 1999. The gold medal victory culminated an impressive five-game undefeated run through the tournament in which the U.S. Women played in front of packed crowds.

As they did in 1996, the U.S. Women had a strong run to the medal stand in 2000, winning the "Group of Death" that included China, Nigeria and Norway. In the Gold Medal match, a spunky Norwegian team refused to yield and eventually took home the gold with a thrilling 3-2 overtime triumph.

The 2004 Athens Games were a fitting end for a number of U.S. veterans, including Mia Hamm, Julie Foudy and Joy Fawcett, who went out of the sport as they came into it: as champions. The never-say-die team won both its semifinal and final matches in overtime, courtesy of a Heather O'Reilly strike against Germany and an Abby Wambach goal against Brazil to claim the gold.

Four years later, the U.S. came into the Olympics without Wambach, the team's top scorer who broke her leg in a preparation match. With Pia Sundhage leading the team into her first World Championship as head coach, a new class of players including Hope Solo, Carli Lloyd and surprise leading scorer Angela Hucles led the team to gold with a 1-0 victory over Brazil.

In 2012, the U.S. Women went undefeated at 6-0-0 for the first time at an Olympic tournament. The USA's run included a thrilling come-from-behind victory in the semifinal against Canada, with Alex Morgan scoring the game-winner in the 123rd minute for the latest goal ever scored in a FIFA competition. In the gold medal match, Lloyd scored both U.S. goals against Japan and the USA became the first country – in both men's and women's soccer – to earn a fourth gold.

PAN-AM GAMES

HISTORY OF SOCCER PARTICIPATION

The Pan American Games are held every four years during the summer preceding the Olympic Games. In terms of the number of sports and athletes, the Pan American Games are second in size only to the Olympics. The men's soccer tournament has been part of every Pan American games since its inception and in 1999 women's soccer made its debut.

After scheduling conflicts kept the United States from competing in the 2003 games in Santo Domingo in the Dominican Republic, U.S. Soccer was able to return to the competition at the 2007 event in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. However, conflicts again kept the U.S. out of the event in 2011 hosted in Mexico.

In 2007, the U.S. Men's team was represented by head coach Bob Jenkins' Under-18 Men's National Team, and after opening the tournament with a strong 2-1 win over Venezuela, the U.S. then dropped its next two games to be eliminated. In its second match, the U.S. led Bolivia 2-0 at the half, only to lose 4-2. Against Mexico in its final group game, the teams were tied 0-0 with 15 minutes remaining when the U.S. was reduced to 10 men, eventually losing 2-0.

The U.S. Under-20 Women's National Team had a very strong run into the tournament finals, behind a blistering six-goal tournament from Lauren Cheney (U.S. Soccer's Young Female Athlete of the Year in 2007). After winning their group with a 2-1-0 record, head coach Jill Ellis' U-20s defeated the full Canada Women's National Team 2-1 in the semifinal, then lost to a steamrolling full Brazil Women's National Team 5-0 in the final (Brazil outscored its opposition 33-0 in five games in preparation for the 2007 Women's World Cup).

In 1999, the U.S. Under-23 National Team competed in the men's tournament, while the U.S. Under-18 Women's National Team represented the U.S. in the women's competition. In the 1999 tournament held in Winnipeg, Canada, the U.S. Men captured the second Pan-Am Games Bronze Medal in their history with a 2-1 victory over the Canada in the third-place match.

Carlos Bocanegra and a young Landon Donovan led the USA with goals in that match. The Under-23 Men, which were represented by U.S. stars from the U-23, U-20 and U-17 levels, did well to rebound from a disappointing 1995 tournament by taking home the bronze.

The women's U-18 squad captured gold medal in the first-ever Pan American Women's Final with a hard-fought 1-0 win over an older Mexico squad. The U.S. Women dominated their opponents throughout the tournament, going undefeated in six games (5-0-1) and outscoring their opposition 22-2.

The first Pan American Games were held in 1951, but its history goes back two decades earlier. In 1932, the South American delegation of the International Olympic Committee (IOC) proposed the formation of an organization to promote amateur sports in the Americas. The idea led to the first Pan American Sports Congress in Buenos Aires, Argentina, in 1940. The 16 countries represented at the meeting formed the Pan American Sports Committee, and agreed to hold the first Pan American Games in 1942 in Buenos Aires, but World War II forced their postponement.

The idea stayed alive, and the first Pan American Games finally opened in Buenos Aires on Feb. 25, 1951. The organization governing the Games was renamed the Pan American Sports Organization (PASO) and is made up of nations of North, Central and South America and the Caribbean.

The soccer tournament at the Pan American Games has never enjoyed a very high profile, perhaps because in the past competing nations have not sent their strongest team. The one exception was the 1975 Games in Mexico City, when 110,000 spectators turned out at Azteca Stadium to watch the final between Mexico and Brazil.

Like many of the competing nations, the United States has used the competition as a preparation for the Olympic Games. In 1991, the U.S. won its only Pan American gold medal in soccer in Havana, Cuba, defeating Mexico 2-1 in overtime. Former U.S. Men's National Team midfielder Joe-Max Moore scored a sensational free kick to win that game for the Americans.

CONCACAF WOMEN'S GOLD CUP HISTORY

Born out the success of the 1999 Women's World Cup, the first CONCACAF Women's Gold Cup was played in 2000 in the United States. The tournament has been staged two more times (in 2002 and 2006), with each of those events also doubling as qualifying for the FIFA Women's World Cup.

2000 WOMEN'S GOLD CUP [Hershey, Pa., Louisville, Ky., Foxborough, Mass., USA]

The inaugural Women's Gold Cup kicked off in three venues in the United States and included six members of CONCACAF (Canada, Costa Rica, Guatemala, Mexico, USA, Trinidad & Tobago) and two invited teams (Brazil, China PR). The U.S. dominated tournament play, going unbeaten in five games (4-0-1) and adding another international championship to its trophy case.

The U.S. crown came via a hard-fought 1-0 victory over Brazil in the finals played at Foxboro Stadium on July 3, 2000. Tiffeny Milbrett scored the game's only goal after the two teams had fought to a 0-0 draw in their opening round finale, one of three consecutive shutouts for the U.S. in the first round. The USA actually won Group A only after winning the final tiebreaker over Brazil (a coin flip after the teams finished even on results and goals).

In the semifinals, the U.S. were able to hold off an improving Canadian side 4-1 and moved into the Gold Cup Finals against Brazil, who knocked off pre-tournament favorite China PR in the other semifinal game 3-2 in sudden-death overtime. Goalkeeper Siri Mullinix led the USA backline with four shutouts and allowed just a single goal in five games, while earning Best Goalkeeper honors. Defender Joy Fawcett and midfielder Julie Foudy were also named to the all-tournament team along with Milbrett.

2002 WOMEN'S GOLD CUP [Victoria, Canada; Seattle, Wash., Fullerton & Pasadena, Calif., USA]

With the tournament doubling as 2003 Women's World Cup qualifying, the 2002 Women's Gold Cup did not feature any invited teams. Instead, eight CONCACAF nations battled in four venues in two countries along the Pacific coast for two guaranteed Women's World Cup berths and a third playoff spot.

The Americans kicked off first round play in Group A with back-to-back 3-0 shutout victories over Mexico and Trinidad & Tobago. The U.S. closed out group play with a 9-0 trouncing of Panama in front of a Women's Gold Cup record crowd of 21,522 at SAFECO Field in Seattle, Wash.

In the semifinals, the U.S. Women earned both a berth into the 2003 Women's World Cup and into the 2002 Women's Gold Cup final with a blistering 7-0 victory over Costa Rica.

With both teams qualified for the 2003 Women's World Cup, Canada would battle the USA in a classic match for the 2002 crown. After battling to a 1-1 draw through regulation, U.S. forward Mia Hamm won the game with a stunning golden goal, handing the U.S. their second consecutive regional title.

2006 WOMEN'S GOLD CUP

[Carson, Calif., Miami, Fla., USA]

The 2006 edition of the CONCACAF Women's Gold Cup was staged from November 19-26, 2006, in two U.S. venues. The six-team tournament began on November 19 with two first round matches at Tropical Park Stadium in Miami, Fla., with Jamaica and Mexico advancing to the tournament semifinals with victories over Panama (2-0) and Trinidad & Tobago (3-0), respectively.

In the semifinals at The Home Depot Center in Carson, Calif., a direct berth to the 2007 Women's World Cup in China was on the line for four teams. After watching Canada down Jamaica 4-0 to advance, the U.S. squared off against Mexico. Behind two goals from Abby Wambach, the U.S. Women were able to ease their way into China.

In the tournament's final game, the United States and Mexico staged an epic battle, eventually won in overtime by the USA 2-1 on the last kick of the game, a penalty kick by Kristine Lilly in stoppage time of overtime. The 2-1 victory in extra time was reminiscent of the USA's 2002 victory over Canada on a Golden Goal.

ALGARVE CUP HISTORY

For almost 18 years, the annual Algarve Cup on the southern coast of Portugal has been a constant in the USA's March schedule. The tournament has grown from humble beginnings to become one of the most competitive women's events in the world, surpassed only by the European championships, the Women's World Cup and the Olympics.

The trip and tournament have become one of the favorites for the U.S. players and staff, not only for the scenic surroundings, excellent food and great weather, but also for the world class matches and tournament format that sends only the group champions to the title game, making every match and goal vitally important.

The USA has a 46-9-8 all-time Algarve Cup record through the 2011 tournament. The U.S. Women's National Team has lost just 55 total games in its 26-year history, meaning 16 percent of those losses have come at the Algarve Cup, a stat representative of the difficulty of this competition. Several U.S. players have won the MVP award at the Algarve Cup including Shannon Boxx (twice), Tiffeny Milbrett and most recently Carli Lloyd.

The Algarve Cup is organized jointly by the Portuguese Football Association and the FA of a Nordic country, which rotate responsibility on a yearly basis. The first year the tournament was held in 1994, just six teams participated. It moved to eight teams the following year and stayed in that format until 2002, when a Group C was added to increase the competition to 12 nations. Since then, the tournament has featured four match days with six games each day, the final of which are the placement matches. The teams in Group A and B compete for the title as the group winners play in the championship game. The two second-place finishers in Groups A and B play for third place while the third-place finishers play for fifth. The Group C teams compete for a chance to play for spots 7-11 as the winner of Group C play the best fourth place team from Groups A and B. The second-place team in Group C plays the fourth-place team from Groups A or B and the third and fourth place teams in Group C play each other for a second time.

Impressively, the USA has won seven of the last nine Algarve Cups through 2011, but in the early years the tournament was the bugaboo of the U.S. team as the Americans won the title just once in their first eight trips. The USA first attended in 1994 and 1995, missed the 1996 competition to prepare for the Atlanta Olympics and then was not invited in 1997. Those first four trips to Portugal produced no first place trophies before the USA finally broke through in 2000 with a 1-0 win against Norway in the title game on a goal from Brandi Chastain.

In 2001, the USA brought a very young team to the tournament as all the veterans were preparing for the first WUSA season, and the team had its worst performance, losing three games and getting a lone win over host Portugal. That tournament was marked by an amazing match in which the U.S. novices built a 3-1 lead over Olympic champion Norway in the match for fifth place only to watch it slip away as the Scandinavians roared back to score three times in the final 17 minutes.

The 2002 Algarve Cup was also an odd one as the USA got a win, a tie and a loss in group play as Shannon MacMillan put on one of the best Algarve Cup performances in U.S. history, scoring seven of the USA's eight total goals, including all three in the 3-2 win against Denmark to take fifth place.

The U.S. Women started their current run of success in southern Portugal in 2003, defeating China PR in the championship game on goals from MacMillan and Mia Hamm, who also assisted on each other's score. In 2004, the team lost a first-round game to Sweden 3-1 but advanced to the championship game on goal difference and pounded Norway 4-1 for the title as Abby Wambach scored a hat trick. This tournament also marked the first time Algarve Cup matches were played at the beautiful Stadium Algarve, an ultra-modern facility built for the 2004 European Championships. Up until that point, all the games were played at small stadiums all over the Algarve coast, many of which still host games to this day, even though the Stadium Algarve is used for a few matches every year.

In 2005, the USA put together one of its most impressive Algarve Cup runs ever, winning all four games for just the second time and for the first time did not allow a goal. The USA withstood a second-half onslaught from Germany to triumph 1-0 in the title game on a goal from Christie Welsh.

In the 2006, the USA and Germany met again for the title, and despite a dominating performance by the Americans, the match went to penalty kicks where Germany prevailed to take the title.

After winning every game at the tournament only twice in the first 11 trips, the USA won all four matches in 2007 and 2008, going undefeated in group play and then beating Denmark for the title 2-0 in 2007 on goals from Kristine Lilly and Carli Lloyd and 2-1 in 2008, on goals from Natasha Kai and Abby Wambach. In 2009, the USA had one of lowest goal scoring outputs at the tournament, finding the net just five times, but still made the championship game. In that title match, the USA trailed Sweden 1-0 until the final seconds of regulation before Shannon Boxx equalized. A new tournament rule meant that the teams would not play overtime and the match went directly to penalty kicks, where the USA fell 4-3.

In 2010, the USA won all four games including consecutive wins against Norway, Sweden and Germany in the championship game, a 3-2 victory in muddy conditions. Lauren Cheney had a breakout tournament, scoring four times, including the winning goal in the title game. In 2011, the USA once again won all four games, stretching its Algarve Cup unbeaten streak (in regulation) to a record 29 matches. In the championship game, the U.S. met surprise finalist Iceland and fell behind 2-1 before roaring back for a 4-2 victory. Alex Morgan and Lloyd both scored three times in the tournament, with Morgan taking the Top Scorer award due to playing fewer minutes.

2012 U.S. SOCCER ATHLETES OF THE YEAR

For their excellence at the highest levels of the sport, U.S. Soccer named U.S. Men's National Team forward Clint Dempsey as the 2012 Male Athlete of the Year and U.S. Women's National Team forward Alex Morgan as the 2012 Female Athlete of the Year. U.S. U-17 MNT forward Rubio Rubin and U-20 WNT defender Julie Johnston won the Young Male and Young Female Awards, respectively. The U.S. Soccer Athlete of the Year award is the highest honor awarded to soccer players in the United States.

The Male Athlete of the Year honor is the third for Dempsey, who previously won in 2007 and 2011. Dempsey becomes the second three-time winner of the award, with goalkeeper Kasey Keller also winning three times (1997, 1999, 2005). Landon Donovan, a four-time winner (2003, 2004, 2009, 2010), is the only player to have won more. Donovan and Dempsey are the only players to have won the award on back-to-back occasions. The award is the first for Morgan and it comes in the Diamond Bar, Calif. native's first time on the ballot.

The U.S. Soccer Athlete of the Year awards have a longer history than any major award in American soccer – more than 20 years. They join the FIFA Players of the Year as the only two awards to honor both the top male and the top female in the sport.

As in years past, online votes registered at ussoccer.com counted for 50 percent of the total votes, while the other 50 percent was represented by votes compiled from members of the national media and U.S. Soccer representatives, including National Team coaches and the members of the U.S. Soccer Board of Directors. A player can only win the Young Athlete award once in his or her career.

U.S. SOCCER MALE ATHLETE OF THE YEAR: CLINT DEMPSEY

Dempsey led U.S. scorers in 2012 with six goals, including five in the Semifinal Round of 2014 FIFA World Cup Qualifying. The forward was also a big part of the USA's memorable win against Italy on Feb. 29, tallying the lone goal in the 1-0 victory in Genoa. He now has 30 goals in his career, tied with Brian McBride for third all-time. In England, Dempsey concluded his career at Fulham as the team's all-time leading scorer in the Premier League before moving to Tottenham in August in one of the highest-profile deals ever for an American abroad.

U.S. SOCCER FEMALE ATHLETE OF THE YEAR: ALEX MORGAN

The Female Athlete of the Year award is the first for Morgan and it comes in the Diamond Bar, Calif. native's first time on the ballot. The forward became only the second player U.S. history to record at least 20 goals and 20 assists in a calendar year, following Mia Hamm in 1998. She also led all U.S. scorers with 28 goals which is good for third-best in a calendar year behind Abby Wambach (31 in 2004) and Michelle Akers (39 in 1991). Morgan has also compiled a team-leading 21 assists in 2012, tied for second-most in a single year.

U.S. SOCCER YOUNG MALE ATHLETE OF THE YEAR: RUBIO RUBIN

U-17 MNT midfielder Rubin took home the Young Male Athlete of the Year award after he finished as the team's leading goal scorer with 11 goals and tied for second in assists with two. His commitment, one-on-one skills, willingness to defend and positive approach to the game help him stand out as a key player for the U-17s as they look toward the U-17 CONCACAF Championship and hopefully a World Cup berth in 2013. A player can only win the Young Athlete award once in his or her career.

U.S. SOCCER YOUNG FEMALE ATHLETE OF THE YEAR: JULIE JOHNSTON

U-20 WNT defender Julie Johnston took home the Young Female Athlete of the Year award in one of the tightest races in the award's history, just edging out her U-20 teammates Kealia Ohai, who scored the winning goal in the U-20 Women's World Cup Final, and midfielder Vanessa DiBernardo. The U-20 WNT captain was instrumental in helping the team win the FIFA U-20 Women's World Cup in Japan, starting all six games on the backline and earning the Bronze Ball as the tournament's third-best player, an extremely rare feat for a defender. The Mesa, Ariz. native also made an impact with Santa Clara, where the junior was the team's leading scorer with eight goals and five assists in 14 appearances.

PRESIDENTIAL GREETING: U.S. Soccer President Sunil Gulati is greeted by FIFA President Sepp Blatter at FIFA House in Zürich, Switzerland.

SUNIL GULATI

PRESIDENT
U.S. SOCCER

Elected U.S. Soccer President in 2006 and re-elected in 2010, Sunil Gulati has more than 30 years of experience at all levels of soccer in the United States and has helped the sport rise to new heights.

The native of Allahabad, India, has played an important role in the development of U.S. Soccer since the early 1980's and has been intimately involved in the rise of the U.S. National Teams to prominence. Gulati continues his mission of improving soccer in the United States by taking an active approach on improving the structure and development of the sport in the country, while also reaching out to broaden the organization's relationships within the international community.

As a highly regarded instructor in the economics department at Columbia University, Gulati balances his academic work with numerous responsibilities within the sport worldwide.

He held the position of Major League Soccer's Deputy Commissioner from its launch until 1999 before becoming the President of Kraft Soccer Properties, a position he served in until 2011. He remains a special advisor to The Kraft Sports Group and the Kraft Family.

Before stepping into his role as President, he served as the U.S. Soccer's Executive Vice President from 2000 to 2006. He has held numerous other positions for U.S. Soccer, including Managing Director of National Teams, Chairman of the International Games Committee, Chairman of the Technical Committee and served on the bid committee for the 1994 FIFA World Cup.

He was also the original Managing Director of U.S. Soccer's Project 2010 and served as Chairman of both U.S. Cup '92 and U.S. Cup '93, two events that helped showcase U.S. Soccer's rise and prepare the federation for the upcoming 1994 FIFA World Cup. Additionally, Gulati served on the Board of Directors of FIFA Women's World Cup USA 1999 and 2003.

Currently, Gulati is a member of the Board for the U.S. Soccer Foundation, the CONCACAF Executive Committee and represents U.S. Soccer as Chairman of CONCACAF National Team Competitions Committee.

At the FIFA level, Gulati has served on the FIFA Confederations Cup Committee, the Strategic Committee, and currently serves on the FIFA Ticketing Subcommittee. In 2011, he was selected to be the FIFA Task Force Football 2014, a 22-member panel that reviews proposals to improve both the attractiveness of football and match control in elite competitions. He was also named to the newly formed Independent Governance Committee, a group which will make recommendations for the governance changes within the FIFA structure.

Gulati graduated Magna Cum Laude from Bucknell University and earned his M.A. and M. Phil. in Economics at Columbia University. He served on the Columbia Economics Faculty from 1986 to 1990 before joining the World Bank through its Young Professionals Program in 1991 and serving as a country economist for the emerging country of Moldova.

Gulati, 53 and his wife, Marcela, have one son, Emilio, and one daughter, Sofia. They live in New York City.

DANIEL T. FLYNN

CEO / SECRETARY GENERAL U.S. SOCCER

As U.S. Soccer's CEO / Secretary General since June 15, 2000, Flynn has taken his lessons learned from the field and applied them administratively at the sport's highest level to help spur the United States Soccer Federation's growth into one of the most respected national governing bodies in the country. Through his tireless efforts, Flynn has been responsible for instilling the groundwork for U.S. Soccer's success in the new millennium.

In his more than 12 years as the organization's CEO, Flynn has overhauled U.S. Soccer's business framework, leading to among other things the development and construction of U.S. Soccer's National Training Center at the Home Depot Center in Carson, Calif., which opened in June 2003. With a renewed focus on National Team and player development, as well as facility development, more and more opportunities are arising for youth players of all ages, highlighted by the addition of a number of Youth National Team programs, an increase in players at the U-17 Men's National Team's Residency Program in Bradenton, Fla., and the creation of the Development Academy Program.

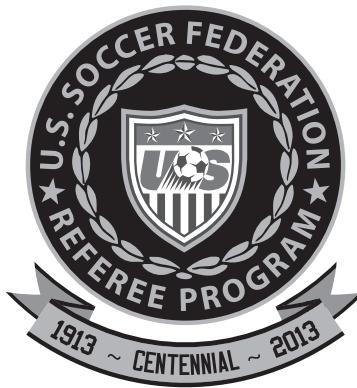

During the summer of 2003 Flynn served as the Chief Executive Officer of the FIFA Women's World Cup USA 2003, putting his strong business background to work in preparing the framework to help the Local Organizing Committee successfully stage the tournament. With attendance peaking above 350,000 despite just four months to organize the event, the tournament was the most financially profitable Women's World Cup ever.

Flynn's career path has included both sports marketing and management positions at Anheuser-Busch, as well as more than 18 years of experience within the sport of soccer at World Cup 1994, the U.S. Soccer Federation and the U.S. Soccer Foundation.

For two years, the 57-year-old Flynn served as Executive Director of the U.S. Soccer Foundation, where he was responsible for the organization's overall management. Prior to joining the Foundation, he played key roles at both World Cup 1994, serving as the Venue Director in Chicago, and at U.S. Soccer, where from 1994 to 1998 he managed the governing body's day-to-day operations at the Federation headquarters in Chicago.

Flynn was a part of the amazing growth of Anheuser-Busch, where he served in numerous capacities both domestically and internationally. He was also directly involved in Anheuser-Busch's sponsorship of the 1986 World Cup in Mexico, which served as the springboard for their future involvement in the sport on a long-term basis.

Dan Flynn learned about winning soccer championships as a product of the famed St. Louis, Mo., soccer scene, eventually becoming a collegiate standout from 1973 to 1977 at St. Louis University, helping guide the Billikens to a 1973 NCAA soccer championship and a runner-up finish in 1974. Born Jan. 20, 1955, in St. Louis, he is married to Cathy and the couple has three daughters (Lauren, Anneliese and Erin).

U.S. Soccer Referee Program

The U.S. Soccer Federation Referee Program's membership ranks among the largest of all FIFA nations with nearly 150,000 registered officials, assessors, assignors and instructors. Officials are registered with U.S. Soccer and work sanctioned games at all levels of the sport including youth, adult, professional and international matches.

Referee Education Resources

U.S. Soccer is committed to producing referee education resources aimed at supporting officials regularly working amateur games at the youth and adult levels. These officials represent the foundation of the U.S. Soccer Referee Program and their training and development is paramount to the success of the program.

A new training curriculum unveiled in 2013 that focuses on targeted training specific to the levels of competition being officiated at the amateur levels. These new materials align with the modern soccer landscape and are designed to improve referee performance by promoting a solid knowledge of the Laws of the Game and emphasizing the importance of practical refereeing.

Professional Referees

In 2012, U.S. Soccer and Major League Soccer created the Professional Referee Organization (PRO) to manage professional and international officials in the United States and Canada. The organization assumed the responsibilities and staff from U.S. Soccer's Professional Referee Department in New York, N.Y., and hired Peter Walton as the General Manager.

The organization's goals are to increase the quality of officiating in U.S. and Canadian professional leagues, develop more professional quality officials at a younger age and produce officials who will represent the United States and Canada in FIFA competitions.

Referee Identification and Training

Referee identification and training continue to be an important part of the Referee Program.

"Identification Teams" scout fields at more than thirty events nationwide, collecting data on hundreds of officials and identifying themes in performance standards and areas for training improvement.

The Selection Panel, a group of former and current elite officials, guides the direction of training and evaluate the standards and performance of high level officials in the program.

In addition, the Platinum Program is an accelerated development training program for select, high-potential officials. Ten officials were named in 2012 as the first class of the program. They officiated in some of the nation's most challenging matches, receiving sophisticated feedback and instruction from top tier evaluators.

U.S. SOCCER'S COACHING DEPARTMENT AND NATIONAL COACHING SCHOOLS

U.S. Soccer's Coaching Department was established in the early 1970s by famed West German teacher and coach Dettmar Cramer. Each level of U.S. Soccer's National Coaching Programs are designed to meet needs of coaches ranging from the parent coach, who is usually inexperienced in soccer, to the former professional player who desires to coach in amateur, professional and international competitions.

U.S. Soccer's National Coaching Schools continue to provide quality education for coaches in this country, and currently offers seven levels of certification: (A, B, C, D, E, Youth, and GK). We are committed to providing soccer coaches with up-to-date theoretical and practical knowledge so coaches can develop to their full potential. The diagram below shows the current U.S. Soccer National License progression.

The U.S. Soccer National Coaching Schools provide courses in which coaches can earn nationally certified credentials and take advantage of the opportunities and recognition inherent in the attainment of various levels of coaching expertise, a proven curriculum which improves a coach's knowledge of the game and valuable information on current coaching trends and international developments in the game.

Candidates that attend the national coaching schools (for A, B and C licenses) go through a rigorous nine-day schedule of field and classroom sessions, concluding with extensive testing on theoretical and practical applications of the game. The course is conducted in a residential environment that immerses coaches in the culture of soccer and emphasizes field instruction in the areas of technique, tactics and fitness. The course also includes instruction in coaching methodology, team management and sport psychology.

U.S. Soccer has licensed more than 20,000 coaches, in the 40 years since U.S. Soccer's National Coaching Schools were first founded and more than 2,500 coaches have earned the "A" license. Additionally, U.S. Soccer's coaching organization, CoachesNet, currently features 3,000 members.

U.S. Soccer also offers D, E, Youth Modules and Adult Licenses, levels which are available through state associations. While the state associations are responsible for the execution of these courses, the curriculum is developed and overseen by U.S. Soccer's Coaching Education Department. For more information on the courses, downloadable materials are available at ussoccer.com.

On the following page is an overview of U.S. Soccer's coaching education programs and the curriculum for each course offered:

"A" License Course

Length: 9 days – Curriculum Emphasis of the "A" Course:

The National "A" License course is designed to introduce concepts that are targeted toward coaching older players (older junior level and senior level players). The National "A" License focuses on recognizing the principles of the game and its technical applications in 11v11 game format and how these principles influence positional, group and team organization. The course also examines player, team and game management issues as they relate to the senior level player.

"B" License Course

Length: 9 days – Curriculum Emphasis of the "B" Course:

The National "B" License Course focuses on coaches recognizing the principles of the game and its technical applications in 9v9 game situations and develops concepts that are targeted toward coaching players age 16 to college level. Candidates will learn to teach and implement these principles through functional training sessions leading up to the 9v9 game.

"C" License Course

Length: 9 days – Curriculum Emphasis of the "C" Course:

The National "C" License course is designed to introduce concepts that are targeted toward coaching players ages 11 – 14, with a primary emphasis on the close relationship between technique and tactics. The National "C" License course also provides a foundation in the following areas: tactics, technique, methods of coaching and issues in youth player development.

Goalkeeping License

Length: 8 days – Curriculum Emphasis of the Goalkeeping Course:

Premiering in January 2006, the Goalkeeping License is intended for goalkeeping coaches, as well as the more experienced team coach who has never played the goalkeeper position. Candidates will learn how to plan and manage their goalkeeper's development over the course of the season as well as learn in-depth about the technical, tactical, psychological and fitness components of the goalkeeper position.

Youth License Course ("Y" License)

Length: 5 days – Curriculum Emphasis of the "Y" Course:

The National Youth License focuses upon the nature of children and the adjustments adults must make to coach them. The course is an age specific course designed to increase the coaches' knowledge of the physical, psychological and social characteristics displayed by children of specific ages from the ages of U-6 to U-12.

"D" License Course

Length: 38 hours – Curriculum Emphasis of the "D" Course:

The "D" License course prepares coaches to further develop their player's technical abilities and their application within the game, increases their understanding of the Principles of Play and how they are applied in the game.

"E" License Course

Length: 18 hours – Curriculum Emphasis of the "E" License:

The "E" License is designed as an entry-level course to provide general instruction to coaching and organizing your team and covers the elementary principles of coaching.

Youth Modules - Level I, II and III

Length: Varies by level – Curriculum Emphasis of the Youth Modules:

The curriculum of the youth modules is age specific for the age groups of U-6 to U-12. This course focuses on preparing the parent coach who has little or no experience in the game of soccer.

Adult Coaching License

Length: 20 hours – Curriculum Emphasis of the Adult Coaching License:

The purpose of the Adult Coaching License is to train amateur coaches in current coaching methodology, team administration and player preparation for all levels of Adult soccer. This course provides USASA coaches the opportunity to be exposed to topics targeted for their individual team and club needs.

Continuing Education Program

The purpose of the U.S. Soccer Continuing Education Program (CEP) is to provide meaningful educational opportunities for coaches wishing to maintain their "A" License. It is important that coaches stay current with the latest national and international developments involving the growth of the game.

Educational activities or events that are directed, sponsored or co-administrated by U.S. Soccer will be certified as Continuing Education events and CE credits awarded. It is U.S. Soccer policy that all coaches currently holding an "A" License must accumulate eight- (8) CE credits within every four-year cycle in order to maintain the status of their "A" License.

U.S. Soccer recognizes or conducts the following activities or events where CE credits can be obtained. Credit amounts will vary pending duration and/or level of programming.

- Attendance at a regional coaching or player development workshop or in-service program (2-4 credits)
- Attendance at a U.S. Soccer coaching symposium (2-4 credits)
- Attendance at a U.S. Soccer National Coaching School "A" Renewal course (8 credits)
- Successful completion of the U.S. Soccer Goalkeeping License course (8 credits)
- Successful completion of the U.S. Soccer National Youth License Course, effective as of January 2007 (8 credits)
- Successfully completing the National Soccer Coaches Association of America (NSCAA) Premier Course (8 credits)
- Attendance at a U.S. Soccer international workshop (8 credits)

U.S. Soccer may conduct other activity or events that will provide additional opportunities to earn CE credits. These activities are publicized on ussoccer.com and are open to coaches of all levels.

CHICAGO: HOME TO U.S. SOCCER HOUSE

In the tradition of many world soccer federations and the FIFA House in Zurich, the U.S. Soccer Federation took up residence in two refurbished mansions in Chicago's Prairie Avenue Historical District more than 18 years ago. Since dubbed the U.S. Soccer House, the corner of 18th Street and Prairie Avenue now serves as the American home of the world's most popular sport.

Formerly located in Colorado Springs, Colo., U.S. Soccer moved their operational base into the Kimball house at 1801 South Prairie Avenue and the Coleman-Ames house at 1811 South Prairie Avenue in December of 1991.

Dating back to 1873, Soccer House was built by William Wallace Kimball, founder of Kimball pianos and organs; Joseph Coleman, president of a hardware manufacturing firm; and Coleman's wife, Leonora, who served on the board of the Women's Christian Association in 1886.

There was a time when Prairie Avenue, from 16th to 22nd streets, was the "Fifth Avenue" of the Midwest. The area is a testament to the hard work and dedication of the men and women who helped shape the industrialization of the Midwest and in 1979 it was designated an historical district.

Nearly 20 millionaires once resided within Soccer House's six-block area. Families who were influential in the industrialization of the Midwest and called South Prairie Avenue home included: George Pullman (railroad cars), John J. Glessner (farming implements), Marshall Field (retailer), Samuel Allerton (banker) and Philip Armour (meat packing).

Kimball House

Coleman-Ames House

Prairie Avenue Historical District

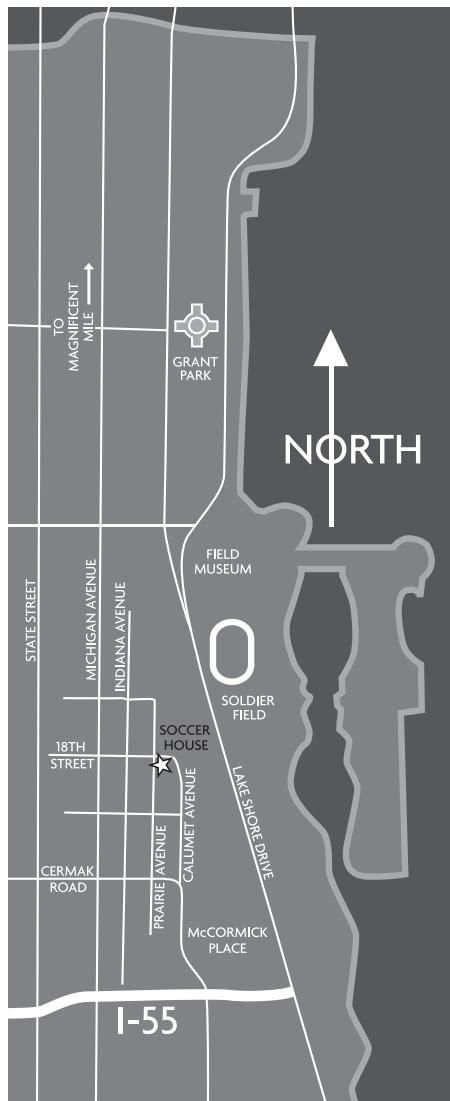

Construction of Prairie Avenue began after the Great Chicago Fire of 1871 when Pullman became the first millionaire to move to the area, building the grandest of Prairie Avenue mansions in 1873. Friends of Pullman followed his lead and also built extravagant homes on Prairie Avenue. The Marshall Field House was the first in the neighborhood to be electrically lit.

The Kimball House, built of Bedford limestone and topped with a slate roof, has an exterior consisting of numerous large and small turrets, gables, balconies and ornamental iron-railed galleries. The interior of Kimball House is as extravagant as its exterior, with wood abundant throughout. The ceilings are beamed in oak and mahogany, and fireplaces made of onyx warm the parlor.

Neighboring the Kimball House to the south is the Coleman-Ames House built in 1886. Numerous families have resided in this mansion. Coleman, the original owner, lived in the home until 1888, when he sold the mansion to Massachusetts coal merchant Miner T. Ames. Ames resided in the house for just two years before he died in 1890. The Coleman-Ames house is home to U.S. Soccer's coaching, refereeing, accounting and technology departments, as well as the set of Studio 90.

It wasn't until the late 1940s that a connecting link between the Kimball and Coleman coach houses was erected, designed to give the courtyard a unified appearance.

With its historic appearance, Soccer House has been Chicago's home to Hollywood, serving as a location shoot for a number of motion pictures, including extended use for the filming of Richard Gere's "Primal Fear."

U.S. Soccer's National Training Center at The Home Depot Center in Carson, Calif., stands as one of the great achievements in the organization's almost 100-year history. What started as a vision in 1999 became a reality with its construction in 2003, and is now widely-hailed as the future of the sport in the United States.

The complex is a first-class facility that shows the integration of all the U.S. National Team programs, from U-14 developmental camps straight through to the full men's and women's teams playing in the main stadium.

The Home Depot Center officially opened for U.S. Soccer on June 6, 2003, as the U.S. Under-17 Men's National Team arrived to begin training. The first game at The HDC was played in the stadium one day later on June 7, 2003, as the Los Angeles Galaxy topped the Colorado Rapids, 2-0, in Major League Soccer action.

Located on the campus of California State University, Dominguez Hills, the National Training Center includes four grass soccer fields, two FieldTurf soccer fields and a general training area. The complex also includes three additional practice fields for Chivas USA, the Galaxy and the college, as well as all the necessary team support facilities, including locker rooms, a training room, a weight room and office space for staff. U.S. Soccer has approximately a dozen full-time staff working out of The National Training Center.

In a very short time, The Home Depot Center established itself as the center of the soccer world in the United States, and was the main reason the United States was able to serve as an emergency host for the 2003 FIFA Women's World Cup. The facility hosted early round games, as well as the third-place match and the final on short notice after the tournament was moved from China to the United States.

The stadium has also hosted numerous international and professional tournaments, including the CONCACAF Gold Cup, Champions League, SuperLiga and InterLiga, while also bringing some of the largest clubs in the world for friendlies.

Below is a breakdown of the activity at U.S. Soccer's National Training Center in both 2012 and 2011.

U.S. SOCCER TIMELINE

Early 1800s: As was the case in England, many American schools and colleges played forms of football, but under rules that varied from place to place.

1862: The Oneida Football Club, made up of Boston prep school students, was organized by Gerritt Smith Miller. The game the Oneidas played was more like rugby than like soccer, but they were the first American team playing any type of football to be organized on a continuing basis, rather than just for the day.

1866: The first game in America using the association football rules standardized three years before in London was played on Oct. 11 in Waukesha, Wis. A team of Carroll College students beat a team of local residents.

1869: A week after they played what has been called the first American football game, teams from Princeton and Rutgers met on Nov. 13 in Princeton, N.J., in a game using association football rules, the first intercollegiate soccer game in America.

1876: Most of the football-playing colleges abandoned soccer in favor of rugby. However, within a few years soccer had begun to take hold in immigrant communities in various American locations such as Fall River, Mass.; Kearny, N.J., and St. Louis.

1883: The first soccer league in America, the Western Football Association, was organized in St. Louis.

1884: The American Football Association, only the second national soccer association outside of the British Isles, but one that was really more regional than national, was organized in Newark, N.J.

1885: The first American Football Association Cup was won by ONT of Kearny, N.J., and a team representing the United States played one from Canada in Kearny on Nov. 28 in the first "international" game in America.

1894: The first attempt to start a pro soccer league in the United States, the American League of Professional Football Clubs, lasted for only three weeks in October. However, a longer-lasting league, the National Association Foot Ball League, began the following spring.

1898: A depression resulting from the financial panic of 1893 caused the suspension of both the American Football Association and the nation's leading league, the National Association Foot Ball League of New Jersey.

1904: A Canadian team won the soccer competition at the Olympic Games in St. Louis.

1905: A 17-game North American tour by the Pilgrims, an English amateur team, helped to revive soccer in the United States. St. Leo's won the first of its 10 consecutive St. Louis Major League titles.

1906: West Hudson of Harrison, N.J., won the first championship of the revived AFA Cup. A year later, it added the first championship of the revived National Association Foot Ball League.

1913: The United States Football Association was founded at an April 5 meeting in New York. FIFA, which had been founded in 1904, granted it provisional membership later in the year and full membership in 1914.

1914: The first National Challenge Cup tournament, the championship of the new USFA, was won by the Brooklyn Field Club (the tournament's name was later changed to the U.S. Open Cup).

1916: The first national team organized by the USFA, named the All-American Football Club, played six games in a tour of Sweden and Norway. The captain, Thomas Swords of Fall River, scored the first goal ever for the U.S. national team, against Sweden.

FIRST TEAM: The very first U.S. Men's National Team squad prepares to take the field in their first match, a 3-2 victory over Sweden in Stockholm on Aug. 20, 1916.

1919: Bethlehem Steel, after sweeping the National Challenge Cup, the AFA Cup and the National Association Foot Ball League, became the first American club to make a European tour when it played 14 games in Sweden and Denmark.

1920: The National Challenge Cup was won for the first time by a team from west of the Alleghenies, Ben Millers of St. Louis.

1921: The original American Soccer League, largely a merger of the National Association Foot Ball League in the Middle Atlantic states and the Southern New England Soccer League, began play. In its first season, it included three teams from Massachusetts, two from New York, two from New Jersey and one from Pennsylvania.

1924: The Fall River Marksmen became the first team to win the American Soccer League and National Challenge Cup titles in the same year.

1925: Archie Stark of Bethlehem Steel scored 67 goals in the 44-game ASL season, setting an American first-division record that still stands.

1926: A game between Austrian first-division team Hakoah and a New York all-star team drew a crowd of 46,000 to the Polo Grounds in New York. Bethlehem Steel won the last of its five National Challenge Cup titles.

1928: The Soccer War, a year-long battle between the ASL and the USFA, began with ASL demands to take over the leading role in administering the sport.

1930: The 1930 U.S. World Cup Team advanced into the semifinals and finished third.

1930: The United States was one of 13 nations to compete in the first World Cup in Uruguay, upsetting Belgium and Paraguay before being eliminated by Argentina in the semifinals. Bert Patenaude of Fall River scored the first World Cup hat trick. Later in the year, the Fall River Marksman, again winners of the ASL and National Challenge Cup titles, made a six-game tour of Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Austria.

1932: Disputes over the definition of an amateur and the costs of long travel distance from Europe caused the elimination of soccer from the program at the Los Angeles Olympic Games.

1933: Two years after the demise of the original American Soccer League, a new ASL, with a scaled-back budget, began play.

1934: Buff Donelli, later a famous American football coach, scored four goals in a World Cup qualifying victory against Mexico. The U.S. Men too part in their second consecutive World Cup, going winless in Italy.

'34 IN ITALY: The U.S. lost their only match of the 1934 World Cup, losing 7-1 to host Italy.

1938: The USFA, citing the gathering threat of war in Europe, declined to send a team to the World Cup in France.

1941: The Kearny Scots won their fifth consecutive American Soccer League championship. The National Soccer Coaches Association was formed by 10 coaches at a meeting in New York.

1944: Billy Gonsalves, playing for Brooklyn Hispano, won the last of his remarkable eight U.S. Open Cup championships.

1945: The U.S. Football Association changed its name to U.S. Soccer Football Association.

1947: Ponta Delgada of Fall River became the first team to win the U.S. Open Cup and the National Amateur Cup in the same year.

1948: The first game in the United States between two leading European teams, Liverpool of England and Djurgardens of Sweden, was played in Brooklyn.

1950: Joe Gaetjens' goal in the 37th minute enabled the United States to score its famous 1-0 victory against England in Belo Horizonte, Brazil. Despite the victory, the United States failed to advance past the first round of the World Cup.

GAME OF THEIR LIVES: The 1950 U.S. World Cup Team shocked the world with their 1-0 upset win over England.

1952: The United States played Scotland in front of a crowd of 107,765 at Hampden Park in Glasgow.

1953: The USSFA assumed administration of the National Soccer Hall of Fame in an agreement with the Philadelphia Old-Timers Association, which had started the Hall three years before.

1959: The first NCAA soccer championship was won by St. Louis University. The United States finished third in the soccer tournament at the Pan-American Games in Chicago.

1960: The International Soccer League, featuring European and South American clubs in their off-seasons, began play in New York. In the first championship game, Banga of Brazil beat Kilmarnock of Scotland.

THE GOAL: Joe Gaetjens' redirection of a shot from Walter Bahr rolls into the goal, giving the U.S. their historic 1-0 victory over England in Brazil on June 29, 1950.

1961: CONCACAF, the Confederation of North and Central America and the Caribbean of Association Football, was formed at a meeting in Mexico City.

1965: The first college women's varsity soccer team was organized at Castleton State College in Vermont.

1966: Pelé played his first game in the United States, for his longtime Brazilian club Santos against Benfica of Portugal in New York.

1968: The Atlanta Chiefs defeated the San Diego Toros in the first North American Soccer League championship series.

1974: The U.S. Soccer Football Association changed its name to U.S. Soccer Federation.

1975: Pelé, who had retired the year before from Santos, signed for $2.8 million with the New York Cosmos.

1977: Pelé won his only North American Soccer League championship as the Cosmos defeated the Seattle Sounders in the final. A month after the season, Pele played his final game, changing uniforms at halftime in a match between the Cosmos and Santos, in East Rutherford, N.J. By signing Franz Beckenbauer of West Germany and Carlos Alberto of Brazil, the Cosmos became the first team in world soccer history to field the captains of the last two World Cup-winning teams.

1978: American soccer rode the crest of the attendance surge that followed Pelé's American venture, with the North American Soccer League expanding from 18 teams to 24 and the Major Indoor Soccer League beginning play with six teams.

1982: A European selection played a World selection in the FIFA all-star game in East Rutherford, N.J., but the NASL surge was beginning to fade. The Cosmos won the last of their five NASL championships. North Carolina won the first NCAA women's soccer championship.

1984: A crowd of 101,799, still the largest ever to attend a soccer game in the United States, saw the Olympic final between Brazil and France in Pasadena, Calif.

ALL BUSINESS: Paul Caligiuri is all business after scoring the "Shot Heard Around the World" for the U.S., sending the team into their first World Cup in 40 years.

1985: The North American Soccer League folded, a year after the second American Soccer League had done the same. Three months later, the New York Cosmos folded, after attempting to play a series of exhibition games. The United States men were surprisingly eliminated by Costa Rica in World Cup qualifying, but the United States women's national team played its first game.

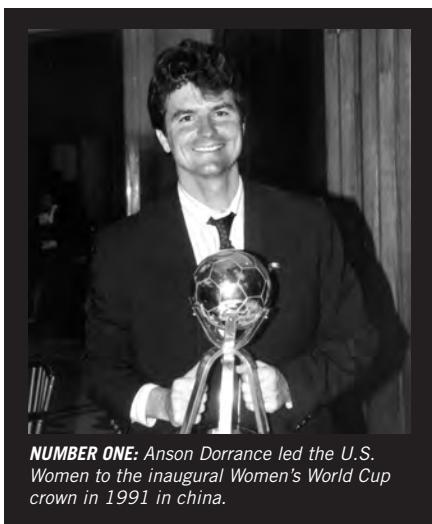

1988: FIFA, which five years earlier had rejected a United States bid for the 1986 World Cup, named the United States as host of the 1994 World Cup.

1989: The United States qualified for the World Cup for the first time in 40 years. Paul Caligiuri's famous goal in the deciding game was a 35-yard dipping shot that found the net in a 1-0 upset victory against Trinidad & Tobago Nov. 19 in front of 35,000 red-clad Trinidadians. The U.S. Futsal National Team finished third at the first FIFA World Championship for Futsal.

FIRST OF SIX: The 1990 World Cup marked the first of six consecutive world cup appearances for the U.S.

1990: The U.S. competed in the World Cup for the first time in 40 years. The WSL and the ASL merged to form the American Professional Soccer League (APSL).

1991: The U.S. Women captured the first-ever FIFA Women's World Championship in China with a 2-1 win against Norway Nov. 30. The women qualified for the world championship by defeating its five CONCACAF opponents by a combined score of 49-0. The U.S. National Team won its first-ever regional championship July 7 when it captured the CONCACAF Gold Cup by defeating Honduras 4-3 in penalty kicks. The U.S. U-23 team won the gold medal at the Pan Am Games in Cuba.

1992: The U.S. Men won the inaugural U.S. Cup '92 in June, defeating Ireland 3-1 and Portugal 1-0, and tying three-time World Cup champion Italy 1-1. The U.S. Futsal Team won the silver medal at the 2nd FIFA World Championship in Hong Kong. The M(I)SL folded after 15 years in existence.

1993: In February, U.S. Soccer held the first-ever Strategic Summit where more than 250 soccer leaders and personalities met in Chicago for four days to plan the development of soccer into the 21st century. U.S. Cup '93 was used as a dress rehearsal for World Cup organizers, officials and volunteers, as well as the U.S. Men. The USA's 2-0 defeat of England made headlines around the world. Attendance and media interest were high, with 286,761 people attending the tournament's six games, and ABC broadcasting the June 13 U.S.-Germany match.

The U.S. Under-20 Men defeated Europe's No. 1 seed, Turkey, 6-0 in the first game of the World Youth Championship in Australia. FIFA officials called the trouncing one of the most extraordinary results in the history of the tournament.

The APSL was declared a Division II professional league. The United States Interregional Soccer League

(USISL) was given Division III status. Plans for Major League Soccer — a Division I league to follow the legacy of World Cup '94 — were presented by U.S. Soccer President Alan Rothenberg.

1994: U.S. Soccer served as host national association for the 1994 FIFA World Cup, staging the greatest event in FIFA history. More than 3.5 million fans flocked to stadiums — still a World Cup record — and soccer fever in the U.S. was at an alltime high. The U.S. team advanced beyond the first round for the first time in 64 years, falling to eventual champion Brazil 1-0 in a July 4 round of 16 showdown at Stanford Stadium in Palo Alto, Calif. On June 4, 91,123 fans jammed the Rose Bowl to watch the U.S. defeat Mexico, 1-0, in its final tune-up prior to the World Cup. Game proceeds netted $1 million in U.S. Soccer contributions to UNICEF Children's Defense Fund.

The U.S. Women won the Chiquita Cup, a four-team international tournament in which the U.S. hosted Germany, China and Norway. The U.S. went on to successfully defend its CONCACAF championship, qualifying for the 1995 FIFA Women's World Championship by outscoring the opposition 36-1 en route to winning all four qualification matches. Head coach Anson Dorrance announced his resignation and U.S. Soccer named assistant coach Tony DiCicco to succeed him.

STARS AND STRIPES I: The 1994 MNT advanced out of World Cup group play for the first time in 64 years.

1995: U.S. Soccer announced in February its intention to host the 1999 Women's World Cup and began the formal bid process with FIFA. The U.S. Men won the U.S. Cup '95 in June, defeating Nigeria and Mexico and tying Colombia. Later that month, the women placed third in the FIFA Women's World Cup in Sweden, falling to eventual champion Norway in the semifinals 1-0, then defeating China.

In July, the men made international headlines by advancing to the semifinals of Copa America. The U.S. scored its first-ever victory against Argentina, 3-0, and advanced via penalty kicks (against Mexico) into the semifinals before falling 1-0 to defending world champion Brazil. Steve Sampson, who had served as interim coach since April, was named full-time head coach in August.

1996: The U.S. Women won the first women's soccer gold medal at the 1996 Atlanta Olympics, defeating China 2-1 in the championship game. The U.S. posted a 21-1-2 overall record and won the Brazil Cup and U.S. Women's Cup '96. The U.S. Men's Olympic Team narrowly missed advancing to the quarterfinals with a 1-1-1 record.

Major League Soccer was launched, providing the United States with its first Division I outdoor pro league since the North American Soccer League ceased operations in 1985. MLS averaged more than 17,000 fans per game. The A-League and USISL merged to form a larger and stronger Division II outdoor league.

FIFA awarded the 1999 Women's World Cup to the United States and U.S. Soccer pledged it would be the biggest and most successful women's sporting event ever.

1997: The U.S. Men qualified for a third straight World Cup, completing a 16-game qualifying run with just two losses and advancing with a game to spare. The U.S. Women continued their impressive play by winning their fourth straight Nike U.S. Cup.

The FIFA Women's World Cup Organizing Committee had awarded the '99 games to seven U.S. locations: Boston; Chicago; Los Angeles; New York/New Jersey; Portland, Ore.; San Francisco Bay Area; and Washington, D.C.

1998: A disappointing World Cup finished with the U.S. in last place after two difficult match-ups against Germany and Yugoslavia, and a heartbreaking loss to Iran. Brian McBride scores the team's only World Cup goal. The tournament concludes with the resignation of head coach Steve Sampson, who is eventually replaced on Oct. 27, by Bruce Arena.

The women's team continued their impressive play, losing just twice in 1998 while playing in front of record crowds all across the country. Dr. Bob Contiguglia took over as U.S. Soccer's new president, replacing Alan I. Rothenberg, who had reached the eight-year term limit.

1999: In front of more than 90,000 fans at the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif., the U.S. women won the 1999 FIFA World Cup by playing China to a 0-0 tie through regulation and overtime and then defeating them 5-4 in penalty kicks. Soccer hysteria spread through America as the women appeared on every top news program, at the White House and on the cover of Time, Newsweek, People and Sports Illustrated. U.S. Women's National Team head coach Tony DiCicco resigned in November as the winningest coach in U.S. Soccer history with a record of 103-8-8.

In Bruce Arena's first full year at the helm of the U.S. Men, the team records triumphs against Germany (twice), Argentina, Chile and earns third place at the 1999 FIFA Confederations Cup in Mexico. The U-23 Men beat Canada for the bronze medal at the 1999 Pan American Games in Winnipeg, Canada, while the U-18 Women captured the gold. The U-20 Men advanced to the second round of the 1999 FIFA World Youth Championship in April, with their only two loses coming to eventual finalists Spain and Japan. Taylor Twellman scored four goals and earned the Bronze Boot to become the first American male in the modern era to earn a FIFA scoring award. In November, the U-17 Men extended a record unbeaten streak to 24 games, advancing to the semifinals of the World Championship before losing in penalty kicks to Australia. Landon Donovan and DaMarcus Beasley earned the Gold and Silver Balls as the tournaments top two MVPs.

2000: Bruce Arena's squad continued to advance toward their ultimate goal of qualifying for the 2002 World Cup. The team secured 10 out of a possible 12 points — all shutouts — to win its semifinal qualifying group.

The U.S. Women maintained the momentum from their historic Women's World Cup title with 41 matches in 2000, posting a 26-6-9 record. The U.S. won six tournament titles in 2000, but had to settle for a silver medal at the 2000 Summer Olympics, losing in overtime to archrival Norway in the gold medal match.

The U.S. Men and Women put on an impressive display for the world at the Sydney Games as the only nation to have both its teams advance to the semifinals. The men were the surprise team of the tournament, winning their group and advancing to the semis before grabbing fourth place, the highest Olympic finish for the U.S.

2001: The U.S. Men qualified for a fourth straight World Cup, boosted by four wins and a draw to open the final round of CONCACAF qualifying. For the first time, the U.S. Men clinched a spot in the World Cup at a home qualifier, topping Jamaica 2-1 behind two goals from Joe-Max Moore in front of 40,483 fans at the last soccer match played at Foxboro Stadium.

The U.S. Women played only 10 international matches as the Women's United Soccer Association begins play, with the Bay Area CyberRays winning the inaugural Founders Cup. Mia Hamm was named the first FIFA Women's World Player of the Year.

The Under-17 Men advanced to a ninth consecutive FIFA U-17 World Cup, but were drawn into the Group of Death in Trinidad & Tobago with Japan, Nigeria and France, and were eliminated in the first round. The U.S. Under-20 Men qualified for their third straight FIFA

COMING UP ROSES: The U.S. Women's National Team won the 1999 FIFA Women's World Cup, the most successful women's sporting event ever, in a penalty shootout against China.

World Youth Championship, where the team finished second in their group in Argentina and were eliminated in the second round by Egypt.

The National Professional Soccer League, in existence since 1984-95, merges with the WISL and is renamed as the Major Indoor Soccer League.

2002: The U.S. Men advanced to the quarterfinals at the 2002 World Cup in Korea/Japan, the team's best World Cup showing since 1930. The U.S. shocked the world with a stunning 3-2 opening game upset of Portugal before eventually finishing in second place in Group D. The U.S. then posted their first victory in the World Cup knockout stage, blanking CONCACAF rival Mexico 2-0 in the Round of 16. The World Cup run ended in the quarterfinals with a 1-0 loss to Germany. Claudio Reyna was named to the All-Tournament Team, while Landon Donovan earned honorable mention. The men began 2002 by winning the CONCACAF Gold Cup in January with a convincing 2-0 victory against Costa Rica for the first Gold Cup title for the U.S. since 1991.

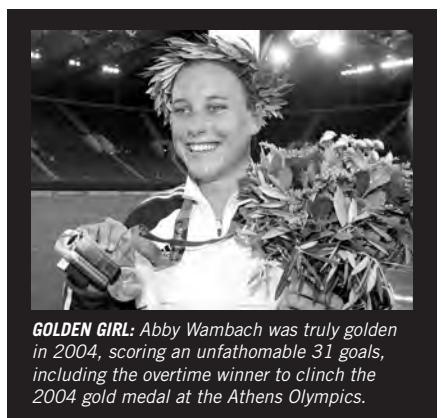

The U.S. Women's qualified for their fourth consecutive FIFA Women's World Cup after capturing the 2002 CONCACAF Gold Cup with a 2-1 overtime victory against Canada at the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif. The U.S. Under-19 Women topped the host Canadians

1-0 in overtime to win the inaugural FIFA U-19 Women's World Championship. Kelly Wilson won the Bronze Ball as the tournament's third MVP and the Silver Boot, while captain Lindsay Tarpley earned the Bronze Boot.

The U.S. Under-20 National Team qualified for their fourth consecutive FIFA World Youth Championship. The U.S. National Futsal Team played their first home matches in history, defeating Canada and tying Mexico in March in Baltimore, Md., and Washington, D.C., respectively.

2003: Due to the outbreak of Severe Acute Respiratory Syndrome, FIFA relocated the Women's World Cup out of China. After a successful bid to host the tournament, U.S. Soccer faced the unprecedented task of hosting the tournament with just four months of preparation. The U.S. Women won Group A and then beat Norway in the quarterfinals 1-0. But Germany stunned the U.S. with a 3-0 victory in the semifinals, which led the U.S. to top Canada in the third-place match. Shannon Boxx, Joy Fawcett and Mia Hamm all earned all-star honors from FIFA.

The U.S. Men, preparing for World Cup qualifying in 2004, finished in third place at the CONCACAF Gold Cup with a 3-2 come-from-behind win against Costa Rica. The Men's Under-17 and Under-20 squads finished their respective World Championships with fifth place finishes after bowing out with quarterfinal losses to Brazil and Argentina, respectively.

2004: The U.S. Women won every tournament entered, culminating with the 2004 Olympics. Other tournament titles included the Algarve Cup, the Four Nations Tournament and the CONCACAF Regional Olympic qualifying tournament, as the team set a record with 28 victories on the year.

Under head coach Bruce Arena, the U.S. Men qualified for the final round of World Cup Qualifying for the CONCACAF region. The men finished the year with an 8-1-6 record, losing only to the Netherlands away and going a record 13-games undefeated.

The U-23 Men failed to qualify for the Olympics for the first time since 1976, losing 4-0 to Mexico in Guadalajara after winning their group only match up against the second-place Mexicans in the single-elimination qualifier. The Under-19 Women finished third at the FIFA U-19 Women's World Championship. The Futsal Team won the 2004 CONCACAF Championship and qualified for the 2004 FIFA Futsal World Championship, where the team had a strong showing with a seventh-place finish.

2005: Manager Bruce Arena led the U.S. Men to a first place finish in CONCACAF World Cup qualifying for the first time in 71 years, earning a berth at the 2006 FIFA World Cup Finals in Germany with a 2-0 win against Mexico in Columbus, Ohio. The men also brought home the 2005 CONCACAF Gold Cup, beating Panama 3-1 in penalty kicks after a scoreless draw. The team finished the year with a record 13 wins and .750 winning percentage.

The U.S. Women began a new era, starting off the year with a new coach and a third consecutive Algarve Cup title, their fourth overall. They ended the year undefeated and without allowing a single goal.

The Under-20 Men swept through CONCACAF Qualifying, earning a berth to the FIFA Youth World Championship, where they finished 11th, bowing out to Italy in the Round of 16. The Under-17 Men also had a strong 2005, qualifying for the 2005 FIFA U-17 World Championship and finishing fifth overall after a loss to Holland in the second round.

2006: A disappointing World Cup in Germany for the United States, as the team failed to advance out of the first round despite a gallant, nine-man 1-1 draw with eventual World Cup champions Italy. After eight years in charge, Bruce Arena is replaced at the helm of the U.S. MNT by Bob Bradley, on an interim basis.

Later in the summer, the U.S. Under-20 Women's National Team finished fourth in Russia. The disappointing finish marks the first time a U.S. Women's National Team has finished outside the top three in a FIFA or CONCACAF World Championship event.

The U.S. Women, however, continued their incredible run under Greg Ryan, winning three of the four tournaments they enter. The year concludes with another Women's Gold Cup crown and a berth in the 2007 FIFA Women's World Cup in China.

2007: Bob Bradley became the first Men's coach to win his first three games in charge and was hired full-time to guide the USA through 2010. In the summer of 2007, the MNT won its second consecutive Gold Cup, and fourth total title, by defeating Mexico 2-1 in front of a packed house at Soldier Field in Chicago. With the victory, the MNT gained entry into the 2009 Confederations Cup. The Men also travelled to Venezuela to compete in Copa America for the third time.

After qualifying for their respective World Cups to continue impressive streaks, the U-17 Men and U-20 Men took on the world during the summer in back-to-back tournaments. The U-20 team performed admirably in Canada, and reached the quarterfinals after defeats of Poland, Brazil and Uruguay. The U-17 team, meanwhile, did well to qualify from a tough group in South Korea, before being eliminated by Germany in the Round of 16. The U.S. Women maintained a two-plus year undefeated run, looking to take the streak into the FIFA Women's World Cup. Drawn into the toughest group in Women's World Cup history, the U.S. advanced in first place after three difficult games against Korea DPR, Sweden and Nigeria. The U.S. rolled into the semifinals, but was upended by a quality Brazil side. Eventually, the WNT took third place for the second consecutive World Cup with a convincing win against Norway. Former Swedish National Team player and captain Pia Sundhage was appointed to the position of WNT coach after Greg Ryan's departure from the team.

Wilmer Cabrera was named head coach of the U-17 MNT, replacing John Hackworth. For the first time, U.S. Soccer hired four full-time referees to enhance high-level performance, training and development opportunities for the sport's elite officials in the United States. The U.S. Soccer Development Academy launched in the fall.

GOLDEN AGAIN: The U.S. got revenge for the 2007 loss and defeated Brazil in the 2008 Olympic Final.

2008: Led by Pia Sundhage, the U.S. Women had one of its best years ever, losing only one game, which ironically came in the opening match of the 2008 Beijing Olympics, a tournament the U.S. would eventually win to take home their third gold medal. Overall, the U.S. won all six tournaments it entered to finish with a 33-1-2 record, giving them the most wins and best winning percentage ever in a calendar year (.944).

The U.S. Men was successful in its own right, starting off on the right foot in 2010 FIFA World Cup qualifying with a 9-0 aggregate against Barbados in the second round. The U.S. opened the semifinal round with 1-0 victories in Guatemala and Cuba. Coming back to the U.S., home victories against T&T and Cuba clinched advancement with two games to play.

The U-23 Men joined the U.S. Women by qualifying for the 2008 Olympics in March, but just missed out on the second round once arriving in Beijing. Despite a 1-0 victory against Japan and a 2-2 draw with the Netherlands, the U.S. fell 2-1 against eventual silver medalist Nigeria. On the youth side, the U-17 and U-20 Women's National Teams both made the championship match of their respective FIFA World Cups. In New Zealand, the U-17s went on an impressive run to the final before finally succumbing to Korea DPR in the final, but in Chile their older counterparts were able to exact revenge with a 2-1 victory to bring the World Cup trophy back to the United States for the first time since 2002.

Building off the initial kickoff in 2007, U.S. Soccer's Development Academy wrapped up its first year with a collection of dynamic matches during Finals Week at The Home Depot Center. In the U-15/16 championship, Carmel United topped PDA 1-0, and the Baltimore Bays topped LAFC 4-2 to take the U-17/18 title.

FINALLY: Landon Donovan celebrates his goal against Brazil in the first half of the 2009 Confederations Cup final.

2009: The U.S. Men opened 2009 focused on final round qualifying for the 2010 FIFA World Cup with a 2-0 win against archrival Mexico in Columbus, Ohio. Bob Bradley's squad proceeded to go undefeated at home and clinch a spot in South Africa with a come-from-behind win in Honduras. They finished atop the CONCACAF table with a tie against Costa Rica in Washington, D.C., on the last day of qualifying.

During the summer, the U.S. Men traveled to South Africa to compete in the 2009 FIFA Confederations Cup. The U.S. MNT was drawn into a group with Italy, Brazil and Egypt, and advanced into the semifinals by virtue of a 3-0 dismantling of Egypt in the final game. They kept the nation captivated by beating Spain, the No.1-ranked team in the world in the semifinals before falling 3-2 to Brazil in the final. Tim Howard was awarded the Golden Glove and Clint Dempsey given the Bronze Ball.

Pia Sundhage's women's team had a more relaxed year after their gold medal winning exploits in 2008, and wrapped up the year with a 7-0-1 that included falling in penalties to Sweden in the Algarve Cup final.

Both the U-17 and U-20 Men's National Team competed in their respective FIFA World Cups this year, with the U-17 team advancing out of the group stage in Nigeria before falling to Italy in the Round of 16. A tough group containing Germany, Cameroon and Korea Republic saw the U-20s out of the tournament following the first round in Egypt.

The U.S. Soccer Development Academy completed its second year of competition in 2009, once again concluding the season with Finals Week at The Home Depot Center. In the U-15/16 age group, playoff No.1-seed Derby County Wolves continued their strong season straight through Finals Week with a title. Indiana United Academy defeated D.C. United to take home the U-17/18 championship.

TIES THAT BIND: Michael Bradley celebrates scoring the game-tying goal against Slovenia in the 2010 FIFA World Cup.

2010: The year's most memorable moment came in the U.S. Men's third group game at the 2010 World Cup in South Africa as Landon Donovan scored a last-minute goal for the U.S. to clinch advancement and clinch a group for the first time in 80 years. Following a 1-1 tie with England, a 2-2 tie with Slovenia and a 1-0 win against Algeria, the U.S. was eliminated in the Round of 16 losing to Ghana 2-1. Clint Dempsey became the second U.S. player to score in multiple World Cups, and Landon Donovan had three total goals to become the third to score in multiple World Cups and the all-time World Cup goal leader for the U.S.

After a surprising loss to Mexico in the semifinals of Women's CONCACAF qualifying, the U.S. topped Italy 2-0 in a two-game qualifying playoff to earn a spot in the 2011 FIFA Women's World Cup. The U.S. won its seventh Algarve Cup with the first of two victories against 2011 hosts Germany.

The U.S. Under-20 Women lost in penalty kicks to Nigeria in the quarterfinals of the 2010 FIFA U-20 World Cup, while the U-17 Women became the first U.S. Women's team to fail to qualify for a FIFA World Cup event after not advancing out of the CONCACAF qualifying tournament.

No Division II league met U.S. Soccer's sanctioning standards, so the Federation administered a league called USSF D-2 for one year.

2011: The U.S. Women were on center stage during the 2011 Women's World Cup in Germany. Their dramatic run in the Women's World Cup was highlighted by an electric, come-from-behind victory in the quarterfinals against Brazil, in which Abby Wambach scored the latest goal (six minutes into stoppage time) ever in a World Cup match. The U.S., however, would lose out in penalties to a spirited Japanese side in the final after playing to a 2-2 draw through 120 minutes.

During the summer of 2011 at the CONCACAF Gold Cup, the U.S. advanced to its third consecutive final, scoring two early goals before falling 4-2 to Mexico. The continental tournament would prove to be Bob Bradley's last involvement as head coach of the U.S., with former Germany international and FIFA World Cup winner Jurgen Klinsmann taking the helm of the U.S. Men in August. He earned his first win in Miami against Honduras thanks to a Clint Dempsey strike and later led the team to a 3-2 victory against Slovenia in its last game of the year.

The U-17 and U-20 Men's National Teams both entered another cycle of their respective FIFA World Cups. The U-17 Men reached the knockout round for the seventh time but lost to Germany in the Round of 16. After winning their qualifying group with two shutout victories, the U-20s graduated to the quarterfinals but fell to Guatemala and did not reach the World Cup for the first time since 1995.

2012: The U.S. WNT capped off the 2012 London Olympics with a 2-1 victory against Japan in front of more than 80,000 spectators at Wembley Stadium as the U.S. Women earned their fourth Olympic gold – a first for any country on the men's and women's sides. Carli Lloyd scored both goals for the USA, capping off a tournament that featured a dramatic game-winning goal from 2012 U.S. Soccer Female Athlete of the Year Alex Morgan in the 123rd minute of the team's semifinal victory against Canada.

The U.S. MNT advanced to the final round of 2014 FIFA World Cup Qualifying, defeating Guatemala 3-1 in the final Group A match of the Semifinal Round as Clint Dempsey scored his 29th and 30th career goals to tie Brian McBride for third all-time in U.S. history. The U.S. Men also had some memorable international friendly victories in 2012, including the first win on Mexico's home soil – a 1-0 victory at Estadio Azteca on Aug. 15.

The U.S. U-20 WNT defeated defending champion Germany 1-0 in the 2012 FIFA U-20 Women's World Cup in Tokyo. Kealia Ohai scored the game's lone goal and the Americans earned their third World Cup crown in the tournament's history. The U.S. U-17 WNT competed in the 2012 FIFA U-17 Women's World Cup, and in an extremely rare occurrence did not advance past the group stage despite an unbeaten 1-0-2 record.

FIFA - SOCCER'S WORLD GOVERNING BOARD

Founded in 1904 to provide unity among national soccer associations, the Federation Internationale de Football Association (FIFA) boasts 208 members, rivaling that of the United Nations, and is arguably the most prestigious sports organization in the world.

As organizers of the biggest event in the world, the FIFA World Cup, 204 countries entered the two-year qualifying process to earn one of 31 spots alongside host South Africa at the 2010 FIFA World Cup.

FIFA was established on May 21, 1904, by seven national associations — Belgium, Denmark, France, Netherlands, Spain, Sweden and Switzerland — to “promote the game of Association Football (as opposed to rugby or American football), to foster friendly relations among National Associations, Confederations, and their officials and players, by promoting the organization of football matches at all levels, and to control every type of association football by taking steps as shall be deemed necessary or advisable.”

FIFA's birth was a result of the growing number of international games shortly after the dawn of the 20th century. Soccer leaders in Europe felt that such expanded competition required a governing body, and under the leadership of Robert Guerin, a French journalist, the seven founding members gathered in Paris to shape the future of the sport. Guerin, FIFA's first president, presided over the organization from 1904 to 1906. Seven other men have also served as FIFA president, including Jules Rimet for 33 years from 1921 to 1954.

Currently, Switzerland's Joseph (Sepp) Blatter serves as FIFA president, having been elected originally in 1998. Blatter, the FIFA general secretary from 1991 to 1998, replaced Dr. João Havelange of Brazil in 1998, who was elected to his post in 1974 and served six terms. The current FIFA general secretary is Jérôme Valcke, who joined FIFA in 2003 as Director of Marketing & TV before being elected to his current post in June of 2007.

Under FIFA's governance soccer has become the world's most popular sport, played by more than 150 million registered athletes — including 10 million women — and viewed by billions of fans in stadiums and on television worldwide. An estimated 715.1 million people watched the final match of the 2006 FIFA World Cup held in Germany and the 2010 event in South Africa was broadcast to 204 countries on 245 different channels. Inside the stadiums, a total of 3,170,856 spectators attended the 64 matches an average of 49,670 per match and the third highest aggregate attendance behind USA 1994 and Germany 2006.

As soccer's ultimate administrative authority, FIFA governs all facets of the game: regulating the rules of play, overseeing the transfers of players internationally, organizing international competitions such as the FIFA World Cup, establishing standards for refereeing, coaching and sports medicine, and encouraging soccer's development around the world.

Among the official world championships staged by FIFA are the World Cup, the Women's World Cup, the Under-20 World Cup, the Under-20 Women's World Cup, the Under-17 World Cup, the Under-17 Women's World Cup, the FIFA Beach Soccer World Cup and the Futsal World Cup. Additionally, FIFA oversees the men's and women's Olympic Football Tournament staged under the auspices of the International Olympic Committee every four years. FIFA has also staged the FIFA Confederations Cup, a competition between each of its confederations' champions, and the FIFA Club World Cup, which was held at the beginning of 2000 for the first time in Brazil.

THE FOOTBALL CONFEDERATION – ON THE RISE

The Confederation of North, Central America and Caribbean Association Football (CONCACAF) was founded in 1961 and serves as the organizing body for 38 national associations, including the United States, and spans from Canada in the north to Suriname in the south. CONCACAF organizes international competition in a number of events, including the Champions League, qualifying tournaments for all FIFA competitions and the Gold Cup.

The 2012 London Olympic Games proved to be landmark tournament for the confederation as U.S. Women's National Team and Mexico U-23 Men's National Team captured gold, making it the first time in the competition's history that teams from the same confederation stood at the top of the podium.

CONCACAF sent three teams to the 2010 World Cup in South Africa as the U.S., Mexico and Honduras won the three automatic berths allotted to the region, and both the U.S. and Mexico advanced to the Round of 16. In 2006, the U.S., Mexico, Costa Rica and Trinidad & Tobago represented the confederation in the FIFA World Cup in Germany. The 2002 World Cup in Korea and Japan saw the U.S. advance to the quarterfinals, while Mexico won their group in earning a second round berth and Costa Rica was eliminated in a difficult group.

In 2005, CONCACAF saw one of its men's teams win the first-ever outdoor world championship in the confederation's history as Mexico swept through the FIFA U-17 World Cup in Peru.

In 2000, Guatemala hosted the FIFA Futsal World Cup and in doing so became the first Central American country to host a FIFA world championship. And in 2001, Trinidad & Tobago hosted the spectacular Under-17 World Cup, becoming the first Caribbean country to host a world championship. A year later, the first-ever FIFA Women's Under-19 World Cup was staged in Canada in 2002 and won by the United States. After Trinidad & Tobago hosted the U-17 Women in 2010, Mexico welcomed the 2011 U-17 World Cup for men and triumphed as tournament champions.

As the Confederation's premier event, the Gold Cup is traditionally played every two years by the national teams within CONCACAF, and rotated to an odd-year, summer schedule in 2003. Mexico, six-time winner of the Gold Cup, defeated the U.S. in the 1993, 1998, 2009 and 2011 finals and downed Brazil in '96 and again in 2003. The U.S. has won four Gold Cups, the inaugural 1991 event, and again in 2002, 2005, 2007. The 2000 Gold Cup was perhaps the most surprising, with Canada taking home their first major international title as the U.S. and Mexico failed to qualify for the semifinals. In every other edition of the Gold Cup, the winner earns a berth to the FIFA Confederations Cup.

The Women's Gold Cup has also been very successful, with the U.S. winning the first three events in 2000, 2002, 2006. In 2002, it took a golden goal from Mia Hamm for the U.S. to dispatch Canada in the final, 2-1, and in 2000 the U.S. downed guest-team Brazil 1-0 to claim the championship. In the most recent edition of the tournament, the U.S. again prevailed in extra time, this time courtesy of a Kristine Lilly penalty kick in the 120th minute.

CONCACAF competed in the FIFA Club World Cup for the first time in 2000, when Mexico's Necaxa impressed with a third place finish in the 2000 tournament in Brazil. The CONACACAF club tournament, which is contested amongst the 38 nations' domestic league champions, was won by D.C. United in 1998 and 2001. In 2008, CONCACAF unveiled the Champions League to replace the Champions Cup and decide the region's annual club title. Real Salt Lake narrowly missed out on the 2011 title, losing 3-2 (agg.) to Monterrey in the two-legged final.

In 1994, CONCACAF joined Europe and South America as the only confederations to host three or more World Cup finals. Mexico welcomed the world twice, in 1970 and 1986, while the United States staged the event for the first time in 1994.

CONCACAF's headquarters are located in New York City with Jeffrey Webb serving as President.

The U.S. Adult Soccer Association, which relocated their headquarters to Toyota Park, Bridgeview, IL in 2011, is responsible for developing the sport for players over the age of 19. Within the USASA, local clubs are affiliated with leagues which, in turn, are affiliated with their state associations. A competitive and recreational oriented organization, the USASA helps develop adult amateur soccer for both men and women on a national basis.

As part of that development, the USASA stages the annual National Cup Finals, which features champions from each of the four U.S. Soccer regions (Regions I, II, III and IV) squaring off in 6 different competitions. The USASA also organizes national tournaments for Veterans and Co-Ed teams and will be introducing a new Women's National Championships tournament in 2013.

The USASA, in association with the U.S. Soccer Federation, helps stage the annual Lamar Hunt U.S. Open Cup, the oldest annual team tournament in the United States dates back to 1914, when the Brooklyn Field Club won the first national title by defeating the Brooklyn Celtics in Pawtucket, R.I. In 2013, to celebrate the centennial of the U.S. Soccer Federation, the USASA will be organizing a number of small-sided competitions around the nation.

Approximately 3 million players between the ages of five and 19 are registered with US Youth Soccer, which maintains a network of 55 state associations. Programs are administered with the help of more than 300,000 coaches and 600,000 volunteers.

US Youth Soccer offers both recreational and competitive programs. The recreational programs offer great opportunities for players primarily interested in fun, fitness and friendship. Small-sided games are encouraged for players under the age of 10. For more advanced players, US Youth Soccer offers highly competitive or select leagues including the National Championship Series, Olympic Development Program, Regional Leagues and the National League.

In addition, US Youth Soccer offers TOP Soccer (The Outreach Program for Soccer) for young athletes who are mentally or physically challenged and Soccer Across America for young people living in underserved or economically disadvantaged areas.

Every year the organization also stages the National Youth Championship with different national titles up for grabs in boys and girls soccer for youth players from Under-14 through Under-19. 2013, will mark the addition of the Under-13 Boys and Girls age group. The Under-19 Boys' James P. McGuire Cup is the most prestigious of the competition's trophies, dating back to 1935. First competed in 1980, the J. Ross Stewart Cup for Under-19 Girls is the oldest women's youth trophy.

In the summer of 2005, US Youth Soccer moved their national headquarters to the new soccer complex constructed in Frisco, Texas, where they share office space with FC Dallas of MLS.

The Soccer Association for Youth (SAY) is an national affiliate member of U.S. Soccer and was founded in 1967. As SAY is a recreational "Grass Roots" organization with only minimal employees' nationwide, it is able to keep its fees low. SAY's motto of "Kids Having FUN!" is based on the premise that teams are balanced to discourage "blow outs." Every child must play at least half of every game, with an aim toward equal participation. SAY still allows its areas the flexibility to form leagues in a manner that best suits their own organization.

With more than 120,000 players, 36,000 coaches and 3000 volunteer administrators; SAY has mastered the art of "Customer Service" over the years. Hosting a full line of low-cost coaching manuals and supplies, most orders are shipped within 24 hours. US Club Soccer is a non-profit organization committed to the development and support of soccer clubs in the United States.

Currently a National Association member, US Club Soccer has been a member in good standing of the U.S. Soccer Federation since 2001. A nine-member Board of Directors, all of whom must be experienced coaches in member soccer clubs, makes policy decisions for the organization.

US Club Soccer's local and national programs have all been developed with strong input from clubs around the country and with a minimum of rules and restrictions.

Among these programs are the National Premier Leagues (NPL), which have been created throughout the country to provide high-level competition in given geographic areas, and to elevate and change the competitive youth landscape based upon US Club Soccer's fundamental principles. These leagues extend developmental principals espoused by the U.S. Soccer Development Academy into younger age groups and additional clubs, providing a platform for long-term player development.

With the addition of US Club Soccer's National Adult Leagues platform aimed at expanding adult soccer at all levels of play, clubs are able to unite youth and adult programs seamlessly under one organizational umbrella. This follows the successful world model of full integration at all ages and allows for the creation of a "members for life" culture within each club by offering youth and adult player and staff registration, integrated competition platforms at the recreational and competitive levels, as well as a variety of other programming, including the id2 National Player Identification and Development Program, an Olympic Development Program.

Launched on April 6, 1996, Major League Soccer is the U.S. Soccer sanctioned Division I outdoor professional soccer league in the United States. D.C. United, winners of three of the first four MLS Cup titles (1996, 1997 & 1999) lead all teams with four titles adding a victory in the 2004 final. The Los Angeles Galaxy repeated as champions in 2012 for its fourth title after winning in 2011 (2002 & 2005). The other MLS Cup champions include the Chicago Fire (1998), San Jose Earthquakes (2001 & 2003), Houston Dynamo (2006 & 2007), the Columbus Crew (2008), Real Salt Lake (2009) and Colorado Rapids (2010).

Over the past six years, MLS has continued to expanded with Chivas USA and Real Salt Lake joining in 2005, Toronto FC in 2007, and the San Jose Earthquakes rejoining the league in 2008. In 2009, Seattle Sounders FC joined the league with the Philadelphia Union becoming the 16th MLS team in 2010. Expansion continued in the Pacific Northwest as the Portland Timbers and Vancouver Whitecaps joined the league for the 2011 season. In 2012, the Montreal Impact became MLS's 19th team.

In 2012, the league continued to be divided into two conferences (Eastern and Western). Eastern Conference – Chicago Fire, Columbus Crew, D.C. United, Houston Dynamo, Kansas City Wizards, Montreal Impact, New England Revolution, New York Red Bulls, Philadelphia Union, Toronto FC; Western Conference – Chivas USA, Colorado Rapids, FC Dallas, Los Angeles Galaxy, Portland Timbers, Real Salt Lake, San Jose Earthquakes, Seattle Sounders FC and Vancouver Whitecaps FC.

MLS has a unique ownership and operating structure, based on a "single entity" concept. Unlike other professional sports leagues, which are a confederation of independent franchise owners, MLS' "single entity" structure allows investors to own an interest in the league, as well as individual teams. MLS believes that the structure will better position the league for long term success.

National Women's Soccer League (NWSL)

The National Women's Soccer League (NWSL) is an eight-team league organized and administered by the U.S. Soccer Federation that will begin play in the spring of 2013. U.S. Soccer will subsidize the salaries of up to 24 U.S. Women's National Team players while the Canadian Soccer Association will do the same for up to 16 Canadian players and the Federation of Mexican Football will do the same for up to 16 Mexican players. The eight founding clubs are the Boston Breakers, Chicago Red Stars, FC Kansas City, Portland Thorns FC, Sky Blue FC (New York/New Jersey), Seattle Reign FC, the Washington Spirit and the Western New York Flash.

The new North American Soccer League (NASL) was officially founded in November 2009 when a group of 2nd division men's professional soccer team owners banded together to form North American Soccer League, LLC for the purpose of creating a team-owned and operated professional soccer league in the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico.

In February 2011, the NASL received provisional recognition from the United States Soccer Federation as the exclusive second division men's professional league and the inaugural season kicked off on the evening of April 9, 2011, with games in Cary, North Carolina; Atlanta, Georgia; Fort Lauderdale, Florida; and St. Petersburg, Florida.

The NASL is a nine-team league featuring a Spring and Fall Championship. The NASL will crown its champion this season with the winners of the Spring and Fall Championships meeting each other in the NASL Soccer Bowl.

USL has become the largest organization of elite-level soccer leagues in North America by building on the vision, commitment, and passion of players, fans and investors. USL continues to be a driving force in the growth of soccer in the United States, Canada and Caribbean.

From its beginnings as a five-team regional indoor league in 1986, USL has grown to scores of teams competing in seven separate leagues across the country – USL PRO, the MISL, the PDL, the W-League, the Super-20 League, the Super Y-League and the NGS.

USISL, as it was then known, created an amateur outdoor league in 1989 that divided into professional and amateur leagues in 1995 after continued growth. Those leagues would become the PSL and PDL with the A-League joining USL in 1997. The W-League was founded in 1995. The Super Y-League was established in 1999 and has grown to more than 500 teams and includes an ODP identification program. The Next Generation Series (NGS) kicks off in 2013 featuring elite U11-U14 teams. USL PRO is the third level of soccer (a Division III League) in the United States and Canada, while USL purchased the MISL prior to the 2011-12 season.

U.S. SOCCER FOUNDATION THE MAJOR CHARITABLE ARM OF SOCCER

The U.S. Soccer Foundation is a recognized leader in sports-based youth development programs for children in underserved urban communities. Since its inception in 1994, the Foundation has provided more than $55 million in funding to create and sustain innovative programs across all 50 states. Proven to deliver positive health and social outcomes, the Foundation's affordable initiatives offer safe environments for both boys and girls to thrive. Headquartered in Washington, D.C. the U.S. Soccer Foundation is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization.

The U.S. Soccer Foundation's Soccer for Success program is an innovative youth development after-school program that uses soccer as a tool to combat childhood obesity and promote healthy lifestyles for children in underserved urban communities. The Foundation partners with community-based organizations across the country to operate Soccer for Success sites – providing thousands of children, in grades K-8, with free after-school programming.

In 2011, the Corporation for National and Community Service awarded the U.S. Soccer Foundation a $2 million federal grant from the 2011 Social Innovation Fund to use Soccer for Success as a vehicle to promote healthy lifestyles and reduce obesity rates among at-risk youth in urban areas. Currently, the Soccer for Success program serves 8,000 children in 8 cities nationwide and will expand to serve 12,000 children within the next year.

The U.S. Soccer Foundation provides uniforms and soccer equipment to children in underserved communities around the world through its Passback program. New and gently-used soccer gear is collected by individuals, organizations, and teams and then redistributed to groups who need it most. Since its inception, Passback has collected close to 800,000 pieces of equipment and redistributed it to schools, clubs and youth organizations in 127 countries. To learn more about this program, visit passback.org.

In addition to programming, the U.S. Soccer Foundation works to build quality soccer fields that provide children with safe and accessible places to play. The Foundation engages community partners to identify vacant or underutilized space and works with them to build fields that make a positive impact in their communities. Recognizing the lack of space available in many urban areas, the U.S. Soccer Foundation builds smaller sized fields called Mini-Pitches.

Along with helping build quality soccer fields, the U.S. Soccer Foundation has provided over $55 million in grants and financial support to grow the sport of soccer in the United States. Since the first grants were awarded in 1995, the Foundation has supported the development of over 1,100 fields and impacted over 4.9 million total youth players across all 50 states. In 2011, the U.S. Soccer Foundation awarded 63 grants totaling over $2.5 million to non-profit organizations serving youth in 30 states. The 2011 grant awards reflect the Foundation's focus on improving the health and well-being of children in underserved communities.

The Foundation is dedicated to assisting those who serve youth through soccer in urban communities. Each year the Foundation organizes the Urban Soccer Symposium, an event which brings together non-profit organizations that directly support soccer programs and projects to share funding resources, best practices and other technical expertise. The Foundation has laid the groundwork for networking and partnership opportunities among urban soccer programs nationwide.

As part of the Foundation's work in Washington, D.C., it has joined with a bipartisan group of Members of Congress to establish and support the Congressional Soccer Caucus. The mission of the Caucus is to encourage legislation, activities and events that promote the game and issues affecting the soccer community.

NATIONAL SOCCER HALL OF FAME

The National Soccer Hall of Fame came to life in 1950 when a group of former professional and amateur players from the Philadelphia "Old-timers" Association took it upon themselves to recognize the achievements of soccer in America. Sixty years after the "Old-timers" first got together, nearly 300 members have been elected to the Hall of Fame for their outstanding contributions to American soccer, both on and off the field.

Members are elected in three categories – Player, Builder and Veteran (player) – and elections and inductions are carried out annually. The Class of 2013 will be voted on and announced during the first few months of 2013, with the induction coming later in the year.

Voters in the Player category include select members of the media, Hall of Famers, past and present U.S. Men's and Women's National Team coaches, MLS and WPS coaches of four or more years tenure, and a select group of soccer administrators. The Hall of Fame members vote in the Veteran category, and in the Builder category, select national soccer administrators join the Hall of Famers in voting.

With the doors to the museum in Oneonta, N.Y., closing in 2009, inductions will now be held at rotating venues throughout the country based on the U.S. soccer calendar. Soccer House in Chicago now houses the Dewar Challenge Trophy and the 1991 and 1999 FIFA Women's World Cup trophies. The archive and collection has been relocated to Hillsborough, N.C., where it is accessible for research.

The Hall of Fame also possesses an archive of more than 80,000 items, which make up one of the largest collections of soccer artifacts and records in the world. The collection includes such rare pieces as the world's oldest soccer ball (made in the USA) and both the 1991 and 1999 FIFA Women's World Cup Trophy. The collection also includes the North American Soccer League archive, the 1994 FIFA World Cup USA archive, a rare soccer photography collection from New York depression-era photographer John Albok, materials from the U.S. national teams in World Cup competition and artifacts from the American Soccer League of the 1920's and 1950's.

SOCER ON TELEVISION

As the game has grown in the United States, so has the amount of soccer on television. With the amount of coverage increasing almost yearly, soccer fans in the U.S. are able to watch games – in a single weekend no less – from countries in Italy, Germany, England, Scotland, Spain, Mexico, Argentina, Brazil, Australia, Holland, and more.

The 2010 FIFA World Cup was a landmark moment in the history of soccer on television in the United States, with record-breaking viewership across both the ESPN and Univision networks. The notable viewership validated ESPN's decision to increase their attention on the world's game and put impressive amounts of resources towards the FIFA World Cup.

Due in part to those impressive numbers, other broadcasters such as NBC and beIN SPORT have jumped at the opportunity to broadcast U.S. Soccer, Major League Soccer and international league matches across the world. But it was FOX and Telemundo that made the biggest splash with their purchase of the broadcast rights for the 2018 and 2022 FIFA World Cups (see below).

While league rights have changed hands among these high-profile broadcasters in the past few years, the coverage and viewership of the sport continues to be strong. The U.S. viewer has benefited from an overall increase in the number of televised games, whether it is domestic or international matches, and it looks likely there is room to grow in the years to come.

2018 / 2022 FIFA WORLD CUP TELEVISION RIGHTS

In October of 2011, the amazing growth of the sport was demonstrated when a bidding war over the U.S. broadcast rights for the 2018 and 2022 FIFA World Cups played out in Zurich. In the end, a record sum of more than $1 billion was paid by Fox and Telemundo, an increase of at least 147 percent over the combined $425 million that ESPN and Univisión paid for the rights to the '10 and '14 tournaments.

Fox paid a reported $450 to $500 million to beat out ESPN and NBC for the English rights, while Telemundo is said to have paid $600 million to outbid Univision for the Spanish rights.

U.S. Television Rights Fees for FIFA World Cup

Year	Fee	English Network	Fee	Spanish Network	Total Fee
2002/2006	$40M	ABC/ESPN	$125M	Univision	$165M
2010/2014	$100M	ABC/ESPN	$325M	Univision	$425M
2018/2022	$450M	FOX	$600M	Telemundo	$1.05B

2010 FIFA World Cup Television Audience

VIEWING RECORDS BROKEN: The 2010 FIFA World Cup was watched by an estimated 111.6 million viewers for at least six minutes on English or Spanish language networks, according to The Nielsen Company. The figure is a 22 percent increase from the 91.4 million viewers during the 2006 FIFA World Cup.

Things started off with a bang when more than 17.2 million viewers tuned in for the USA's opening match on June 12 against England, including 13.1 million on ABC making it the most-watched FIFA World Cup first round match ever. Two weeks later, that was topped when the USA's thrilling match in the Round of 16 against Ghana became the most-watched U.S. MNT game in history with 19.4 million viewers following on ABC and Univision.

But both U.S. matches finished behind the 2010 FIFA World Cup Final, which garnered a record 24.7 million viewers to watch Spain defeat the Netherlands 1-0, making it the most-watched soccer match in U.S. history.

English Network (ABC/ESPN)

- The 2010 FIFA World Cup was the most-watched World Cup ever on English-language television, with an average rating (2.1) and viewers (3.27 million) up 31 and 42 percent, respectively, compared to the 2006 FIFA World Cup in Germany (1.6, 2.31 million).
- The 2010 FIFA World Cup Final average viewers was 15.88 million, up 23 percent compared to the 2006 FIFA World Cup Final also on ABC/ESPN (12.96 million).

Spanish Network (Univision/Telefutura)

- On Spanish-language, Univision averaged 2.57 million viewers for coverage of the 2010 FIFA World Cup, up 15 percent from 2006 (2.23), and the highest average ever for the World Cup on the network.
- The 2010 FIFA World Cup Final average viewers was 8.82 million, up 49 percent compared to the 2006 FIFA World Cup Final also on Univision/Telefutura (5.9 million).

Combined (English and Spanish)

- The combined average viewers for the 2010 FIFA World Cup were 5.68 million, up 43 percent compared to the 2006 FIFA World Cup.
- The 2010 FIFA World Cup Final combined average viewers was 24.71 million, up 31 percent compared to the 2006 FIFA World Cup Final (18.86 million).

ESPN WORLD CUP COVERAGE: During the 2010 FIFA World Cup, ESPN ramped up its coverage to include more than 230 hours of live original HD programming. All 64 matches were televised live in HD on ESPN (44 matches), ESPN2 (10), and ABC (10). All 64 matches were also produced for ESPN Radio and ESPNRadio.com, as well as on mobile platforms.

In addition to airing all of the tournament games, ESPN instituted 65 hours of live studio programming from a state-of-the-art 2,000 sq. ft. set overlooking Soccer City in Johannesburg. Throughout the duration of the tournament, ESPN featured daily editions of SportsCenter, World Cup Live and World Cup Primetime news/information and highlights. Pre, post and halftime shows were also staples of the network's coverage throughout the 2010 FIFA World Cup.

ONLINE AND MOBILE COVERAGE: Online and mobile users showed tremendous growth during the 2010 FIFA World Cup. Studies found that 10 percent of ESPN users received their World Cup coverage through a medium other than TV. Internet use accounted for 61% of non-TV usage with 54 matches streamed live on ESPN3.com and all 64 matches available on mobile platforms. ESPN also provided users with 2 iPhone apps, 4 fantasy games and a mobile website to access content.

COMPARED TO...

The 2010 World Cup Final combined average viewers of 24.7 million is:

28 percent higher than 2009 MLB World Series average viewers of 19.3 million

375 percent higher than 2010 NHL Stanley Cup average viewers of 5.2 million

36 percent higher than 2010 NBA Final average viewers of 18.1 million

34 percent higher than 2009-10 NFL regular season average viewers of 18.4 million

3 percent higher than 2010 NCAA Basketball Championship final average viewers of 23.9 million.

"The 2010 FIFA World Cup was an overwhelming success for ESPN," said John Skipper, ESPN executive vice president for content.

"We experienced record viewership across multiple platforms, including television, broadband, online and ESPN Audio, and it was evident from the overwhelmingly positive reaction just how much fans were drawn to the spectacle of this global sports event."

We are already looking ahead with great anticipation to the 2014 FIFA World Cup in Brazil."

2013 U.S. SOCCER MEDIA GUIDELINES & POLICIES

Thank you for your coverage of U.S. Soccer and the U.S. National Teams. Please familiarize yourself with the information and policies in this document to make your coverage go as smoothly as possible. These guidelines and policies are enforced by the U.S. Soccer Communications Department. If you have questions about the policies listed here, please do not hesitate to contact U.S. Soccer Communications at communications@ussoccer.org or 312-808-1300.

GENERAL GUIDELINES

Professional Conduct

Media are expected to follow the guidelines set forth in this document, as well as the instructions of U.S. Soccer staff, stadium employees and security, or risk limitation of access or revocation of credentials.

Media credentials are issued with the purpose to provide access to interviews and written, audio and visual accounts of the game, as appropriate. Media member should not use access for autographs, personal photographs or commercial requests.

NO AUTOGRAPHS OR PERSONAL PHOTOGRAPHS DURING MEDIA ACCESS

Media credentialed for access to shoot photographs and/or video are expected to use professional equipment to file photographic or video accounts. Use of equipment such as 'point and shoot' style cameras that are not considered professional equipment could result in access being restricted or rescinded.

Media Services

Press Releases: To be added to the U.S. Soccer media distribution list, please send an e-mail request to communications@ussoccer.org.

Media Guides: To request a current media guide for the U.S. Men or Women's National Team, please send an e-mail request to communications@ussoccer.org.

Interview Requests: Media requesting interviews with U.S. National Team players, coaches or administrators should make arrangements with the U.S. Soccer Communications Department or the onsite press officer with the respective teams. When requesting and conducting interviews, media should identify the organization which they are representing, and provide advance notice if audio or video will be recorded for later distribution. All audio and video interviews are subject to U.S. Soccer's Video Guidelines which are included in this document.

ussoccer.com: Is the official web site of the U.S. Soccer Federation. All press releases – content that includes a dateline – are posted at ussoccer.com, and can be republished by media in their entirety.

Video: Media are welcome to embed videos that appear on ussoccer.com. Visit youtube.com/ussoccerdotcom and ussoccer.com/Multimedia/Media-Center.aspx#/video for the latest U.S. Soccer-produced videos.

B-roll & Interviews: At certain events, U.S. Soccer's Communications Department may be able to provide footage and interviews by request. To request b-roll or interviews, please e-mail communications@ussoccer.org to inquire about availability.

Twitter: U.S. Soccer provides updates at www.twitter.com/ussoccer that include breaking news and new content posted to ussoccer.com. Media are welcome to re-tweet ussoccer content, including play-by-play accounts.

Photography Requests

Head Shots: U.S. Soccer maintains a limited number of head and shoulder portraits of select U.S. National Team players and coaches that can be requested by e-mailing communications@ussoccer.org or calling 312-808-1300.

Action Photography: For action photos, please contact Annette Shelby at International Sports Images at 650-906-7753 or at annette@isiphotos.com. International Sports Images serves as the photography manager for U.S. Soccer. Media outlets can also search and preview the photography archive at isiphotos.com.

U.S. SOCCER EVENTS

Credentials

Applications: Media can request credentials for matches online at ussoccer.com. The online application process can be found by clicking on the Media Services link in the footer on the front page of ussoccer.com. Media can also contact U.S. Soccer Communications directly by phone at 312-808-1300 or e-mailing communications@ussoccer.org.

Deadlines: The deadline to apply for credentials to U.S. Soccer events is generally one (1) week prior to the game. There is no guarantee that late applications will be accepted.

Pickup: U.S. Soccer will distribute credential pickup times prior to each game. Credential pickup times generally coincide with media availabilities. For pickup on the day of the game, Media Will Call at the stadium will open at approximately two (3) hours before kickoff. Each media member must show identification in order to receive their credential. An individual cannot pick up more than one credential.

Credential Shipping: If you would like single-game credentials and parking passes (subject to availability) to be shipped, please provide a UPS or FedEx account number at least two (2) weeks prior to the game. Replacement parking passes cannot be provided if lost in transit.

Policies: In addition to the policies listed below, please note that only working media will be credentialed and no one under the age of 18 will be issued a credential without prior arrangements being made.

Season Credential Holders: All media provided season credentials must still inform the U.S. Soccer Communications Department of their plans to attend specific matches to ensure a space in the press box. Please do so at least one (1) week in advance of the match.

Media Facilities

Media facilities, including the press box and photographers' work area, will open approximately two (2) hours before each game.

Press Box: All seats will be assigned. Auxiliary seating arrangements will be made if the capacity of the press box is exceeded.

Photographer Work Room: Where available, a photographer work room will be available at field level.

Internet: Wireless internet access will be provided to media filing on deadline.

Phones: To request a phone line, email communications@ussoccer.org at least two (2) weeks prior to a game. The line will be installed at the cost of the requestor. Pool phones may be provided at some venues, but are not guaranteed.

Game Notes & Media Guides: Game notes and media guides will be placed at each seat and also on a table near the press box entrance.

Lineups: Official lineups are submitted approximately one (1) hour prior to kickoff. Lineups, which will include jersey numbers for each team, will be distributed to the media as quickly as possible.

Media Access / Interviews

There is no pre-game access to U.S. Soccer players and coaches on game days. No "flash" interviews are permitted on the field. All post-game access is in the press conference and mixed zone.

Press Conference: For Men's National Team games, there will be a formal press conference with the head coach and one player shortly after the final whistle. There will typically not be a press conference following Women's National Team games, as the head coach will be available to reporters in an on-field mixed zone.

Mixed Zone: Locker rooms are not open to the media at U.S. Soccer events. All post-game interviews will be conducted in a press conference or mixed zone. Players from both teams will typically be available in the mixed zone. For Men's National Team events, the mixed zone will be near the locker rooms. For Women's National Team events, the mixed zone will be on the field.

Print & Online Media

Live Blogging / Commentary: Live blogging of U.S. Soccer events from either the venue or via the television broadcast is subject to our Live Blogging Guidelines. The guidelines are included in Appendix II of this document.

Video: Please notify U.S. Soccer in advance if your coverage includes video recording. Any video footage, including interviews, gathered by print and online media is subject to the U.S. Soccer Video Guidelines. The Video Guidelines are included in Appendix I of this document.

Audio: Please notify U.S. Soccer in advance if your coverage includes audio recording. Any audio, including interviews, gathered by radio, print and online media is subject to the U.S. Soccer Audio Use Guidelines. The guidelines are included in Appendix III of this document.

Radio - Non Rights Holders

Non-rights-holding radio journalists are welcome to conduct pre-game and post-game reports from the Press Box, but NO play-by-play reports are permitted. Radio non-rights-holders will have access to post-match press conference and mixed zone unless otherwise notified. Radio outlets interesting in purchasing rights should contact U.S. Soccer at 312-808-1300.

Audio: Any audio, including interviews, gathered by radio, print and online media is subject to the U.S. Soccer Audio Use Guidelines. The guidelines are included in Appendix III of this document.

Field Access

Print, online and radio writers and reporters are not permitted on the field at anytime. Media members granted field access must have a working purpose. Representatives from the broadcast media who are not filing reports, but would like to attend as an observer, should inform U.S. Soccer of such when making the application.

Still Photographers

Locations: Still photographers are permitted to shoot U.S. Soccer events from behind the field sign boards in either end zone. At events where space allows, photographers may also shoot on the sideline opposite the benches between the end line and the 18-yard line. The attacking direction of the teams is determined by a coin toss. Following the coin toss, photographers must pick one end of the field to shoot for the entire half. The ONLY time photographers may change ends is at halftime. At no time are photographers allowed on the field of play.

Bibs: All photographers are required to wear an orange bib as provided by U.S. Soccer. The bib is lightweight and designed to be worn outside of outerwear and be visible at all times. Please return the bibs to a photo marshal following the game, or leave them in the press box / photographers' work room.

Pre-Game Photos: Each team's starters will pose for a pre-game photo near the bench area following the national anthems. Photographers should gather in the near-side corners once the teams leave the field after warm-ups. U.S. Soccer will escort the photographers to midfield.

Field Watering: The grounds crew may water the field prior to warm ups and also 10 minutes prior to kickoff. Please be responsible for your equipment during this time.

Non-Rights Holder Video (ENG)

Video Footage: All non-rights holders and ENG crews must follow the U.S. Soccer Video Guidelines for all footage gathered at events. The Video Guidelines are included in Appendix I of this document.

TV Reporters: ENG reporters may stay on the field until 30 minutes prior to kickoff to shoot 'scene sets,' and are not allowed on the field again until after the conclusion of the game. Reporters/anchors will not be issued a bib.

Location: ENG cameras are permitted to shoot U.S. Soccer events from behind the field sign boards in either end zone. The attacking direction of the teams is determined by a coin toss. Following the coin toss, ENG cameras must pick one end of the field to shoot for the entire half. The ONLY time ENG crews may change ends is at halftime. At no time are any media members allowed on the field of play.

Bibs: All ENG camera operators and ENG producers are required to wear an orange bib as provided by U.S. Soccer. The bib is lightweight and designed to be worn outside of outerwear and be visible at all times. Please return the bibs to a photo marshal following the game, or leave them in the press box / photographers' work room.

Field Watering: The grounds crew may water the field prior to warm-ups and also 10 minutes prior to kickoff. Please be responsible for your equipment during this time. U.S. Soccer is not responsible for damage to any equipment.

Live Newscasts: Please contact U.S. Soccer in advance of the event if you would like to broadcast live pre or post-game as part of a newscast from the stadium.

APPENDIX I: NON-RIGHTS HOLDER VIDEO GUIDELINES

Television Broadcasters

Game Action: Television broadcasters can use footage of U.S. Soccer events obtained either via 1) their own recording or 2) action dubbed from a U.S. Soccer rights holder broadcast with credit only in connection with its regularly scheduled news programming within a week of the game. This footage should not exceed two (2) minutes. Highlights aired as part of a continuous news program should not be longer than one (1) minute per 30-minute segment.

Filming – Game Action: For televised events, non-rights holders / ENG cameras may record the first 15 minutes of each half (from 00:00 to 15:00 and 45:00 to 60:00 on the game clock). For non-televised events, non-rights holders / ENG cameras may record the entire game but are still subject to the aforementioned limits.

Filming – Interviews and Scene Sets: There is no limit to the gathering of footage pre-game, at halftime and post-game. All footage gathered is subject to the usage guidelines indicated in this document.

Previews or Advances: In advance of a U.S. Soccer event, television broadcasters can use two (2) minutes of archival game action to preview an upcoming event. In the local/regional markets, broadcasters should mention the time and location of the game along with their report. Outside of the local markets, broadcasters should mention the time and broadcast information.

Television Broadcasters' Web Sites: Video produced for air as part of regular programming that is simulcast or archived online, must be accompanied by a link to ussoccer.com. Content produced exclusively for the internet is subject to the guidelines for Online Video.

Online Video

Game Action: Online organizations (including print publications that post video online) are not permitted to film or use game action video at anytime time. Game Action includes any footage of the field, teams, etc., following the beginning of the television broadcast window. Only video of off-field activities (i.e. interviews, training sessions) may be recorded.

Non-Game Video: Any video posted online that is recorded as part of media access is limited to the use of eight (8) minutes per day/activity date. Online video may not incorporate integrated advertising and must be accompanied by links to ussoccer.com.

Professional Presentation: Online video is expected to be recorded, edited and presented in a professional manner. Video must be presented/hosted on an organization's web site, and not solely on a site provided by a third-party (i.e. YouTube, Vimio, Facebook, etc.).

Online Video Sites: Organizations who regularly post video to online video sites (i.e. YouTube, Vimio, etc.) may not include advertising with video gathered as a result of media access. Allowing users to embed these videos is not permitted, and the description any video must include a link to ussoccer.com.

APPENDIX III: NON-RIGHTS HOLDER AUDIO GUIDELINES

Radio Broadcasters

Play-by-Play Accounts: Play by play accounts are forbidden by non-rights holders at any time.

Non-Game Audio: Any online audio recorded as part of media access is limited to the use of eight (8) minutes per day/activity date. Audio posted on radio broadcaster web sites must comply with Online Guidelines below.

Online

Non-Game Audio: Any audio recorded as part of media access is limited to the use of eight (8) minutes per day/activity date. Online audio may not incorporate integrated advertising and must be accompanied by links to ussoccer.com.

APPENDIX III: LIVE WRITTEN UPDATES

All Media

Online or text reports (e.g., live blogs, twitter, etc.) concerning U.S. Soccer games while they are in progress ("Live Written Updates") are subject to following:

- While a game is in progress, any accounts of the game must be time-delayed and/or limited in amount so that the game coverage provided cannot be used as a substitute for authorized play-by-play accounts.
- Any suggestion by an individual or entity that live updates are being provided as a substitute for authorized play-by play accounts is strictly prohibited.
- Live updates may not use any audio, video or graphic simulations of U.S. Soccer games.
- Live updates must provide television and radio broadcast information for that U.S. Soccer Game. For example: "Tonight's U.S. Soccer Game is being broadcast live on (name of television/radio station)."
- All entities providing Live Updates must post a link to the ussoccer.com MatchTracker. All entities may also utilize U.S. Soccer's Twitter feed.
- All live updates must be free of charge to readers.

NOTE: This policy does not prohibit the posting of the facts of a game (e.g., goals scored, cards given, game score, and time remaining).
